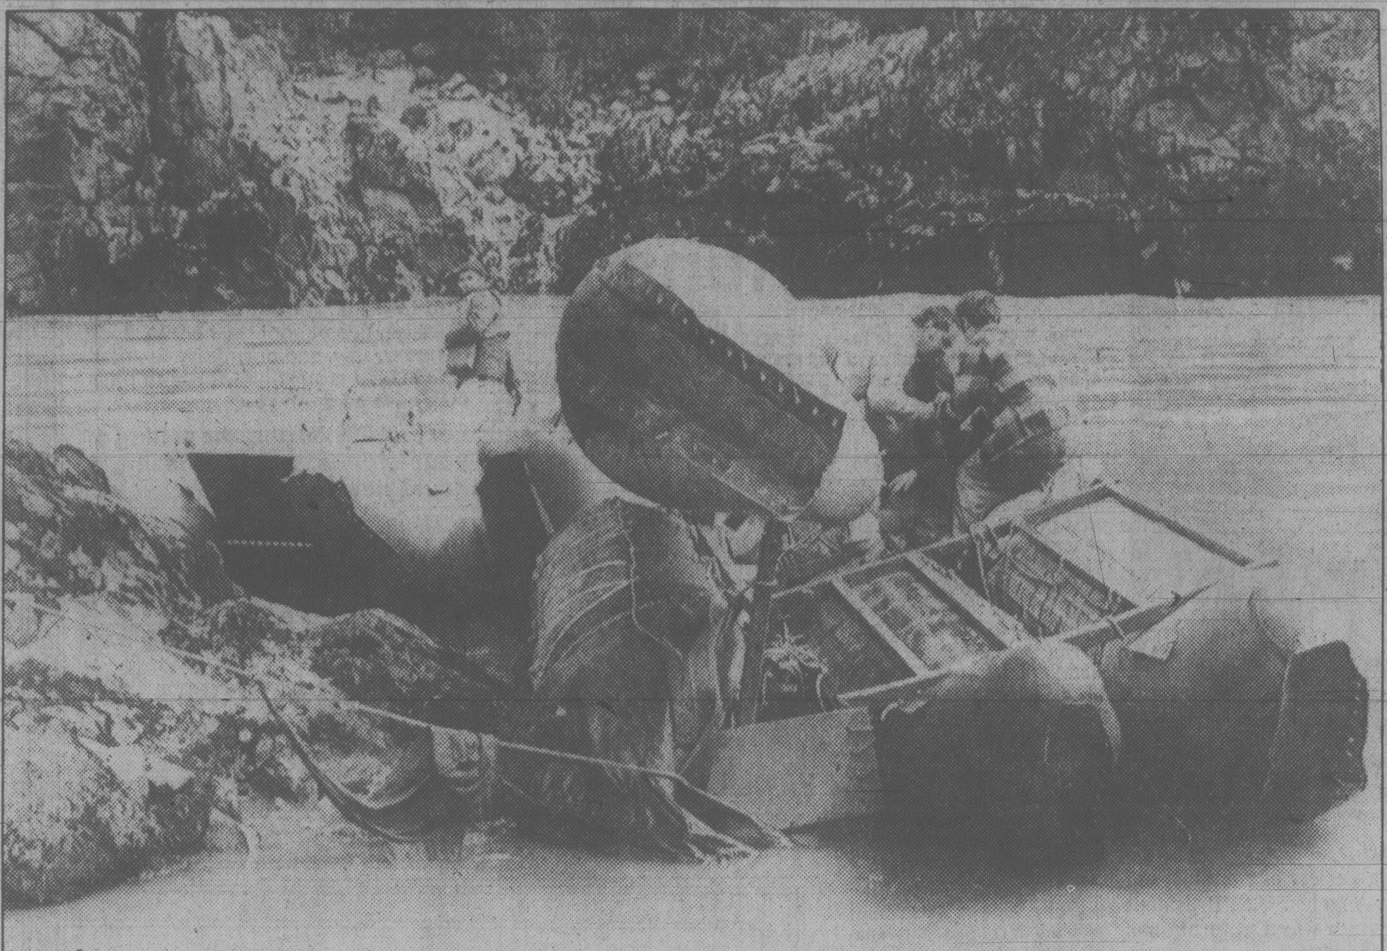
Troops Out or War Says IRA



THREE MEN DIED when this raft carrying 10 men and one woman overturned in a turbulent section of the Fraser River near Boston Bar Sunday. The raft, operated by Cascade River Holidays Ltd. of Yale, was on the last leg of a three-day tour which started on the Thompson River and was to have wound up at Yale. The three bodies were recovered downstream. Two passengers were injured and had to be helped, above, from the wreckage. Both were reported in stable condition in Hope hospital.

Assassination Plot Foiled by Police

Times News Services

LONDON — The Irish Republican Army has threatened to wage war on the fledging government of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher unless all British soldiers leave Northern Ireland.

And informed police sources also said Sunday Scotland Yard agents foiled a pre-election plot by Irish Republican Army extremists to assassinate Roy Mason, the outgoing British secretary for Northern Ireland.

The IRA statement followed the shooting deaths of two security officers outside a Catholic church in the village of Lisnaskea in County Fermanagh at noon Sunday.

Claiming responsibility for the killing of Sgt. Robert Maughan, 30, and detective Norman Prue, 29, the IRA warned Mrs. Thatcher's government to "take this opportunity to initiate a withdrawal and let the Irish people exercise their democratic right of determining their own future. Bloodshed can be avoided and peace can be reached.

"Should you decide against peace and for a military victory then we promise that our just war will be relentlessly pursued. . . We are used to suffering. You people are not," the statement said.

The soldier and policeman, both plainclothes intelligence officers, were killed as they were sitting in their unmarked car outside a Roman Catholic church in the border village of Lisnaskea.

The killings raised the known death toll in Northern Ireland's decade of sectarian conflict to 1,908. At least 18 persons, most of them members of the security forces, have been slain in the last month in the bloodiest spasm of violence in more than a year.

The police sources said the attack on Mason was planned for last month while the 55-year-old cabinet minister was campaigning in his electoral district of Barnsley, northern England.

Mason apparently was a target because of his tough stance against the IRA and his refusal to give convicted IRA guerrillas the status of political prisoners.

Military intelligence agents in Northern Ireland received word of the plan by the IRA's Provisional wing and alerted authorities in London, the police sources said.

Scotland Yard doubled Mason's bodyguard and set up an emergency security plan, the sources said, and the Provisionals called off the operation when they realized their scheme had been discovered.

Details of the alleged plan were not given.

PRAIRIES HIT BY SNOW

A broad band of the Prairies is recovering today from the effects of a snowstorm which dumped from seven to 20 centimetres of snow on the area Sunday.

Calgary received seven centimetres of wet snow and it was still coming down intermittently late Sunday night.

About 19 centimetres fell on Lethbridge, and heavy snowfall was reported at Banff, Pincher Creek, Medicine Hat and Regina.

By comparison, northern centres such as Edmonton were dry with temperatures reaching 7° C. Calgary's high was 1°.

Flooding or its muddy aftermath remained a major problem for thousands of Canadians on Sunday.

In Manitoba's Red River Valley, Premier Sterling Lyon flew into the southern community of Morris to confer with Emergency Measures Organization personnel. The discussions centred on the return of the 7,000 residents evacuated in the area extending from the United States border to Winnipeg.

"I think now there can be a very orderly re-entry process with primary responsibility resting with the municipalities," Lyon said Sunday after his return to Winnipeg, 60 kilometres north.

But, he warned, "The water is going to hang around, according to the best estimates, for some time."

Gasoline Shortage Hits Vegas 'Gulch'

Times News Services

The weekend gasoline shortage hit Nevada with a staggering 40 per cent drop in room occupancy at some gambling resorts.

And in California, hundreds of motorists left gasless automobiles parked in lines at gas pumps through the weekend, awaiting the opening of service stations today, probably the final day before the "odd-even" fuel rationing plan is imposed.

Hotel casinos in downtown Las Vegas's "Glitter Gulch" were particularly hit by the gas crunch while "Strip" resorts said occupancy was only "down somewhat."

Las Vegas hotels and motels normally boast of capacity occupancy on weekends during the busy summer months.

A night manager at the Tropicana Hotel on the "Strip" said business Saturday was down to 85 per cent capacity.

Few gas stations were open during the weekend and those that were had long lines of cars waiting to fill up.

In Burbank, Calif., a woman in a bathrobe pulled into a service station at dawn Sunday, locked up her car alongside the pumps, unhitched a bicycle from a bumper rack and pedalled off.

By dusk Sunday, hundreds of owners had locked up their cars in lines to return at sunrise today for station openings in what may well be the final day of free-for-all fuel purchases.

Line crashers are greeted by honking horns, irate screams and, sometimes — violence.

Diton Williams, 28, was arrested at a Hollywood Union Oil station where he allegedly cut in front of about 50 motorists waiting in line. When approached by angry drivers, he reportedly pulled a pistol and warded them off while he pumped his gas. Police said he was

MD Fee Accord?

Negotiating teams for the B.C. health ministry and the B.C. Medical Association have come up with tentative agreement over the doctors' fee schedule.

The two sides have been trying to reach an agreement since November.

The two-year package still has to go before the BCMA board of directors who will decide Wednesday whether to recommend acceptance of rejection of the offer.

The board's recommendation will go to the membership in the form of a referendum within a day or two of the board's decision, BCMA executive director Dr. Norman Rigby said today.

No detail of the package are being released except the fact it covers two years.

Historically the contracts have run for one year.

65,000 Join In N-Protest

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — They were at least 65,000 strong, with one purpose — opposition to nuclear power — and two major targets, President Carter and Energy Secretary James Schlesinger.

Chanting "No more nukes — No more Harrisburgs," the largest anti-nuclear power crowd in U.S. history gave nuclear power critics hope the issues raised would play a key roll in deciding whether President Carter is re-elected.

The all-day rally and march on the Capitol Sunday was sponsored by the May 6 Coalition, organized after the March 28 nuclear accident at the Three Mile Island reactor near Harrisburg, Penn. It was biggest protest in Washington since the end of the Vietnam War, and the thrust was mostly aimed at Carter.

Despite the accident at Three Mile Island, the president has called for continued development of atomic power, although ordering a review of safety procedures.

"Has Jimmy Carter deceived you?" shouted consumer activist Ralph Nader.

The crowd roared back: "Yes."

"What you're seeing now is the beginning of a massive outpouring of citizen protest," Nader said later. "We'll be back again and again until the country moves to more energy efficiency and solar energy."

Benjamin Spock, pediatrician and former anti-war activist, said: "Today the anti-nuclear power movement has gone national."

Said actress Jane Fonda, one of the organizers and a star in the anti-nuclear movie China Syndrome: "If the president does not replace James Schlesinger, then he himself will be replaced in 1980 and that is a fact."

California Gov. Edmund Brown made no effort to discourage speculation he might challenge Carter for the Democratic presidential nomination and said he expects the issue to be fully debated in the 1980 race.

"It already is an issue," Brown told reporters. "It was an issue in my campaign for governor. I don't think it's going to go away." He called on Carter to "give up his idea of streamlining the licensing process of nuclear reactors."

The president is proposing legislation to shorten the time to get approval to build and and licence a nuclear plant.

Turnout for Barrett here Sunday night was the biggest of the campaign so far

Arena Bulging at Seams As Barrett Attracts 8,000

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

NDP leader Dave Barrett drew the biggest crowd of the provincial election campaign here Sunday night and delivered his shortest speech.

Some of the 8,000 at Memorial Arena were disappointed with the 15-minute abbreviated version of his now-standard campaign address, but for the most part the wildly cheering crowd of partisan supporters were delighted.

At the Social Credit rally in the arena Tuesday, Premier Bill Bennett spoke for about 70 minutes to a crowd of about 3,100.

Organizers said the Dave Barrett and Friends event was intended as an entertainment evening, not a standard political rally as the May 10 election day draws nearer.

But those who waited through the second set of musical performers to hear what they thought would be the second half of Barrett's speech, were disappointed again.

Barrett's second appearance at 10 p.m. was simply a brief visit on stage to join in a chorus of the Canadianized version of the Woody Guthrie classic: This Land Is Your Land.

By 7 p.m. is was evident to rally organizers they had badly misjudged the number who would attend. A half hour before the event was scheduled to begin, every available seat in the stands and on the floor with a view of the stage was full.

The curtain backdrop behind the stage was quickly removed, putting politicians and performers in a theatre-in-the-round situation, but allowing those behind to see, if not hear.

The sound system was aimed in one direction and the rally was nearly over before additional speakers were mounted to the rear.

Those in the back also complained about the intensity of the television lights.

But as one organizer shouted cheerfully: "How

still pumping gas when the officers got there.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. was expected to sign an executive order today giving the state's 58 counties authority to insitute the odd-even sale days for gasoline.

Under the plan, motorists with license plates ending in odd numbers could buy gas only on odd-numbered dates. Likewise for even-numbered dates.

Los Angeles, Orange and Santa Clara counties already have indicated they will adopt the plan immediately.

President Carter's weekend visit to California coincided with the state's most serious gas shortage so far, and after seeing the long lines at the gas pumps the president asked Energy Secretary James Schlesinger to report by the end of next week on why the California shortages are so acute.

The fuel crisis has also hit buses of the Rapid Transit District, whose drivers complain they are unable to meet schedules because long lines are blocking bus stops.

Topping off seems to be the main strategy in the gas lines. Keeping the fuel gauge on full has become an obsession with motorists often waiting in line for hours for just a few gallons.

Gas containers of every imaginable variety — including milk cartons and trash cans — are hauled to the pumps.

Among those waiting for gasoline Sunday was a woman who spent 6½ hours in her car. She said she got in line at 9:30 a.m. waiting for the station to open at 4 p.m.

Line crashers are greeted by honking horns, irate screams and, sometimes — violence.

AS GAS supplies grow shorter and gas lines grow longer, people line up to fill a variety of containers in a residential section of Los Angeles. U.S. President Carter has order an inquiry into why California has been so hard-hit by the gas shortage.

Showdown for Amin?

MASINDI, Uganda (UPI) — Tanzanian-led government forces have thrust into the northwestern corner of Uganda to flush out the last remnants of Idi Amin's army — possibly being led by the deposed dictator himself.

Sweeping in through the northeast, where they overran Soroti, Masindi and adjacent Port Masindi on the Nile river, government soldiers found further evidence of atrocities committed by the retreating Amin troops.

On the outskirts of Masindi a man was found impaled to a tree, a nail driven through his head.

Government and church sources said they feared reprisals against the civilian population by soldiers loyal to Amin. Unofficial estimates said thousands of people may have been slaughtered.

In addition to large numbers of people missing in rural areas, about 500 Western missionaries and nuns are still unaccounted for in the northwest.

Masindi itself was deserted, most shops looted. Local officials said Amin's troops robbed the local bank of a half million dollars before pulling out.

The local artillery barracks appeared to have been hastily abandoned. Artillery pieces, rifles, ammunition and warehouses full of uniforms and boots were left behind. The Tanzanian soldiers helped themselves to new boots after walking most of the 150 miles from the capital of Kampala.

Government forces now control three-fifths of Uganda and the latest advances set the stage for a showdown battle for control of Amin's hometown district.

Ferries Start Extra Runs

The B.C. Ferry Corporation has made a number of changes in its summer schedules to allow more departures on several routes, a spokesman said today.

Corporate communications manager Bill Bouchard said in a news release that in anticipation of a another record season for traffic the ferry authority has pressed all available ships into service to meet peak demands.

The scheduling changes and return of newly-stretched smaller vessels to their routes before summer will enable the corporation to provide "greater lift-off capacity than ever before" in its 19-year history, he said.

Here's the general picture:

Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay: Starting June 15, 20 sailings in each direction plus supplementary service from the Queen of Tsawwassen, which will also call at two Gulf Island ports. This ship will be used to relieve pressure during peak traffic periods. The midnight sailing has been cancelled because it was poorly used last year.

Horseshoe Bay-Departure Bay: Effective May 18, 13 sailings daily in each direction, eight of which will be made by jumbo vessels with capacity for 360 vehicles and 1,500 passengers.

Horseshoe Bay-Langdale: Twelve departures in each direction starting May 18. In addition, an extra round trip will be made Fridays, Sundays and holiday Mondays to carry more traffic during the heavy weekend period. The last scheduled nightly sailing to the Sunshine Coast will be at 11:30 p.m.

Earl's Cove-Saltery Bay, Sunshine Coast: Summer schedule takes effect June 15. With the return of the stretched Powell River Queen and supplementary service supplied by the Pender Queen (which carries no buses), the number of sailings in each direction will be increased to 12. Last sailing to Saltery Bay will be at 10.30 p.m.

'Trial of Century' Opens Tuesday

Jeremy Thorpe faces life sentence

LONDON (UPI) — Jeremy Thorpe, former leader of the Liberal Party, steps into the prisoners' dock at the Old Bailey Tuesday to be tried for conspiracy and incitement to murder.

Thorpe, the urbane lawyer who only four years ago was voted Britain's most popular politician, faces a possible life sentence.

Thorpe's case, called by newspapers the "trial of the century," is unprecedented in the nation's history. No British politican has faced such serious criminal charges.

The head of the nation's third largest party for nine years, Thorpe comes to trial through a labyrinth of accusations stemming from his relationship with a former stablehand and model named Norman Scott.

Scott claims he and Thorpe were lovers and that Thorpe tried to have him killed out of fear he was going to expose their involvement. Thorpe ackowledges he knew Scott but vigorously denies there was any homosexual relationship.

In between lie all the things mystery novels are made of — charges of a hired killer, a lonely moor, a shot that killed a dog instead of the intended victim, hush money and blackmail.

The case first was heard in November by three magistrates in the seaside town of Minehead. After more than two weeks, including days of lurid testimony by Scott, they ruled there was enough evidence for a jury trial.

Thorpe and three others, a banker, a businessman and an amusement machine distributor, all face charges of conspiring to murder Scott. Thorpe alone faces a separate charge of inciting the banker, David Holmes, to murder Scott.

He campaigned vigorously for re-election in his southwest district, but went down to a crushing defeat, losing the parliamentary seat he held for 20 years.

Asked about the trial's effect on his campaign, the 50-year-old Thorpe repled, "It obviously has not been of assistance."

At his side throughout has been his second wife, Marion, a former concert pianist who once was married to a cousin of the queen. "Nothing could shake her love for Jeremy," said one friend.

Thorpe's life has seesawed between tragedy and triumph.

He entered Parliament on his second try, in 1959, and took over leadership of the Liberals in 1967. In 1970 he led his party to a disastrous election defeat, leaving it on the brink of annihilation. The same year his first wife died in a car accident, leaving him with an infant son.

He married Marion in 1973 and by 1974 was steering the Liberals to their biggest post-war electoral success.

Thorpe was touted as a senior Cabinet minister or possible deputy prime minister. But two years later he resigned as Liberal leader at the height of the Scott scandal.

In testimony at Minehead, the 38-year-old Scott claimed to have been Thorpe's lover from 1961 to 1965. He offered to prove his claims by describing warts on Thorpe's body.

A self-proclaimed "hit man" named Andrew Newton said he was paid $20,000 by friends of Thorpe in 1975 to kill Scott, who by then had married and fathered a child. Newton said he wound up shooting only Scott's Great Dane, Rinka, on a lonely moor.

Thorpe sat impassively during the testimony and did not take the stand.

'Drowned' Son Comes Home Year Later

A 24-year-old former college student who was believed to have drowned last year in Lake Michigan is back home in South Deerfield, Mass., saying he has no memory of the last 14 months of his life. Steven Kubacki says he woke up Saturday night 65 kilometres from his father's house. He was the subject of an intensive search after his skis and backpack were found along the Lake Michigan shoreline south of Holland, Mich., on Feb. 20, 1978. "They told us he slipped under the ice," Kubacki's father, John, a 53-year-old retired factory worker, said Sunday. The younger Kubacki said he was lying in a meadow when he awoke Saturday. "I didn't know where I was," he said. "I was wearing clothes that weren't mine. I started going through a pack which I assumed was mine, and I found maps. I would guess I was hitch-hiking. I didn't know what the date was until I walked into town and got a newspaper."

As soon as folks in Parton, Scotland, found out the Country Music Association had dubbed Dolly Parton Best Female Vocalist of the year, they invited her to visit. Also eager to join in the festivities are residents of another town nearby — one called Wigtown. Dolly is well known for her collection of honey-blonde wigs and her Scottish fans promise to present her with "the wig to end all wigs." In plaid, maybe?

Danny Lee gambled away almost all the $2,500 his father sent him recently to buy a car, then spent his last $20 on lottery tickets and won a Cadillac. The 19-year-old native of Hong Kong lost the money in card games three days after his father sent it to him at the school he's attending in Peterborough, Ont. He said he will work hard next year in high school and quit gambling.

Film director Roman Polanski says he may return to the United States, which he fled 15 months ago, to be sentenced for having sex unlawfully with a 13-year-old girl, Newsweek magazine reported Sunday. The magazine said Polanski told an interviewer in Paris that "hysteria will no longer be predominant" and that his case is being viewed "in a more rational light." Newsweek quoted the director as saying: "She was just a nice girl. I pleaded guilty to avoid the carnival proceedings of a public trial and to protect the girl's anonymity."

A 14-year-old youth who must wait three more years to be eligible for a pilot's license says his 220-mile stint flying a plane "blind" might give him a place in the Guinness Book of World Records. Ronald Crane flew a single-engine plane from Bolingbrook to Champaign, Ill., with a special hood on his head to limit his vision to the instrument panel. He said he thinks he set a world record as the youngest person to fly "blind." Crane was accompanied by an instructor.

Wayne's Fans Offer Wishes, Remedies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fans and friends are offering John Wayne cancer remedies along with prayers and best wishes as the tough-guy actor battles the disease, hospital officials said Sunday.

The 71-year-old Wayne, who spent "a comfortable night" at UCLA Medical Centre after a Saturday visit from President Carter, is scheduled to undergo an experimental medical program in an effort to combat the cancer discovered in his intestines last week.

"He had a comfortable night and slept most of the evening and night," Joyce Farish, nursing supervisor, said Sunday.

The hospital has received hundreds of letters for Wayne and telephone calls have come from Canada, France, Britain and all parts of the United States, said hospital official Melissa Wolfson.

The latest attack of cancer was discovered after doctors operated last week to remove an intestinal blockage, said hospital administrator Bernard Strohm.

"The tissue removed certainly did have cancer throughout it," Strohm said.

Crown Seeks to Jail Prominent Businessmen in Dredging Case

TORONTO (CP) — Crown Attorney Roderick McLeod says he will seek prison terms for five prominent businessmen convicted Saturday of conspiracy to defraud government agencies by rigging bids for dredging contracts.

An Ontario Supreme Court jury deliberated 12 days before returning with a verdict in which it convicted five of 11 executives and eight of their nine companies charged.

The 11-member jury — a 12th member was excused last October because of ill health — returned 49 verdicts, acquitting five of the defendants outright but failed to reach a decision on four other counts. It neither acquitted nor convicted Peter Kiewit and Sons Co. Ltd. of Toronto and its vice-president and general manager, John Bahen.

The Crown must now decide how to proceed on those counts. The no-decision finding means there has been a mistrial on that count.

Associate Chief Justice William Parker will pass sentence on June 4.

The executives and the nine companies went on trial Feb. 13, 1978, charged with conspiring to defraud public agencies of about $4.3 million between 1967 and 1976.

Convicted were: Harold McNamara, 65, of Toronto, former president and chairman of the board of McNamara Corp; Sydney Cooper, 57, of Toronto, former president of Pitts Engineering Construction Ltd.; Jean Simard, 57, of Laval-sur-le-Lac, Que., former vice-chairman of Marine Industries Ltd. and J. P. Porter Co. Ltd.; Frank Hamata of Vancouver, president of Sceptre Dredging Ltd.; and Albert Gill of Vancouver, senior vice-president of Sceptre.

Acquitted were: Gerald Filion, 69, of St. Bruno, Que., former president of Marine Industries Ltd.; Hugh A. Martin, 64, of Vancouver, chairman of the board of Canadian Dredge and Dock Co. Ltd.; James Jarrell of Toronto, vice-president of Pitts Engineering; Louis Rochette, 54, of Quebec City, former executive vice-president of Marine Industries; and Bruno Desjardins of Baie d'Urfe, Que., former director of J. P. Porter.

Thieves Get Chop

LAHORE, Pakistan (Reuter) — Two bank robbers have been sentenced to have their right hands and left feet amputated in the first such decision since the introduction of strict Islamic law in the country, the Associated Press of Pakistan said Sunday.

Tayyab Ahmed and Sikandar Masih were convicted by an Islamic court of robbing a bank in Shwal, 160 kilometres from Lahore, the agency said.

Laws allowing for the amputation of hand and foot for theft, stoning to death for adultery and whipping for Moslems who drink alcohol were implemented by the military government as part of a strict Islamic legal system in February.

BRING CAPITAL PUNISHMENT TO PARLIAMENT HILL

This election, know what you're voting for.

The issues have never been more pressing; their resolution never more crucial to the future of this country. Capital punishment is one of those issues. And no matter which side you take, it's essential that the candidate who gets your vote, truthfully represents your beliefs.

Find out where your candidate stands on capital punishment. Let's not repeat the breakdown in communications we've seen before: 70% of the population favouring retention, and 50% of their elected representatives voting for abolition.

The Canadian Police Association is for capital punishment – whether a premeditated murder involves one of us or one of you. We've made our feelings known and we'll vote accordingly.

Make sure your new MP represents what you believe. Ask this simple question: ARE YOU FOR OR AGAINST THE USE OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT?

You'll never know until you force the issue.

Economic issues

The fifth in a series of editorials on the major issues of the provincial election campaign.

If there is one single issue in the 1979 B.C. election this is it — which party, NDP or Social Credit, is better able to cope with the economic issues of the 1980s? Which party can do more to reduce unemployment? Which party is going to do more to guide the next few years of economic growth and development in B.C.?

The Socreds have a built-in advantage because they are perceived by the public as the party that is primarily concerned about the creation of wealth, a precondition to economic development. The NDP, on the other hand, is thought to be mainly concerned with the distribution of wealth. The Socreds do not hesitate to state that there's little point in planning how to distribute wealth you don't have.

During the campaign, however, the NDP has been fighting hard to overcome this image. Far more than the Socreds, the NDP has outlined several specific proposals to aid economic development in B.C. For a couple of weeks during the middle of the campaign, it seemed every speech Dave Barrett gave included in a new promise to help or co-operate with industry or to begin projects that would create hundreds or thousands of jobs.

The biggest of these is undoubtedly Barrett's proposal to extend the B.C. Railway to Alaska, using the line to open up the northwestern part of the province. It's a proposal that is an extension of a long-held Barrett vision, first begun as "the way out" — a plan for an oil-carrying railway — when he was premier.

It's a popular vision. Although John Diefenbaker has not been prime minister for 15 years, many Canadians still thrill to northern development dreams. Now, many also would prefer a railway carrying oil and natural gas from Alaska to the continental U.S. rather than spill-prone tankers sailing just off the B.C. coast.

Perhaps its very popularity is one reason why Premier Bill Bennett has said so little about it. His only comment has been that such a railway would be incredibly expensive (some sources suggest a total cost of $2 billion or more) and that he wants to see most of the money put up by the U.S. before he would participate in such a project. That's not an unreasonable stand since B.C. certainly doesn't have $2 billion for one single project.

Another of Barrett's proposals has been an oil refinery at Merritt — which is interesting, because the area badly needs economic development. Oil industry experts wonder, however, if the refinery would ever be economic. They think the site may be too far from major markets to be viable.

Other specific proposals from the NDP have included a suggestion for a small petrochemical industry in the one-industry town of Powell River, and an expansion of the B.C. Development Corporation to provide more help to small and medium-size businesses.

Barrett has emphasized throughout the campaign that B.C. should be creating more secondary industry instead of just exploiting our natural resources. It's a logical point but one that is exceedingly difficult to turn into reality.

Bennett, on the other hand, has made few economic development promises. In this area he has mainly run on his record, noting the improvement in growth in several industries during the past three years, noting the commitments given by some large private firms to upgrading and expanding their B.C. operations.

The improvement in some industries has certainly been noticeable. In the natural gas business, for examples, record prices for the sales of development prices have been paid the government in the last year or two. Exploration and development have also increased in the mining business since the Socreds abolished the NDP royalty system.

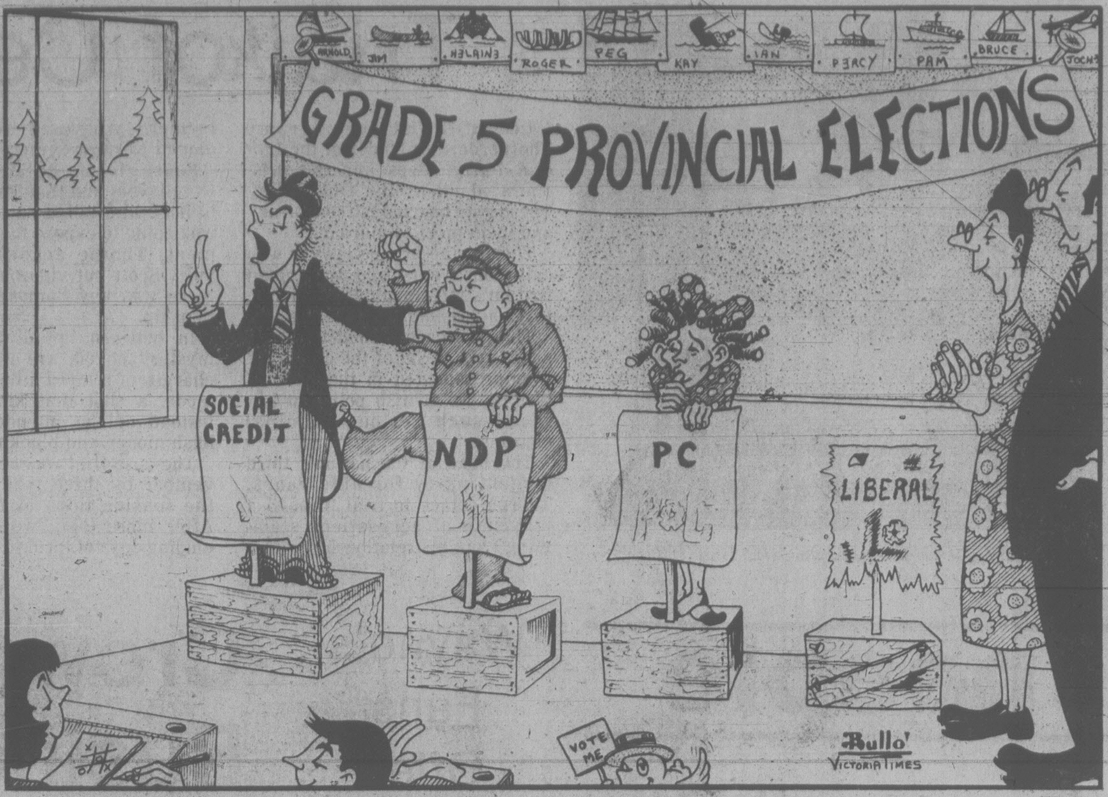
The Socreds' big ally in the economic development issue is business. One large company, Teck Corp., has gone so far as to say it might cancel a planned major project if the NDP is reelected. Other businessmen have let it be known that major companies in the province, especially the multinational resource corporations, would be very cautious about any future investment in under an NDP government.

This is an almost impossibly difficult handicap for the NDP to counter. The threat is not that business would react to specific steps the NDP might take but that it would pull back at the mere election of the party. Since there's little Barrett could say or do — either now or if he were elected — to counter this attitude, it is left as the relatively helpless victim of this campaign.

Barrett has been trying, however. He has promised that the royalty system so detested by the mining companies would not be brought back. Rather, a new tax will be negotiated with individual companies.

He has also promised to set up a business advisory committee, getting business representatives to help his administration determine policy to encourage economic growth.

Barrett has obviously learned something from the mistakes he made in government. Whether he has learned enough and whether business will give him a chance to are both questions open to doubt.



". . . interesting project, but it does make you wonder about the influence of television on children . . ."

RICHARD GWYN

The best PM we never had

SYDNEY, N.S. — To quote yourself is the worst possible taste in a writer. Still, I've always been kind of pleased with my description, about three years ago, of Robert Stanfield as "the best prime minister we never had."

Near the close of an interview at the end of a long day here, Stanfield topped that line. I had asked the inevitable question — whether he might not have quit too soon since just about everybody says this election would be no contest if he were still Conservative leader.

Stanfield shrugged aside the question at first. Then, in that familiar drawl that is the legacy of a childhood stutter overcome, he remarked: "I have come to realize from all the eulogies I have received after I retired, that the country did not deserve to have me as prime minister."

One last hurrah

To go from self-mockery to self-accusation, maybe he has a point. People do get the government they deserve. Three times, we decided Stanfield wasn't deserving of us. Now, the personification of that kind of political integrity that, in Canada, seems to grow best in Nova Scotia's rocks (think of Premier Allan Blakeney, who started here, then moved to Saskatchewan), he's gone.

Not quite, Stanfield is making one last, long, hurrah. He's campaigning as hard as he can for Joe Clark and, at least as much, as hard as he can against Pierre Trudeau.

Ask Stanfield about Clark and he says right away: "He's a decent man." You realize why he uses that phrase when you ask him about Trudeau. "Cynic" is the word Stanfield uses most often.

Stanfield's explanation of why he views Trudeau with distaste is interesting. He says he was, "annoyed" when Trudeau zapped him with the "two nations" tag in 1968, "yet I still believed Mr. Trudeau was fundamentally serious about national unity." Even when Trudeau zapped him with controls in 1974, "I still took the attitude that he may have felt that it was all part of the political game."

Bitterness only turned into distaste in 1977, when Trudeau drew Jack Horner, the leader of the anti-bilingual faction in the Conservative caucus, into his cabinet. "That really shook me. It was an exercise in complete cynicism. I am afraid that to Mr. Trudeau, the pursuit of power has become an objective in itself."

So he's out campaigning against cynicism. The day begins at 6 a.m. in Halifax. "My job is to wake up the advance man," Stanfield tells us — his wife Ann, two reporters, the advance man — as we assemble in the hotel lobby. In the car, windshield wipers slapping at a drizzle, Stanfield tells campaign stories, like the time his plane made nine passes before landing on a highway near Port Hawkesbury. "I wasn't worried, though. You see, the pilot was in the plane with us."

At Halifax airport, heads turn. People smile, begin to come forward, worried they will be intruding, then make the plunge. It's the same at Sydney. This is Nova Scotia of course, his Nova Scotia. He goes to Toronto this weekend, and maybe there it'll be different. Here, in Sydney, you're not the least surprised when a young man comes up, puts out a hand, and says, "Mr. Stanfield. I'm just an ordinary guy, but I want to thank you for making me feel proud of Nova Scotia and of Canada."

Nor are you surprised that when he mainstreets along Sydney's Charlotte Street, the three block walk takes 20 minutes, people coming out of stores, getting out of cars, crossing the streets.

He is campaigning as hard as any active politician. First a radio talk show, where, asked about the Horner deal, he calls it, "a very cynical transaction." A visit to a senior citizens home. A visit to the mayor, whose office door (this being bilingual, Celtic, Cape Breton) says "Seomar a Baillidh." Mainstreeting. Lunch with party workers. A tour of the local newspaper. A tour of the Hadassah Bazaar. A television talk show. A ladies' coffee party. Interviews with the two reporters travelling with him. Back to the coffee party because by now the husbands will have arrived. After dinner, he goes to a wine and cheese party.

Stands against cynicism

At the Hadassah bazaar, the ladies running the stalls, most of them Liberals, keep saying: "Just look at him. To think he'd come here." On the street, people, in that reflexive maritime search for kinship, keep saying things like: "I once worked for your uncle," or "My dad once drove you in from Ingonish."

Joyce MacDougall, the local candidate, is estatic. She's 27, and her age is more a handicap than her sex for all that you may imagine that Sydney steelworkers are a macho lot, which they are. Old-line Conservatives, though, worry about her youth. Now Stanfield has sent them the message that he stands behind her.

Stanfield's other message is that he stands against cynicism.

Put heat on

The Vancouver Island region of the Federation of B.C. Naturalists thinks the provincial election campaign is an appropriate opportunity to raise the question of acquiring Sidney Island for the province of B.C. as a general recreational use park. In our opinion a ferry service to Sidney Island would be needed to provide ready access for the non-boating public.

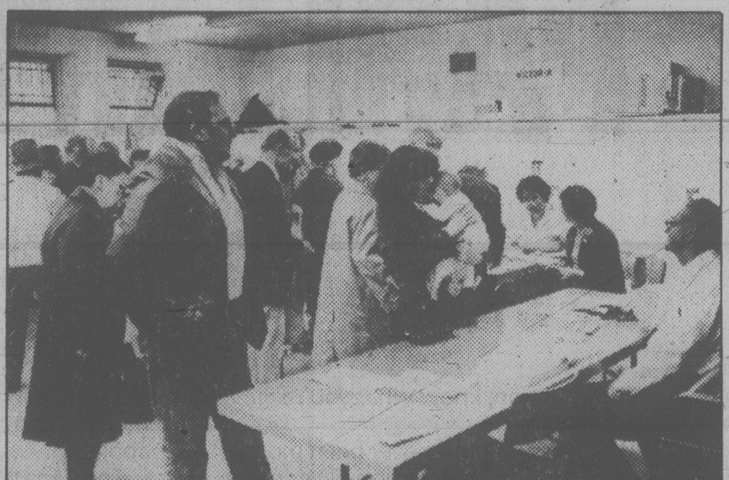
The Sidney Island Committee, which was organized to specifically lead the campaign to acquire this Island as a park, seems to have gone underground. But we do not believe that Sidney Island is a dead issue. At a meeting in Nanaimo on March 22 hosted by Rafe Mair, the current minister of the environment, to listen to regional environmental concerns, the naturalists pointed out in a brief that the asking price for the island of $3.75 million was highly inflated, given that the present owners acquired this property for under $97,000:

"The Todd family purchased nine-tenths of Sidney Island between the years 1943 and 1961 for $85,300. The remaining one-tenth is owned by Richard Biggerstaff Wilson, former mayor of Victoria. That purchase was made in 1970 for a total of $11,237.

We also said that if the government considered the price too high — as had been piously stated from time to time, and the owners are adamant in refusing to substantially lower their asking price — then the Island should be taken over for the greater interest of the people of B.C. The provincial government is using the price asked for Sidney Island to justify inactivity. Elections are a good time to put the heat on concerning Sidney Island. — David Orton, Vancouver Island Region, Federation of B.C. Naturalists.

Too long already

Despite the fact that there is quite a way to go before May 22, this election has already proved to be, the most "promising" one ever. With the current deficit our financial position is shaky enough, but if only a fraction of the commitments offered were to be carried out, it could mean total bankruptcy for the nation.



If busy advance poll is any sign, turnout will be heavy May 10.

People are much more mature than the politicians give them credit for. On the whole their votes are not for sale and they would much rather hear a reasoned discussion of conflicting theories and programs rather than personalities' shrill denunciations and abuse of one's opponents, the latter so dear to the media. Another improvement would be to shorten the election period, for most citizens appear to be fed up with the whole business already. If Britain, with all her problems, can manage one in three weeks, why should ours take two months? It could at least lessen the number of unfulfillable promises! — F.L.P. Anderson, 409-2174 Cadboro Bay Road.

Dear Abby says

A few days ago a local radio station dealt with the question: What makes the candidates run for the legislature? It is a gruelling campaign, it is facing crowds, lethargic, friendly or hostile, it is sacrificing family joys. The answer was "power." It cannot be, it is not.

I went to Memorial Arena to hear Premier Bill Bennett addressing a huge crowd, and handling beautifully a few hecklers.

I had asked myself the same question and I came home with the answer. And that is dedication, a true commitment to the well-being of this beautiful province of ours, and the people, young and old, rich and poor, workers or retired, in all walks of life.

On May 10 we should cast our ballot and should give our premier an overwhelming vote of confidence, because he deserves it. We shouldn't renounce our franchise. Voting requires such a minimum effort on our part!

Many of your readers, Ms. Editor, never skip the Dear Abby column. On May 1, she answered a question from a lady who wanted to register to vote in spite of her husband's objection. Please reprint the essential part of "Dear Abby's" reply. No one could have said it better! Thank you, thank you for your contribution to democracy that makes our life worthwhile. — E. J. Lattes, 432-200 Dallas Road.

Dear Abby said: "The right to vote is not only a privilege, it's the responsibility of every citizen who wants a voice in how his country should be run — and by whom. By choosing not to vote you forfeit your right to criticize your government's policies and its elected officials. Edmund Burke said: 'The only thing that is required for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing.' I'm with Edmund."

One-way street

Reference is made to my previous letter (No Help for Renters, April 12), pointing out the abysmal treatment of the tenant, both from the old and new budgets. Lest anyone believes that a case was being made for the more affluent tenant, the following figures based on the 1978 tax tables and the 1979 budget will be of interest and will more than prove the discrimination against the tenant.

Homeowners over 65 with taxable incomes of either $3,000 or $4,000 or $5,000, will pay into the provincial revenue fund, $193 or $275 or $360. Regardless of income they will receive a grant of $580, for a net gain of $387, $304 and $219 respectively.

Renters over 65, same range of taxable income, and therefore paying the same income tax, will receive a grant of $105 or $90 or $75, for a net loss of $88 or $185 or $295. It is quite apparent that this is a one-way street of financing for the tenants.

In the case of the renter with a taxable income of $7,500 who leaves $542.50 in the kitty, a homeowner over 65 would need a taxable income of $12,000 to match that contribution to the province's revenue.

Tenants are urged to ask questions, attend all-candidates meetings, and get committments for improving the renters grant. It should not be a crime in this province to be a tenant with some taxable income.

Now that things are settling locally we may be able to add to our phrases: "Smite Smith" and "Yank Young" and well . . . why not go all the way and "Sockit to Socreds?" — H. Shergold, 1102-360 Douglas Street.

Be kind to pets

Do people really realize the impact that animals have on our daily lives? They provide food, clothing, entertainment, companionship and a variety of other tangible and intangible necessities to mankind. This has been true throughout history, but we often take the animal kingdom for granted.

This is true of some of our beautiful wildlife, valuable domestic livestock, and companion animals such as the family dog or cat or horse. We so often regard things as dispensible, or simply for our convenience, and we should all stop to appreciate the vital role of animal life to mankind.

This letter is prompted because May 6-12 is Be Kind to Animals Week. The observance is sponsored by the Victoria branch of the B.C. Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and humane organizations thrughout the area.

Emphasis this year is on the overpopulation of dogs and cats; one act of kindness is to have your pet spayed or neutered to prevent unwanted offspring. Consider the fate of the unwanted. It is anything but kind. — H. R. F. Dyer, Acting Manager, Victoria Branch, SPCA.

A children's centre

I am greatly concerned about the future of the beautiful old public library building on Yates Street. The suggestion that it could be sold to private enterprise and turned into a restaurant completely freezes me.

The building should never be sold. It should be designated as an all-time public heritage building. Why can the Victoria Chamber of Commerce not turn it into a Children's Care Centre where shopping mothers and visitors could leave their little ones, supervised in an atmosphere of soft music, play and happy education?

Local businesses, financial institutions, entertainment centres, professional offices, etc. could all contribute financially toward the operation of the centre.

Then the parents, for a nominal fee, could leisurely go about their business or pleasure.

For those who travel by bus, some method could possibly be devised by which they would be at least partially compensated, as is done for those parking their cars in city parkades. Why not? — Lydia Arsens, 1892 Neil Street.

Fine care

Our family has recently lost our mother at the age of 85. In view of the recent adverse publicity engendered by some deaths at Oak Bay Manor, and in expectation that uninformed people will be likely to tar with the same brush all homes for the elderly, we would like to vouch for the compassionate and expert care our mother received from the Fairfield Pavilion staff at Glengarry Hospital. We will be forever grateful that our mother was looked after so thoughtfully and with full understanding of the many trials she faced. The staff were well equipped to help her, both physically and emotionally. In several long months of daily watching their efforts on her behalf, we were left with a feeling of deep thankfulness to the staff and we feel we would like the public to share our knowledge of their worth. — The Weaver Family, 1000 Chamberlain Street.

How to save creek

It seems that the slopes of Riley Creek are to be denuded.

It should not be done, but if it is done, the slopes can still be saved.

Scatter the branches over the slopes. Drive in stakes to anchor them and plant young trees among the branches.

This, if done carefully, will save the slopes until the young trees are big enough to take over. — S. Bowers, 1082 Lodge Avenue.

Readers speak out on provincial election

NDP leader Barrett smiles, but Vic Stephens may hold key to Bennett's future.

Real issues, please

The sartorial style of Messrs. Barrett and Bennett, the ups and downs of political gamesmanship, may appeal to a few of the electorate but have little to do with the real issues in this provincial election. What we really need to know is the NDP and Social Credit stand on these issues:

☐ Our forests are the most valuable resource in B.C. The recent decision by Forests Minister Tom Waterland, loudly supported by IWA stalwart Jack Munro, to permit the cutting of 40 acres at Riley Creek, is typical of the bland indifference to sound forestry policies shown by B.C. governments for years.

☐ Fishing is — or was — another of our major resources. This year, again, the salmon catch is down. I guess that's no great surprise since we are still busy decimating the herring population through the roe harvest program, which must be one of the greater inanities of all time.

☐ Recent changes in assessment and property tax have resulted in a major and inequitable shift of tax burden on to homeowners only partly relieved by offsetting grants. The revenue sharing arrangement for municipalities announced in 1977 was totally castrated by the increased educational levy announced in 1978. Saanich and Oak Bay still await action to correct non-payment of taxes by UVic and Camosun. The McMath report, which recommends a major shift of educational tax burden from property to general tax, lies on the shelf gathering dust. Seen any statements on tax policy?

☐ The annual six months of "ferry frustration" is once more upon us and will establish again the inadequacies of this system for residents, for tourists and for our hard-pressed industries. We need more ships, better docking facilities and a clearly established security of service — yes, that means no strikes. We also need a rational policy statement identifying the extent to which the ferry service should be supported by public funds.

☐ On other public transit matters, the much-touted Urban Transit Authority has yet to produce any public transit. One wonders how long we will wait for the planners to tell us that we need bus services out to the western communities and up the Pat Bay highway.

☐ I would like to hear some policy statements on law enforcement since there is ample evidence to show that we are losing the battle on several fronts — juvenile crime, drug use, vandalism, drunken violence and traffic behavior. We need to know the parties' positions on court liberalism, recent police recommendations and the publishing of names of repeat juvenile offenders.

☐ The province has a substantial staff in its department of housing. I wonder what they're doing. The option of owning a home is no longer available to vast numbers of residents due to rampant land speculation, impossible mortgage rates and material taxation. We need policy statements on this critical matter.

These are a few of the items which are of concern to the electorate and there are many others. It certainly is exciting to know that Mr. B. wore a tie and Mr. B. didn't. At the same time gentlemen, please tell us your policies on the real issues. — Ian Cass, 3844 Merriman Drive.

Need savings

When a witness appears in a court of law he or she, hand on the Bible must swear to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. When a taxpayer sends a return to Ottawa his or her signature is required under the printed statement that everything declared is correct.

I wonder what would happen if all our politicians were asked to follow the same procedures. Of course, sociopolitical facts and economic trends are subject to different, even opposite interpretation, so what an individual considers true may appear entirely false to another. Every coin has two sides.

I would corroborate the above with one typical example, the $500 million existing in the coffers of ICBC.

Mr. Barrett tells his audience that this money should be spent to help small business and create a few more jobs. Apparently, this seems reasonable. But is it?

A responsible government must have some funds for unforseen emergencies in the same way as an individual should have some savings to face unexpected hardships.

Nobody in our province can tell whether earthquakes, floods, extensive forest fires, epidemics or other calamities may occur. It is not outside the realm of possibilities.

Take the example of the Alberta Heritage Fund, much bigger than a modest $500 million. Alberta socialists (yes, there are some) condemned that Heritage Fund as loudly as they could: and their total membership in the legislature is one. Workers, pensioners, businesses all stood behind Peter Lougheed's program for the future.

We don't live just for the fleeting present, neither as individuals nor as government.

Notice also that in the Evan Wolfe budget there are many provisions to help small businesses and create jobs: Mr. Barrett didn't mention any.

Responsible government and responsible citizens: that's the way it should be. — E.J. Lattes, 432 - 200 Dallas Road.

NDP spent profits

Recently Mr. Barrett stated that he would put the profits of ICBC into general revenue. He had profits that were the legacy of Mr. W. A. C. Bennett's 20 years of Social Credit Party Government. He spent that and more with no profits to put anywhere.

Now he would like to take the profits from Bill Bennett's Social Credit Government. If Barrett could assure me that he knows how to manage my tax dollar and make profits of his own, he might have some credibility now. — M. S. Woods, Tryon Road, Sidney.

Judge honesty

Despite the fact that the economy of British Columbia is largely controlled by external forces, we are being asked to compare various statistics to judge the relative competence (or incompetence) of the previous two provincial governments.

Social Credit advertises that many of their statistics point to an improving economy — increased tourism, mining exploration, forestry jobs, hospital construction, etc. The NDP is claiming that under the Socreds the level of investment growth is down, unemployment is up, job creation is down, real economic growth is down, bankruptcies and business failures have doubled, taxes have increased by more than 50 per cent, growth in mining output has decreased.

The figures put forth by the two parties seem to contradict each other. How is one to judge which figures reflect the real situation? Which figures are based on fact and which have come out of someone's head? Although it is hard to say for sure, at least the NDP have acknowledged the sources of their figures in many of their ads. None of the Socred ads have yet to acknowledge the source of their statistics.

However, governments and political parties should not be judged solely on how they present statistics, how they have balanced the books, or even on how they have succeeded in attempts to manage (or mismanage) the economy; but on how they govern, whose interests do they really have at heart, and possibly most important, how honest are they. Judge for yourself — be honest — then vote. — S. R. Bridgeman, Box 1388, Victoria.

Question period

The Association of Women Electors (AWE) is a group of women interested especially in municipal affairs, but with two major elections facing us we cannot be blind to our responsibilities in wider fields also.

We would suggest that candidates and voters take a serious look at our personal role in governing the country.

As question periods are commonplace in a democratic form of government, why not try one out on ourselves? Here goes:

For candidates:

Just why am I running for Parliament? Am I genuinely concerned about my country's affairs or is it the next step up for me?

Do I want any financial benefits that accrue to such a post?

Is the good of the country more important to me than advancing my own career?

Do I have any secret failing habit, vice, that would lay me open to blackmail?

In debate, do I treat my adversary as I would have him treat me, with courtesy and consideration, or do I try to belittle him with sneers, ridicule and innuendoes? Is the job worth enduring the snide remarks that come my way in reprisal?

Is it my prime objecive to create a well-governed country, where there is justice and fair play for all regardless of race, color, creed, language, sex, etc.?

Would I have the courage to ask my constituents to sacrifice some of the luxuries of western life in order to raise the standard of living of the less fortunate here — or elsewhere?

Am I a watchdog, protecting, to the best of my ability, the weaker nations against exploitation in trade (and aid), or do I see them only as a profitable market for our surplus comodities?

Do I regard myself as a man (woman) in whom a special trust has been placed? Do I act at all times with uprightness and a dignity matching that trust?

For voters:

Do I get out and vote at election time, come wind, come weather?

Do I keep myself informed on public affairs or do politics bore me?

Do I let my husband (wife) or anyone else, decide how I vote?

Do I cast my vote on strict party lines or do I consider the character, morals and integrity of the candidate, as well as his ability to think and act?

Do I ever say a simple "thank you" to my MP or MLA for taking on such an arduous task for the community and the nation?—Mary W. Hamilton, Chairman (pro tem), Association of Women Electors (Victoria Branch).

Tourism statistics

The recent Socred election ad "Tourism, You Compare" is completely misleading and the voters should be advised to check with Statistics Canada figures for accurate data.

Being a student of statistics, I did, and the data I found was most revealing.

Despite the millions of dollars of our money spent by the Socreds over the last few years in media advertising in the U.S., the two Royal Hudson tours, and the B.C. floats at the Pasadena Rose Bowl parades, the number of U.S. visitors to B.C. has not yet surpassed the 1975 figure — when the NDP was in power — of 3,358,600. Last year — the best tourism year of the Socreds — the number of U.S. visitors, according to Statistics Canada, was 3,353,500 or 5,100 less than in 1975.

During the three NDP years (1973, 1974, and 1975), there were a total of 10,345,435 visitors from the U.S. During the three Socred years (1976, 1977 and 1978), there were 9,683,600 U.S. visitors to B.C. or 661,835 less than during the NDP years.

The average increase in overseas entries during the NDP years was 21.76 per cent while it was only 10.46 per cent during the Socred regime, (19.3 per cent in 1973, 24.8 per cent in 1974, 21.2 per cent in 1975, 6.8 per cent in 1976, 2.9 per cent in 1977 and 21.7 per cent in 1978).

There is no precise or accurate way of calculating the monies spent by tourists in B.C. and it is simple to overestimate the amount. The tourism revenue claims of the Socreds must, therefore, be taken with a grain of salt, particularly when they do not take into account the inflation factor and devalued Canadian [illegible]

"Tourism, You [illegible] — I have compared using the objective figures of Statistics Canada. The Socred figures are misleading. — Patricia Russell, 3540 Tillicum Rd.

Neanderthal

Regarding the letter, Strong Government, (Times, May 1): your correspondent states that weak or minority government will not be good for B.C., yet he exhorts us to vote Social Credit for strong government. Strong government for big business, weak or no government for people! In view of the fact that the legislature has not been in session for any practical purpose since June 1978, one wonders if we have had a government at all?

I have been under the impression for the past few years that Alberta has a Conservative government for appearance sake only; the opposition is non-existent for practical purposes and the premier reports to the major oil companies. If this is what Lattes calls strong government, then Lord deliver us! In all fairness to the Alberta government, they do extract a mere 633 per cent more revenue per ton of coal than does B.C. from this non-renewable resource. Further, if he agrees with Bennett that the NDP does not deserve a single seat, then it would be an excellent idea for both of them to hie themselves to Alberta and settle there. Maybe, just maybe, it would solve part of the problem of neanderthal thinking politicians and electorate in B.C.

Social Credit is the best way to go? I doubt it. — W. A. Drummond, Duncan.

What to vote for

A letter on April 25 by E. J. Lattes (Rally to Joe, Bill) caught my eye. Mr. Lattes says: "We should rally behind Joe Clark and Premier Bill Bennett in the same way and with the same loyalty and enthusiasm as the Albertans did recently — it's the only way."

My question is: The only way to what? And my next question is: Why? Why should we do what Albertans do? It makes just as much sense to say we should vote against Joe Clark because the people in Quebec are going to do just that. Let's face it, by and large the people of Quebec are a lot more interesting and cultured than the people of Alberta, but I agree the nicest thing about Lougheed is, he doesn't kiss babies.

At times of election, we must sort out the true and sincere from the phoney and crafty. Barrett's words have not always been above the usual political vote-catching pap. The Social Credit have been grossly guilty of this too. Mr. Bill Bennett keeps reiterating that his party believes in the people controlling the resources, not the government. That is garbage, and Bill Bennett is far too intelligent a man to believe it.

He is counting, however, that at least a significant percentage of the voters will be stupid enough to believe it. He may be right.

Another favorite claim of Social Credit is that it is "the free enterprise party." This is only true in that many people who believe in free enterprise vote for them. Financial support for the party comes from large corporations. Large corporations, as we know are monopolistic in nature and they love and get government handouts. They strangle competition.

A vote for Barrett may slow the economy. A vote for Bennett may bring a boom as our resources are hastily — and probably not too wisely — ripped out it will be a boom at some cost and somewhat temporary, perhaps.

If the Tories get in federally and the Socreds provincially, we can count on a few changes. There will be fewer independent fishermen as Japanese capital will finance factory ships, Bill 42 will be further eroded, logging will take place in parks, estuaries will be industrialized — all this will be called "bringing B.C. into the 20th century."

I agree with Mr. Lattes' advice to make sure you know exactly what you are voting for this May. — Monica Oldham, 511 Victoria Avenue.

Vote splitting

From the time Dave Barrett got elected as an MLA, and during his premiership of B.C. legislature, many a time, he was called, a hard-core socialist, a Marxist, and even an atheist by the opposition Socred members.

Any of these misleading names about Barrett have a heavily unfavorable connotation to some of the voters of B.C.

The official results of the 1975 provincial general election for Coquitlam constituency were as follows:

NDP — Barrett, Dave — 18,663 votes.

SC — Kerster, George — 18,681 votes.

On the first count, Kerster got elected by an 18-vote majority over Barrett.

But in the same riding a Communist candidate got 61 votes and a North American Labor Party candidate got 17 votes, making a total of 78 votes. Therefore, add 78 votes to Barrett's 18,663 — Barrett would have got elected by a 60-vote majority over Kerster.

Let this be a conclusive evidence that the other left-wing parties, which contested the same riding, had contributed to Barrett's defeat. However, it had clarified Barrett's name once and for all that he is a social democrat, and not any other adverse policician as he is so often called. — F.J. Bogdanski, 4020 Magdelin Street.

He's no unknown

Re: Your recent article on the Victoria provincial election campaign (It's a Gracious Battle for Victoria, April 28) I object to your reference to Gordon Hanson as the "unknown candidate".

Hanson

Surely anyone who received 14,000 votes in the 1975 election and placed a close third behind the two elected MLAs can hardly be "unknown" in this riding. — Kathleen Orton, 1255 Pembroke.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market fell sharply in active mid-afternoon trading Monday.

Trading in shares of Dome Mines Ltd. resumed at noon following a halt at the opening to permit an offer by Dome Petroleum Ltd. Dome Petroleum bought 547,183 shares of Dome Mines at $120 a share. Dome Mines rose 4⅞ to $119 by 2 p.m.

Trading halts continued in shares of Abacus Cities Ltd. and Imperial General Properties Ltd. pending an announcement. Abacus Cities last traded at $1.40 and Imperial General at $16.

Trading in Brascan Ltd. A, which last traded at $24¼, was to resume at 2:30 p.m. with permission of the Ontario Securities Commission.

The Toronto Stock Exchange said new common shares of Sherritt Gordon Mines Ltd. will be posted for trading at the opening Tuesday with a par value of $1.00 each. They will replace the currently listed class A and B shares. Shareholders ratified the re-designation of shares on April 20.

Among industrials, Aquitaine of Canada fell 3½ to $29½, Dome Petroleum 2⅜ to $135⅞, Falconbridge Nickel A 2⅜ to $57, Canadian Occidental Petroleum 1¼ to $35¾ and Cominco 1¼ to $34½.

Chieftain Development was down 2¾ to $37¾, Numac Oil and Gas 1⅜ to $30¼.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly for the second straight session, depressed by expectations of higher interest rates.

Recent expansion of the money supply has led the Federal Reserve Board to tighten credit, and brokers said more moves in that direction are likely.

In particular, there was talk that they might soon raise its discount rate — the rate it charges on loans to its member commercial banks.

Rising interest rates are considered a negative influence on stock prices because they increase the attractiveness of interest-bearing securities, such as shares of money-market funds, which compete with stocks for investors' money.

Fairchild Camera was the only gainer on the active list, rising 1 to $55¼. Gould Inc. raised the price of its offer for 2.5 million Fairchild shares from $54 to $57 each.

The NYSE's composite index lost .66 to 56.10.

Westcoast Seeks Export Extension

VANCOUVER (CP) — Westcoast Transmision Co. Ltd. said Friday it has applied to the National Energy Board to extend the term of its licences to export natural gas to the United States.

The company said extra gas would come from volumes which had previously been authorized for export, but were not taken by the U.S. export customer and from Canadian gas which will become available in the future.

All gas which Westcoast exports currently is sold to Northwest Pipeline Corp. of Salt Lake City, Utah.

A Westcoast spokesman said that if the licences are extended, Northwest would be able to arrange firm off-line sales and thus would purchase larger volumes from Westcoast than it has during the past several years.

business

Thomson

Thomson Newspapers Ltd. reported net income for the quarter ended March 31 of $11,649,310 or 23.27 cents a share compared with $10,622,708 or 21.18 cents a share for the same period a year ago.

The company said profits were adversely affected by "a significant foreign exchange loss on translation of U.S. dollar working capital which occurred as a result of the strengthening in value of the Canadian dollar against the U.S. dollar during the period."

Rolland Paper

Rolland Paper Co. announced its first-quarter profit for 1979 was $2,408,000, or $1.30 a common share, up from $1,114,000, or 60 cents a common share, for the same period last year.

The company reported consolidated net sales up 22.8 per cent to 39.8 million in the first quarter of 1979, from $32.4 million in 1978.

Lucien G. Rolland, president and chief executive officer, said Rolland Paper "continued to show healthy growth in the first quarter following the turnaround achieved in 1978."

The company also noted strong growth in domestic demand and a reduction in imports from the U.S., with the wholesale division contributing to the improvement in sales and earnings.

BP Canada

BP Canada announced net income of $13.4 million, or 63 cents a common share, for the first quarter of 1979, up from $11.4 million, or 54 cents a common share in 1978.

The company reported 1978 first quarter net income was restated from $11.5 million to reflect the change in accounting for capital leases.

President R.W.D. Hanbidge told shareholders at the company's annual meeting that BP Canada hopes to maintain its first quarter profits throughout 1979, especially in the refining and marketing divisions.

"With new production from Western Canadian fields scheduled to be on stream before the year end, we are confident that production income from natural gas and crude oils in 1979 will exceed 1978 levels," Mr. Hanbidge said. "Looking to year end, I feel reasonably confident that 1979 should establish a new record net income for your company."

Sigma Mines

Sigma Mines (Quebec) Ltd. estimated earnings for the first quarter of 1979 at $1.31 a common share, up from 83 cents a common share in 1978.

Malcom A. Taschereau, chairman and president of the company, said the quarterly profit was due to an increase in the average revenue of an ounce of gold over the same quarter. Net income in the 1978 first quarter was $828,000 on revenue of $3.9 million.

Precambrian

Precambrian Shield Resources Ltd. of Edmonton reported a successful first year in the oil and gas industry.

In its annual report, to be presented to shareholders at its annual meeting May 28 in Edmonton, the company said it participated in the drilling of 15 wells in the year ended Nov. 30, 1978.

"The company is of the conviction that small Canadian-owned companies such as Precambrian can successfully compete in the oil and gas industry," the report says.

A further eight wells in which the company holds interests were drilled since the year-end.

Eleven of the wells are located in eastern Alberta.

An additional 30 wells were expected to be drilled this year in the same area.

Precambrian is also involved in mining and real estate, with 21.6-per-cent ownership of Bellanco Developments Ltd.

Brenda Mines

Brenda Mines Ltd. of Peachland, B.C., has reported earnings for the first quarter of 1979 were $5,168,000 or $1.21 a share, compared with $2,621,000 or 61 cents a year for the same period last year.

J. A. Hall, company president, told shareholders the high profit resulted from higher-grade ore.

Hall said various mineral exploration projects will be carried out this summer at seven properties in British Columbia.

Brenda's molybdenum activity is increasing, Hall said, but while prices are likely to remain high, there are signs of reduced consumption by steel makers.

Provigo

Provigo Inc. reported profit of $13.9 million, or $3.26 a common share, for the year ending Jan. 27, 1979, up from $8 million, or $2.10 a common share, for the previous 12 months.

Provigo also reported sales of $2 billion, compared with $1.2 billion for the year before.

The company said capital spending amounted to $25.2 million and that $40 million of expenditures is planned for the current year ending Jan. 26, 1980.

Bethlehem

Bethlehem Copper Corp. reports net earnings of $2,780,000 or 44 cents a share for the first quarter of 1979, compared with $376,000 or six cents a share in the same period in 1978.

Revenues reached $15,261,000 in the first quarter of 1979, compared with $4,776,000 in the same period in 1978.

The company credited increased copper prices for the higher 1979 figures, adding that it expects a softening in the current price during the balance of the second quarter.

Domtar

Domtar Inc. reported first-quarter profits of $22 million, or $1.48 a share, up 150 per cent from $8.8 million, or 58 cents a common share for the corresponding period last year.

Improved profits come from the continued lower value of the dollar relative to other major currencies which accounted for 23 cents a share of the profits, a company statement said.

Higher volume, particularly in pulp, fine papers, newsprint and packaging, and the contribution from the California gypsum wallboard operations bought in April, 1978, were the other causes of higher profits.

Lower sales volume for chemical products were more than offset by higher prices and losses from the Huntsville, Ont. particleboard plants were "substantially reduced," the statement said.

Revenues for the quarter were $354.5 million, an increase from $276.6 million a year earlier.

Dom. Textile

Dominion Textile Inc. reported net consolidated income for the quarter ended March 31, 1979, up $7,747,000, or 92 cents a common share, from $5,383,000, or 69 cents a common share in 1978.

President T. R. Bell said sales for the quarter totalled $190,672,000, an increase of 31 per cent, and "earnings were the highest in the company's history for any single quarter."

For the nine-month period ended March 31, 1979, Dominion Textile noted profit of $15,842,000, or $1.90 a common share, up from $11,719,000, or $1.50 a common share in 1978.

"Capital expenditure appropriations for fiscal 1979 are being reviewed," Bell said. Given a continuation of stable business conditions, the more satisfactory rate of return now being realized will likely justify more investment than the average spent in the past few years."

On a darker note, Bell said the company's interlining division in the United States reported another loss because of weak markets.

Trucks, Buses Get Tax Break

OTTAWA (CP) — The government plans to expand coverage of the transportation tax credit in its November budget to include a large number of previously ineligible trucks and buses.

Finance Minister Jean Chretien released revised regulations Friday describing the types of vehicles eligible for the credit.

The basic change is that coverage has been extended to include a smaller class of trucks — those in the 26,000to-44,000 class — and a new type of intercity bus, known as the superbus which seats 20 persons instead of the usual 35.

GULF CANADA APPOINTMENTS

C. D. Shepard — J. L. Stoik — J. C. Phillips, Q.C.

The Board of Directors of Gulf Canada Limited announces the election of President John L. Stoik as Chief Executive Officer, effective April 26, and the election of Executive Vice-President J. C. Phillips as Chairman, effective August 1, when Clarence D. Shepard retires as Chairman. Mr. Shepard will continue as a Director.

Mr. Shepard joined Gulf Canada in 1959 as General Counsel. A year later he became a Vice-President and Director of the Corporation, and since 1964 has been Board Chairman. He became Chief Executive Officer in 1976.

Mr. Stoik, who joined the Corporation at Moose Jaw Refinery in 1947 as a chemical engineer, has been President and Chief Operating Officer since 1976. Previously he had been a Senior Vice-President of the Corporation. Mr. Stoik also served three years in South Korea as Executive Vice-President and Chief Executive Officer of the Korea Oil Corporation, which is jointly owned by Gulf Oil Corporation and the government of South Korea.

Mr. Phillips, a graduate of the University of Toronto and Osgoode Hall, joined Gulf Canada in 1956. He was appointed General Counsel in 1960 and became a Vice-President and Secretary in 1971. He was named a Senior Vice-President in 1976 and appointed an Executive Vice-President a year later.

TAKING THE PLUNGE, a specially tipped steel rod is plunged into a steel-belted radial tire by a technician at Firestone's Wilson, N.C., plant to test the tire's resistance to impact damage. The high-strength construction of these radials and their higher permissible inflation pressures combine to reduce rolling resistance. This increase gasoline mileage by eight to 10 per cent at steady highway speeds.

Uranium Strike In Northern Sask.

CALGARY (CP) — Canadian Occidental Petroleum Ltd. and Inco metals Co. have announced a major uranium find in northern Saskatchewan.

Ross MacAlister, president of Canadian Occidental, said Thursday that diamond drill holes on a property in Saskatchewan had indicated a uranium concentration of 540 and 340 pounds per short ton of ore.

The find is near Midwest Lake, where Esso Resources, Bow Valley Industries and Numac Oil and Gas have property containing 37 pounds per ton.

MacAlister, describing the discovery as "potentially significant," said Canadian Occidental had acquired the property in 1974.

Since then, it had spent between $300,000 and $400,000 each winter on exploration, but increased that to $1 million this winter.

In past years, the partners had pulled out equipment at spring breakup because of a river that makes the property inaccessible by road in summer.

$3B Shopping List at Air Canada

MONTREAL (CP) — Aviation sources say Air Canada may announce as soon as this week what it intends to buy in the first phase of a $3-billion shopping spree on new aircraft during the 1980s.

The deal could mean a hefty boost for the Canadian aircraft industry, but has already led to accusations of political interference.

Elmer MacKay, a Progressive Conservative running for re-election May 22 in Nova Scotia's Central Nova riding, has alleged that the privy council is pressuring Air Canada to order Europe's Airbus to improve Canadian trade with France and Germany.

A aide to Prime Minister Trudeau says that the prime minister has been in contact with Air Canada since meeting last year with German and French leaders. The airline was asked to consider Airbus as "one of the alternatives for tendering," the aide said

Air Canada refused comment on Mackay's allegation. But the Nova Scotia MP said it amounted to political interference by the government.

The Air Canada board of directors met in London last week — they meet outside the country on occasion — and the choice of new aircraft was almost certainly on the agenda.

Companies bidding for the Air Canada orders have submitted proposals to the federal department of industry, trade and commerce outlining the sub-contracts they would be prepared to give Canadian aviation firms.

Air Canada envisages buying four types of aircraft for different uses, and the total value of the purchases will probably eclipse the controversial $2.3-billion Ottawa is to spend on new military fighter aircraft.

The federally-owned Air Canada isn't saying what sort of announcement it will make, but indications from Ottawa are that it will indicate its intention to purchase 30 aircraft of two different types.

Clayton Glenn, Air Canada's vice-president of fleet planning, has said the main contenders for what the airline calls its "Type 3" aircraft — something in the 200-to-225-seat range for middle-range North American flights — are the Boeing-767 and the Airbus A-310.

Neither aircraft is in production yet, and both manufacturers, U.S.-based Boeing and the European consortium Airbus Industrie, have proposed general "offset deals" to give Canadian firms contracts to supply components for their full production run, not just for those planes purchased by Canadian airlines.

McDonnell-Douglas and Lockheed, two other U.S. aircraft builders with competing models, have made similar offers.

The other aircraft type which would be included in the first purchase is "Type 2" — a long-range, wide-body aircraft, larger than the old workhorse DC-8s, but smaller than a Boeing-747 jumbo jet.

Air Canada is also looking for a small, short-range jet to replace the aging DC-9s, and will probably purchase additional 747s jumbos to meet its long-haul requirements on heavily-travelled long-distance routes.

Robert Haack, head of the aerospace division at industry, trade and commerce, indicated Friday that whatever overtures Ottawa may have made about Airbus didn't constitute interference in airline affairs.

"Air Canada has been left completely free and independent to assess the various types of aircraft on operating and commercial grounds," Haack said. He conceded, however, that industrial spinoff would be "one factor in the decision."

He noted that an agreement initialled by Canada and most other industrialized countries during trade talks in Geneva stipulates that governments should not influence aircraft purchases by an airline, even a government-owned airline.

Price, quality and delivery must be the main criteria, he said.

Martin Brennan, director-general of the transport industry branch at trade and commerce in Ottawa, said the four major aircraft makers "have made commitments to provide a certain amount of work under certain conditions."

These "offset deals" can take various forms, he said, and their value can sometimes be several times the value of the aircraft purchased. There is no set relation between the price and the amount of the offset work.

"They say to Canadian industry: Make your bid, we know you are competitive, and you will win some of the contracts."

Air Canada decides on its own technical needs, Brennan said, and the government decides what industrial benefits being offered by each manufacturer would be most advantageous.

Haack said the government was especially interested in high-technology and long-term work. Federally-owned Canadair of Montreal already has a contract to build rear fuselages for the first 300 Boeing-767s,

A Canadair spokesman said the contract is not tied to purchases by Air Canada, but that Canadian purchases of more Boeing equipment would improve Canadair's chances of having the contract extended to cover the full production run of 767s, estimated at 750.

Air Canada has already ordered 19 new Boeing 727s, a popular jet on short-haul and medium routes, for delivery in three batches starting this fall. But those planes were ordered some time ago and aren't included in the $3-billion deal the airline is about to announce.

ELECTION '79

OAKVILLE, Ont. — With two weeks to go before the federal election, Prime Minister Trudeau is embarking on a final sprint through Canada's largest cities to hammer home his message that leadership is the biggest issue in the election.

At a Saturday morning rally in this suburb of Toronto, Trudeau gave a hint of what is to come when he said of Conservative adversary Joe Clark: "Here's a leader who goes around saying he's not getting stabbed in the back."

He suggested that Clark would not only give away the whole store to the provinces but would also give away Canadian rights and resources to other countries in international negotiations.

As the prime minister campaigned in Metropolitan Toronto, a Toronto Star poll showed the Conservatives leading the Liberals by five percentage points in the crucial 23 ridings in Toronto, with 42 per cent of the vote compared to 37 per cent for the Liberals and 21 per cent for the NDP.

But the poll showed that only four per cent of those supporting the Conservatives do so because of party leader Joe Clark. Trudeau is expected to exploit that weakness fully as he campaigns in full gear this week in Halifax, Toronto and Montreal.

The Liberals have scheduled the biggest rally of their campaign Wednesday night at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens, where they hope to pack in more than 18,000 people in a visible show of support for Trudeau.

Planning such a massive rally is a big gamble for the Liberals, because anything less than a full house will be interpreted as a sign of their weakness in Toronto.

On Saturday, Trudeau had to answer a heckler's claim that he deliberately put down the English-speaking residents of Quebec by failing to do anything about Quebec's language law (Bill 101) and its predecessor, Bill 22.

The exchanges with the hecklers point out one of Trudeau's weaknesses in the crucial election areas of Ontario — that he is perceived as pro-French at the expense of the rest of the country.

"A strong leadership would have forbidden an illegal law like Bill 101," cried one heckler. The same man later shouted that Trudeau was being supported by Quebec separatists.

Another man said the Liberals had no clear policy on the Quebec language issue and pointed out that a provincial Liberal government in Quebec had enacted the first language law, Bill 22.

Association 'Unworkable'

TORONTO (CP) — Sovereignty-association between Quebec and the rest of Canada "is a concept that to me is unacceptable and unworkable," Ed Broadbent, leader of the New Democratic Party, said Sunday.

"I can't conceive of any of the provinces ...wanting sovereignty association," Broadbent said. "Because what it would do in strict economic terms is give the province of Quebec all the benefits of having tariff protection and guaranteed access to Western markets without sharing the full economic responsibilities of the federal system."

Broadbent, speaking on a CBC radio show, said he would not negotiate if the Quebec government won a mandate in its referendum to negotiate an economic association with the rest of Canada.

However, Broadbent said he agrees with Prime Minister Trudeau that if Quebecers voted overwhelmingly for full independence from the rest of Canada, "we would have to sit down and negotiate the consequences of such a vote."

Broadbent said he finds Conservative leader Joe Clark's position on Quebec independence confusing. Clark has said he would not negotiate Quebec independence under any circumstances.

"I wish Mr. Clark would make that clear because it will make it much better for us fighting and winning the federalist option."

Broadbent said he is opposed to the use of arms or force to keep Quebec in Confederation if Quebec residents vote overwhelmingly to pull out.

The refusal to negotiate in the event of a strong pro-independence vote could result in civil war, Broadbent said in an earlier television interview.

Broadbent said he doesn't think the majority of Quebecers want to leave Confederation. But to tell Quebecers they don't have the right to decide whether they want to remain "is wrong morally ...and tactically."

Marxist-Leninists Say Don't Vote

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Communist League (Marxist-Leninist) — as opposed to the Communist Party of Canada and the Marxist-Leninist Party of Canada — wants you to abstain from voting May 22.

More than 2,000 "sympathizers" turned out at a rally at an east-end junior college to hear the League's 12-point political program.

None of the parties presenting themselves in the election campaign offers guarantees for the workers of Canada, an unidentified spokesman said.

"Socialism can't be achieved through the ballot box," he said.

"We have to organize and strengthen our forces for the day when the people will overthrow the ruling class by force of arms."

The League is particularly critical of two "so-called Communist" groups running in the May 22 election, the Communist Party of Canada — "the reformist mouthpiece of Soviet imperialism" — and the Marxist-Leninist Party of Canada, which it labels as "fascist" and "infiltrated by police agents."

The League rejects Quebec independence as splitting the Canadian working class, but affirms its support for the province's right to determine its own constitutional future.

The League's non-election platform includes the indexation of salaries to the cost of living, guaranteed jobs or minimum annual income

Executives Shifting to Federal Tory Camp: Survey

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Seventy per cent of business leaders plan to vote Progressive Conservative in the coming federal election, according to a Financial Post survey.

This is a massive shift from the previous elections when over 50 per cent of business leaders polled voted Liberal elections and only 44 per cent favored the Tories.

Fifty-two per cent of those responding thought Joe Clark would make the best prime minister, while only 38 per cent favoured Pierre Trudeau to continue as prime minister. Three per cent liked Ed Broadbent and seven per cent gave no reply.

The poll of 300 top executives showed only 23 per cent planned to vote Liberal on May 22. One per cent would vote NDP, one per cent Social Credit and five per cent gave no answer.

The survey published in the May 5 Financial Post also indicated concern lest provincial powers grow to the point the federal government will have difficulty governing.

Sixty one per cent of those polled said they were not in favor of more powers for the provinces. The feelings against more provincial power were strongest in British Columbia, Ontario and Atlantic Canada. It was 50-50 on the Prairies and in Quebec.

The poll of the country's top executives revealed that 71 per cent have an "unfavorable" opinion of the prime minister, 51 per cent don't think too favorably of Clark while 80 per cent viewed Broadbent unfavorably.

Also, a large majority of those polled believe the Conservatives will do a better job of managing the economy than the Liberals. The executives also expect the Tories to reduce government regulations and cut the budget deficit.

On the issue of national unity the businessmen appear to agree that the Liberals would cope with that problem better than the other parties. However, they said the Conservatives will do a much better job of handling federal-provincial relations.

A large majority, 73 per cent, were in favor of the Conservative plan for mortgage interest and property tax deductibility from income taxes. The same large percentage favoured restoration of capital punishment.

The executives indicated that they favored the Conservatives in this election not so much because they believed they could do better than the Liberals, but they think it is "time for a change."

Questioned as to their opinion of the three party leaders, 39 per cent found their view of Clark "favorable"; only 24 per cent liked Trudeau and 14 per cent were favorable in their views to Broadbent.

Women Workers Get Tory Pledge

By PATRICK NAGLE
FP News Service

VANCOUVER — As an employer, a federal Progressive Conservative government would forcefully pursue the principle of equal opportunity for women in the work force, leader Joe Clark said Sunday.

There was nothing in either Clark's announcement or the accompanying Conservative policy paper to indicate new legislation or further spending, except to promise the restoration of $3 million cut from the Manpower Department's outreach program for women.

"Leadership by example is the major thrust of our action plan."

The program stresses consultation with women's groups, provincial governments and private sector employers to ensure women full and equal opportunity to share in Canada's economic development, Clark said.

The federal public service, the advisory council on the Status of Women, the Human Rights Act and the Office of Equal Opportunity in the Public Service Commission would all be used to:

—Implement the programs needed to achieve parity in total income between men and women within the federal public service in 10 years time;

—Mediate individual cases where promotion or access to career advancement programs has been denied for suspected reasons of sexual discrimination;

—Review and recommend changes in public service pay scales to achieve the principle of "equal pay for work of equal value."

A Tory government would also consult with public service unions to develop, where requested, families for employee day-care facilities in government buildings.

"We will experiment more widely with part-time and flexible work week arrangements," states the Tory position paper.

"Where feasible, we will introduce employee options that permit extended leave to care for young children and to spend more time with school-age children during summer vacation."

The problem of Clark's constitutional position in Quebec was raised again when a reporter pointed out that during the weekend 15 Quebec PC candidates issued a statement asking voters to elect them so they could explain to Clark that Quebec did have a right to self-determination.

Clark has always maintained — and he claims Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau agrees with him — that no one man, or no single province, can decide whether to break away from Canada.

Clark said he had not read of the 15 Quebec candidates who disagree with him, but he claimed the majority of his party members in Quebec agree with him.

Today, (Monday) Clark reopens his travelling campaign after a weekend's rest with his wife and daughter. He will travel to the Yukon and Northwest Territories before moving back into central Canada.

Sure, Clark Was Tense And Made Some Goofs: Stanfield

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Stanfield, former leader of the federal Progressive Conservative party, says Joe Clark has made mistakes in the current federal election campaign.

"I think, initially, he was pretty tense, as you would expect a new leader to be in his first campaign."

Clark made a mistake in saying he would keep the multinational oil companies in line by threatening them with pollution regulations, Stanfield said.

Stanfield said Clark made another mistake when he said police could break the law with a cabinet minister's authorization, although the minister would be held responsible later.

Go for PM's Throat: Dief

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP) — The time has come for the Progressive Conservative party to "take the foils off" and launch an all-out attack on Prime Minister Trudeau and his record, according to former prime minister John Diefenbaker.

Diefenbaker told 400 persons at a dinner honoring Cecil Smith, incumbent Conservative candidate in Churchill constituency, that Canada will be in the "direst danger" if Trudeau is handed the reins of government for another five years.

Despite Trudeau's boast that the Canadian economy ranks among the best in the western world, Diefenbaker said, the reality is that government spending has increased about 20 times.

He said government expenditure has increased from $530 per capita during his government to $2,100 during the Trudeau years.

In 1971 Trudeau said he had "licked inflation." In 1972, he said he had "wrestled inflation to the ground.

"I'd like to know where the fall was."

Diefenbaker said he does not believe Quebecers will vote for separation, and that Trudeau is using the issue to confuse voters.

Diefenbaker made a few comments about Tory Leader Joe Clark in the speech, his second appearance outside his Prince Albert, Sask., riding during the campaign. He said the Conservative party now is led by a man with a good record in Parliament.

"Trudeau has been telling us that faith will boost the economy, but I say it is time for Canadians to show their faith and boost Trudeau out of office."

By Staying 'Bankrupt' Ex-Distiller Ducks Out

TORONTO (CP) — Former millionaire distiller Larry McGuinness has chosen to remain bankrupt, depriving his creditors a court hearing to ask questions about a missing $3 to $4 million.

McGuinness's lawyer, Jules Berman, withdrew his client's application for discharge from bankruptcy after lawyers for the creditors asked Mr. Justice David Henry to order McGuinness to answer their questions.

Berman said his 58-year-old client chose to remain bankrupt rather than testify in an open court where the news media would treat him as "an animal behind bars in a zoo."

Last November, McGuinness spent two days being questioned in private by a special examiner. Lawyers for the creditors said the answers were not satisfactory.

The transcript of the examination showed a lack of adequate accounting, said Ron Robertson, acting for the Clarkson Co. Ltd., and the Toronto-Dominion Bank, on whose $347,064 loan McGuinness declared bankruptcy in 1977.

Hilda McKinlay, a lawyer representing McGuinness's sister Margaret Burka and his father's estate said McGuinness has "contradicted himself under oath and consistently loses his memory" in the transcript. Mrs. Burka is claiming $431,952.

A lawyer for Revenue Canada, which says McGuinness owes $470,564 in back taxes, also wanted McGuinness to testify and provide better accounting.

Berman had sought to have the application for discharge heard in his client's absence, arguing that McGuinness had supplied all the information he could to the examiner.

After the creditors' lawyers asked the judge to order McGuinness to appear, Berman asked to withdraw the application.

Tentative Pact for Inco

TORONTO (CP) — A tentative settlement of an eight-month strike by 11,700 mining and smelter workers at Inco Metals Co. in Sudbury, Ont., was reached Sunday.

The strikers are to vote within the next seven days on the proposed contract, which would give them an increase of $3.50 an hour in wages and benefits over three years, union spokesmen told a news conference.

Representatives of the company and Local 6500, United Steelworkers of America, which represents the workers, signed a memorandum of agreement after a weekend of round-the-clock bargaining at a Toronto hotel.

Stewart Cooke, a union director, said the memorandum was agreed to by 14 of the union's 16-member negotiating team, and the other two members are considering it. He said there is no doubt the contract will be ratified.

Cooke said one of the keys to the settlement was the retention of a grievance procedure in which the final stages are handled at one central office. The company wanted the system decentralized, he said.

The grievance procedure was cited by union members as a major factor when the strike started last September.

Inco negotiator Bill Correll said in an interview the company would not comment on the grievance procedure or any other part of the contract until after ratification.

"If they (union negotiators) want to make a lot of inflammatory statements I am not going to respond," Correll said. "That community (Sudbury) has suffered enough."

Victor Pathe, an Ontario government mediator, said there was no single issue that resulted in the breakthrough.

"I think there was a conclusion by both sides that there had to be a real compromise if there was to be a settlement," Pathe said.

He called the dispute a classic struggle between management and labor.

Gilbert Gilchrist, head of the union's bargaining committee, said about 2,000 of the employees who went on strike Sept. 15 have found other jobs. But he said he expects most of them to return to Inco.

Under the new contract, the base rate including cost-of-living allowance is to increase to $7.30 an hour from $6.79 an hour upon ratification.

The workers are to receive 10-cent-an-hour increases in the base rate during the second and third years of the contract as well as cost-of-living allowances that the union contended would give workers an additional $1.65 an hour by the time the contract expires.

Also, a pension plan was approved that would allow workers to retire after 35 years service regardless of age and provide a top pension of a $908 a month.

Former Convict Fights For Reform of Prisons

TORONTO (CP) — A former prisoner who helped others appeal sentences while he was in jail says the prison system is out of control and the government needs to impose discipline.

Stephen Carr-Harris, who uses his legal training to fight what he calls injustices caused by the prison and legal systems, said confusion and discontent is widespread among both staff and prisoners because of a top-heavy bureaucracy.

Carr-Harris said Sunday in an interview that prison officials "don't know which way they are going. The end result is a bureaucracy out of control."

Carr-Harris, paroled after serving three years on charges of possessing a stolen car and possessing money from an Ottawa bank robbery, said he is continuing work on behalf of prisoners which he started while a penitentiary prisoner.

A graduate of Chicago University law school, he has written 18 successful appeals reducing sentences by about 100 years although he is not a member of any bar.

Carr-Harris, 50, said sentences handed down by Canadian courts often are "far out of proportion to crimes committed and the rehabilitative value of the offender."

BRIAN SMITH ON PROVINCIAL AFFAIRS

BRITISH COLUMBIA AND THE FUTURE OF CANADA

I am sure the concern of many of you is about the future of Canada and the place of British Columbia in our nation. In my experience as a lecturer on Canadian Constitutional History and as a lawyer who has appeared on constitutional cases in the Courts of this Province and in the Supreme Court of Canada, I have studied Canada's constitutional problems. I have also followed the continual conferences which have taken place between First Ministers of the Provinces and the Prime Minister. Our Province has made a serious and constructive contribution to holding the nation together. Nine carefully researched position papers have been prepared by the British Columbia Government for the latest Federal—Provincial Constitutional meetings. Our Premier, Bill Bennett, has been acclaimed by the Eastern Canadian press for the quality preparation of the British Columbia constitutional proposals. Bill Bennett has urged the Federal Government to give British Columbia a stronger share in national decision making and a greater representation on Federal Boards and decision making bodies. This approach has been positive and constructive at a time when so many are negative about our future or advocate unwanted sweeping changes in our system of Government. We must strengthen and not weaken our traditions of parliamentary liberty. But we must ensure that the Province of British Columbia is going to play a greater role in the affairs of the nation.

In the past I have submitted constitutional briefs to Canadian Parliamentary Committees and I would like to put my experience and background to work in the British Columbia Legislature.

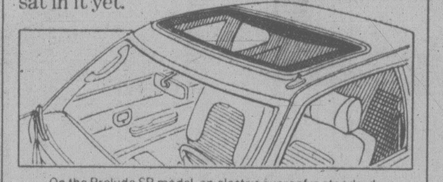
THIS AD PAID FOR BY THE COMMITTEE TO ELECT BRIAN SMITH

2,062 LBS. OF ADRENALIN.

The first time you see its lustrous metallic blue/black coat your heart starts to beat a little faster. Thumpa, thumpa, thump. Then your eyes slide over its tight, road hugging silhouette and your heart beats even faster. Thumpa, thumpa, thumpa, thump. And the next thing you know your heart is speeding and you haven't even sat in it yet.



On the Prelude SR model, an electric sunroof is standard.

It's the new Honda Prelude—the GT car re-thought.

And if it doesn't start your heart beating faster, then it's time to see your doctor. But first, you have to hold your horses, because the Prelude is no mere rush of excitement. It's a highly refined piece of engineering that deserves to be plumbed to the depths of its technical specs.

An important part of Prelude's thinking is front-wheel drive. Prelude's FWD not only improves traction and handling, but it also eliminates the inefficiency, weight and bulk of a drive shaft and differential. The Prelude's engine is a 1600 cc SOHC engine that is mounted directly to the monocoque body. The all-new suspension is fully independent MacPherson Strut with offset springs and front and rear stabilizers that help keep the Prelude rock steady during hard driving and quick cornering. Inside you sit on multi-adjustable bucket seats with firm lumbar and lateral support. In front of you is an instrument panel that utilizes the latest concepts in design technology. There's a 'speedo-tach' that lets you monitor engine and road speeds at a glance. Just to the right of the instrument cluster is an AM/FM radio with a unique rotary tuner that is easily accessible to your right hand. Then let your right hand drop and it comes to grips comfortably with the shift lever of the five speed transmission. It's all perfectly thought out. But enough is enough. It's time to turn the key and get the adrenalin flowing. Thumpa, thumpa, thump. If you think your heart can stand it, see a new Prelude at your Honda dealers. And if you do it right now, during Honda's celebration of their 10th Anniversary in Canada,* you may have a chance to win a Special X Honda Civic, a Honda Accord Sedan or Hatchback, a Honda Z-50 Mini-Bike or even a Prelude. And everyone who takes a test drive gets a Honda cap. It's all happening at your Honda dealers right now.

*Contest ends May 31, 1979. While supplies last.

Barrett Attracts 8,000 to Arena

can you complain about too big a crowd."

And the entertainment was good.

Barrett was brought on stage with a rollicking version of the radio jingle, Dave Barrett and the NDP sung by the all-female group Ladies in Lites.

The crowd loved it and joined in while a grinning Barrett stood on stage, outstretched arms held high.

He was introduced by surprise guest, former CCF and NDP federal leader Tommy Douglas.

Douglas' appearance brought the crowd to its feet for a long ovation.

And the peppery little trouper didn't disappoint them. In one of his patented fiery deliveries he said the size of the crowd would be big enough to "scare Bill Bennett out of the other half of his wits."

Barrett's compassion will not allow his heart to become nothing but a "dessicated calculating machine," Douglas said.

Barrett gave a brief shot of encouragement to the candidates for both the federal and provincial elections who were on stage with him — Charles Barber and Gordon Hanson (Victoria), Frank Mitchell (Esquimalt-Port Renfrew), John Mika (Saanich and the Islands) and Muriel Overgaard (Oak Bay-Gordon Head) provincially — and Gretchen Brewin (Victoria-Oak Bay), Bob Cameron (Esquimalt-Saanich) and Jim Manly (Cowichan, Malahat and the Islands) federally.

Barrett then told the audience he was disappointed Bennett did not have the courage to face him in a one-on-one television debate.

Bennett has said recently his busy schedule doesn't allow him enough time for the debate.

As for Socred rumors that the NDP would do away with the homeowner's grant, Barrett said people of B.C. will have forgotten the Socreds long before they've forgotten the homeowner's grant.

On stage among potted geraniums and a translator for the deaf, Barrett said there is a certain madness in the world that can't control its own technology — the aspect of science that forgets human values.

"This party says 'no' to nuclear power," he said to one of the longest and loudest ovations of the night.

And he repeated the NDP promise that they wouldn't allow uranium mining.

He said there are enough other projects needed in B.C that would provide jobs through cautious and responsible development.

Still critical of the Socred shares giveaway in the B.C. Resources Investment Corporation (BRIC), Barrett said "one BRIC can do nothing, but everybody's BRIC in British Columbia together can build and develop as we share and grow with the resources and with the potential of the people of British Columbia together — not separately."

The rally raised more than $10,000 in donations to the NDP when the hat was passed.

The lone heckler — Gordon Head resident Maxwell Tracy who was brandishing a Brian Smith sign (Socred candidate in Oak Bay-Gordon Head) — picked a poor time to make an appearance.

Barrett had finished speaking and the audience was trying to hear the slide blues guitar of Jim Byrnes, not a Socred advocate.

In a brief scuffle, Tracy's sign was ripped up, to which he taunted the NDP crowd: "Just one sign in 8,000. Are you afraid of one sign?"

The entertainers and two MCs made a big point about their donated time all for the good of the NDP.

But they all also took advantage of the captive audience to plug their various shows and coming engagements.

Every group, from Bim, Jim Byrnes, Bill Sample and Barry Healy plugged Victoria's Harpo's nightclub.

Co-hosts Bruno Gerussi and Terry David Mulligan both mentioned their CBC shows.

But on the whole the NDP organizers were more than satisfied with the evening.

It capped off a day that began with Barrett's visiting a senior citizen's apartment and health-care facility in Burnaby developed by the New Vista Society, founded by the late Ernest Winch, a long-time CCF MLA.

Food Price Rise Hesitates

TORONTO (CP) — The Retail Council of Canada says it expects the consumer price index for April will show an increase of less than one-half of one per cent in retail food prices over March levels but warns the respite is temporary.

The council said in a statement today that stabilized beef prices, lower hog prices, lower fresh produce prices and a strengthened Canadian dollar were factors affecting its forecast for the index, which Statistics Canada is to release May 18.

The council said, however, beef prices can be expected to rise again in May and continue rising through the 1980s.

Higher energy and labor costs and dairy and bakery product prices will produce an average increase in the 1979 index approaching last year's 17.4-per-cent increase, the council said.

The index has risen by 2.3 per cent in January, 2.8 per cent in February and 2.9 per cent in March.

Scouts Seeking Pledges For Kaper

More than 700 boy scouts and their supporters are knocking on doors asking for pledges on the Great Kilometre Kaper to be held Saturday to support Scouting and the United Way.

All the schools in districts 61, 62 and 63 have been informed of the School Challenge Cup to be presented to the school with the most participants. Fairburn elementary has already accepted the challenge and is working hard getting pledge cards.

Art Roberts, president of the United Way, and campaign chairman Bob Harvey, will compete against each other for the Gold Plaque, which goes to the person who turns in the most money.

The Kilometre Kaper does not restrict methods of competing the maxi (32 kilometre) or mini (16 kilometre) courses. It will also offer a Crazy Kaper Trophy. This will go to the person completing the course in the most unique way. Costume and style will be considered by judges. Participants can walk, run, bike, jog, skateboard, bounce a ball or use any other motivation.

Those interested should phone the Victoria Scout House at 388-4265 or the United Way office at 385-6708.

The Dog-Cat Boom Proves Tough on the Pets

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

If you ask Wally Stonehouse he'll tell you frankly that society is going to the dogs.

To the cats, too, for that matter.

Stonehouse, a Toronto veterinarian, says we're in the throes of a pet-owning boom.

And while that's great for humans in need of a trusting companion who never talks back, it's posing something of a crisis in the pet world.

The reason is so many pet owners haven't the foggiest notion how to take care of them.

It's become a national concern, so worrisome in fact that 400 pet experts and fanciers from across Canada and the U.S. will gather in Vancouver at the end of the month to discuss the problems at the Second Canadian Symposium on Pets and Society.

For three days they'll mull over the central issue: Proper pets for proper people.

Stonehouse, in Victoria to promote the event which is open to the public, says the meeting is really a continuation of the first symposium held in Toronto three years ago. Then the focus was on the responsibilities of pet owners.

This symposium promises to be more analytical, probing deeper into areas touched upon in earlier sessions.

Among the speakers will be Alan Beck, one of the drafters of New York City's controversial Canine Clean-Up Law, and Erika Freidmann of Philadelphia who will talk about her research into how pets help victims of heart attacks. She claims victims who have pets have a higher survival rate.

The major intent of the exercise is to generate greater public awareness of the rights and wrongs in keeping pets.

It's aimed not only at pet owners but also civic officials faced with the task of trying to control a seemingly uncontrollable problem.

Stonehouse says the increase in pet owning is symptomatic of the times and a reflection of changes within society.

For example, there are more single persons than families acquiring pets these days. That's not surprising considering the breakdown in families, high divorce rate, and tendency of young people to move out of home at an earlier age to be on their own.

Smaller dogs and cats are also increasing in popularity largely because of social pressures.

Although the doberman and German shepherd still rank one-two in the U.S., the mini-schnauzer is fast closing the gap. Stonehouse expects the schnauzer, along with breeds such as cocker spaniels, scotties and toy terriers will become the favored canines of the 1980s.

Part of the reason for this change, he says, is economic. Smaller animals cost less to feed. But another factor is the move by more people out of the suburbs and into apartments where large dogs are seldom welcome.

More women, too, are keeping pets and this is reflected in a dramatic surge in interest in cats, particularly purebred varieties such as Burmese, Himalayan, and even exotic species like the rex, manx, and Abyssinian.

But perhaps the most dramatic change is the pet's role in the household.

While years ago the pet served largely a functional purpose — cats as rodent-catchers and dogs for hunting and protection — pets today are often kept for no other reason than as a companion.

Stonehouse says this close relationship is not without perils. Animals have a knack of attuning themselves to the household environment. The way a pet behaves often reveals characteristics of its owner.

If the master is neurotic, so will be his pet.

If a dog bites, don't blame the animal. Look to its owner. You'll probably find an aggressive person with an inferiority complex.

Stonehouse says the most common failing of pet owners is lacking an appreciation of the world as perceived by the pet.

"As much as people care for animals they willingly subject them to the horrors of a hostile environment outside the house," he says.

"The world outdoors to a cat or dog is no picnic. They get hit by cars. They get into accidents. They get chewed up by other dogs.

"If the owners were ever subjected to the same treatment, they'd never survive."

STORMY CHAPTER in recent Saanich history was closed today when a backhoe and bulldozer started tearing up the infamous concrete drainage basin alongside the Colquitz Creek at Interurban Road. Structure was the focus of what became known as the Panama Flats affair. Last November a council row erupted when Saanich learned that the drainage facilities had been built illegally on municipal land by potato farmers Ian and Michael Vantreight, sons of Ald. Geoff Vantreight. At the time Vantreight was chairman of council's bylaw enforcement committee. Amid calls for an official inquiry, Vantreight senior refused to resign his council seat. But the Vantreights were given until June 30 to remove the drainage basin and today's work assured that the deadline will be met. The cost? "Ask me when it's finished," said Ian Vantreight. Shriners Spend $1½ Million Here

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Victoria's economy continues to improve, bolstered by $1.5 million in spending by the Shriners' convention last week, local Canada Employment Centre manager Wally Pickering said today.

He said the 3,000 delegates spent about $500 each during their four-day visit. Most of them were accompanied by their wives, making a total of 5,000 visitors for the city.

Most of the money was spent in local hotels, restaurants and stores.

Pickering said it was disappointing the city did not do more to make them welcome by putting up banners and signs.

"We tend to take too much for granted in Victoria," he said. "We think the visitors will just keep coming back without any effort on our part."

More must be done if Victoria wants to become a major convention city, he added.

Victoria's tourist season began in April, one month earlier than usual, with revenues 10 per cent higher than the same month one year ago.

Hotels and restaurants were busy, especially in the downtown area. The surge created openings for 30 chefs and cooks plus 50 waiters or waitresses during the month.

The surge continued through the first week of May.

Pickering said a survey by CEC information officer Dan Bowes showed the economy improved on a number of fronts:

— Real estate sales are strong with 306 properties sold under Multiple Listing Service during April, up from 262 in the same month one year ago. Sales were worth $19.5 million, up from $17.2 million. There were 661 properties listed during the month and 306 sold for a sales-to-listing ratio of 46 per cent.

— Stores in the Victoria area reported revenues up five per cent with heavy demand for furniture and large appliances.

— Burrard Yarrows Corp. shipyard increased its work force to 775. This total may dip to 600 by month's end but will rise again in June when work begins on a new ferry. The work force will continue to increase, probably peaking in September.

— About 1,500 are employed in local sawmilling plants and, barring a labor dispute, this total is expected to be maintained for at least six months.

— Some improvement is noted in construction, although this area still lags. There is increasing optimism because of recent announcements about hospital construction and the promised convention centre.

With the real estate surge, some carpenters may soon find employment building new houses. The stock of new homes has almost disappeared because of heavy demand.

The CEC farm labor office reported a heavy demand for tree planters and greenhouse workers in April. There is a continuing demand for farm mechanics, dairy herdsmen and licensed pesticide applicators.

The local fish cannery is awaiting the coho season which begins in June.

There has been no increase in government hiring and competition is keen for the few openings that become available.

Apology Sought By Ruff

B.C. Human Rights Branch director Kathleen Ruff has asked a Human Rights Commission member to apologize for saying a branch officer should be fired.

Ruff said today that remarks made recently by commission member Jock Smith were unjustified and uncalled for.

At a public meeting April 3, Smith said branch officer Ajit Mehat should be dismissed for his handling of a sex-discrimination case. The case is in the hands of a provincial board of inquiry.

Ruff said Smith was wrong in saying Mehat had mishandled the case.

"The officer was competent and impartial in handling that case," said Ruff, "and there is nothing to suggest otherwise."

"I think it's a serious matter when a commission member makes threats about an officer who's just doing his job."

Gasoline No Worry For Pre-1971 Cars

Worried because gasoline for your pre-1971 car is getting scarce?

Don't be. In most cases you can use the new unleaded fuel mixed with regular gas without harming your engine.

A bulletin from B.C. Automobile Association shows that Husky and Chevron are about the last to supply premium grade leaded gasoline, specified for most high-compression engines before the advent of pollution control.

The tetraethyl lead contained in premium gas is necessary for proper combustion and to prevent ping and dieseling.

But service station operator Fred Greening said dieseling — when the engine continues to fire irregularly after the ignition switch is cut — is not harmful though it is disturbing.

People using regular gas or unleaded fuel can experience both, depending upon their individual engine requirements, timing and carburetor settings.

Most oil companies are supplying super unleaded gasoline which is supposed to accommodate pre-1971 cars. But they recommend putting one-half to one-quarter of a tank of regular gas in it every fourth or fifth tankful to maintain a level of lead.

Greening said many customers successfully mix regular and unleaded 50-50.

Language Centre for UVic

The University of Victoria is using $200,000 worth of federal grants to develop a language centre.

The centre, on the lower floor of the Clearihue Building's new fourth wing, consists of three classroom laboratories and one study laboratory.

J.G. Seidel, the centre's new technical director, is supervising the move of equipment from the old language and listening laboratories in the MacLaurin Building.

The new centre is slightly larger than the MacLaurin labs and contains sophisticated equipment purchased with the federal money.

New equipment includes a speech analysis machine and a simulataneous translation machine as well as video-recording equipment and research materials.

Barge Hung Up

A barge that tipped over in Saanich Inlet last Thursday was still leaning against the side of the freighter Chavez today while lawyers tried to sort out legal details.

The Chavez, on charter to Ocean Cement Ltd., was unloading gypsum onto the unmanned barge.

A Vancouver spokesman for the company said today he could give no details of how the barge and freighter will be freed because lawyers for Ocean Cement and the shipping company which owns Chavez are still trying to decide what is to be done.

Meanwhile, the 24,000-ton freighter Chi Trust was loading lumber at Crofton today ater receiving minor damage to her bottom plates when she hit the beach Saturday morning.

A spokesman for Canadian Transport Co., which is chartering the Hong Kong-registered ship, said the ship was freed at high tide about noon Saturday and is expected to leave for Tokyo on Tuesday.

Saanich's Braintrust Is Alive But Not Well

The brainstorming committee created by Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier to ponder long-range planning is still alive but unwell.

The mayor confirmed the diagnosis today.

There has been no meeting of the committee for several weeks and he said there won't be until he can bring forward written suggestions for it to play a more effective role.

Couvelier set up the so-called policy and management committee of three aldermen and senior officials under his chairmanship five months ago. At the time he said the committee's value would be assessed after a six-month trial period.

But the mayor denied today he is thinking of scrapping the whole idea.

"It's just that I haven't been too happy with the kinds of items we have been considering," he added.

"In retrospect I think it's as much my fault as anyone's because I didn't do a good enough job of laying out the terms of reference."

Couvelier said he is now in the process of drafting a report which will attempt to define more clearly the kinds of items and issues he wanted the committee to tackle.

"It all relates to financial planning," he added. "The thing that has traditionally worried me is our inability to come to grips with long-range financial planning."

Initially the committee met in-camera but after criticism from several quarters, including community groups, its meetings were opened to the press and public.

Serving on the committee are Aldermen John Mika, David Paterson and Howard Sturrock, together with municipal administrator William Tremayne, controller-treasurer Roy Broughton and engineer Clifford Warren.

The Quick Brown Fox Wouldn't Jump

CHIEF AMONG THE tools of my trade is my typewriter, and when that fails me, I'm crippled. I was two-fingering my way through a job of work a while ago when a glance at the paper rolled into my machine revealed that all was not well. The lines had a gap-toothed look. Where a letter 'H' was called for, a bland space met the eye.

A type-bar, crystallized into metal fatigue by millions of words pounded out, had snapped.

Something of the sort put me out of commission last year, but the Fort Street genius who doctors ailing typewriters was able to come up with a spare part from his box of oddments. This new breakdown was more serious. My ancient Olivetti was one of only 200 made in its model: a replacement type-bar would have to come from Montreal, and it was doubtful if they'd have one even there.

Also, the typewriter man pointed out, this sort of thing was going to keep on happening. Other type-bars would fall victim to age and weariness. Much better if I accepted the inevitable and bought a new one.

So my wife and I went looking for new machines.

At once, it became apparent that in this matter, I had been living a Rip Van Winkle existence. Back when I bought the Olivetti, electric typewriters were still in the nature of novelties, reserved for office use. But time had wrought changes. Now, I discovered, non-electrics were reduced to a few little foreign-made portables.

Win seated herself in front of a large, impressive-looking electric. She turned it on. It set up a subdued humming. She rippled her fingers across the keyboard, effortlessly producing a "Quick brown fox jumped over the lazy dog's back."

"Try it," Win said. "It's nice."

I sidled in behind the gentley-purring monster and poised my fingers over the keys. The humming continued; the thing seemed to be waiting impatiently for me to produce words.

The effect was demoralizing. I couldn't even come up with a "Quick brown fox."

"It's no use," I said, backing away from the electric. "I couldn't work on that."

"You could always turn it off between thoughts," Win said. But she spoke without conviction.

We resumed our search for a non-electric typewriter. The prospects were daunting. Nobody seemed to be making the things any more.

Finally, disconsolate over our complete lack of success, we wandered into the Times building. The editor I called on was sympathetic.

"Here's how we do it now," he said, and took me into a news-room much changed from the noisy, cluttered cavern I once frequented.

Deadline was near. The reporters were grinding out their stories. Each was his own printer, operating a little computer that suckled from a big computer a floor or two removed. It was an awesome, and to me, a distressing sight.

"But I think we've still got a couple of the old machines kicking around," the editor said.

In the back of a storeroom to which it had been exiled, he turned up a non-electric, manually-operated typewriter.

We hoisted it off its shelf and carried it out to the light.

It was a large, foursquare Underwood, built solid as the Rock of Ages. Successive generations of reporters had labored out their storeis on it. It carried no date, but it was so old that the letters on its key-tabs bad been worn away.

I rolled a couple of sheets of copy paper into it. At once, we established an entente. It had precisely the hard-mouthed, ornery feel that I like in a typewriter.

It is mine now on loan, and though my Olivetti has come back repaired, I like to keep that solid old Underwood handy.

Its presence reminds me of an obscure proverb: "Everything changes, but everything remains the same." I'm not sure I understand it, but somehow it's reassuring.

Walton, Green Hot As Budgets in Split

PRESCOTT, Ariz. — Victoria Budget manager Harvey Stevenson sees "some areas that need work" after the defending Canadian men's softball champions split a four-game weekend exhibition series with Prescott Sportsmen, but there's nothing wrong with the way first and third base are being handled.

Solid afield, John Green, at third, and Bob Walton, at first, continue to provide Budgets with the most prolific production at the plate.

Scheduled to represent Canada at the Pan-American Games in Puerto Rico in July, Budgets opened a 10-game exhibition jaunt by defeating Prescott 4-0 and 6-2 on Saturday but the Sportsmen rebounded in Arizona's 37-degree (100 F) heat to claim 7-6 and 5-0 victories Sunday.

But the heat didn't slow down Green or Walton.

Walton, a new addition from Ontario, went 5-for-7 at the plate and drove in four runs in Saturday's victories, and added three hits and two RBIs Sunday. Thus, in the first eight games for his new team, Walton has connected for 15 hits in 26 times at bat for a resounding .577 average.

Green went 4-for-7 Sunday and almost single-handedly helped pull off a third victory. He banged out solo home runs in the second and fifth innings, then singled and scored in the seventh inning to force an extra frame in the first game. Prescott, however, pushed a run across in the bottom of the eighth to win 7-6 as a quartet of Victoria hurlers (Cliff Bishop, Rob Guenther, Dave Ruthowsky and Dave Wilson) allowed 11 hits.

Green has four home runs in eight games.

Mark Smith went the distance for Budgets in the second game and allowed eight hits while Gil Aragon scattered six for the shutout victory.

Ruthowsky and Guenther combined for Saturday's shutout while Smith, with fifth-inning help from Wilson, took credit for the 6-2 victory.

Outfielder Dennis Eckert helped Wilson with a home run.

Budgets take the day off today but continue their swing with a two-game series Tuesday in Phoenix.

Cricket Clubs Breeze

Albion, Alcos and Oak Bay breezed to victories Sunday in Victoria and District Cricket Association matches.

Albion dropped Saanich by seven wickets at Beacon Hill Park, Alcos defeated Cowichan by six wickets at Windsor Park and Oak Bay topped Incogs by eight wickets at St. Michael's University School.

On Saturday, Castaways defeated Nanaimo by 37 runs in the only league match while Oak Bay and Incogs chalked up wins in the opening round of the annual 40-overs competition.

Oak Bay downed Albion by three wickets at Windsor Park while Incogs defeated Cowichan by seven wickets at St. Michael's.

A Corporate Crush For Denver Orange

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Denver Broncos no longer will be able to refer to themselves, through booster paraphernalia, as the Orange Crush. From now on there will be only one Orange Crush — the soft drink.

The Broncos, National Football League Properties, Inc. and Crush International of Evanston have reached a mutual agreement, ending a legal dispute over the Crush trademark.

The orange-jerseyed Broncos encouraged the use of Orange Crush by their fans, who used the expression to refer to the team's defensive line.

Evanston-based Crush International will continue to use its trademake with the merchandizing and promotion of its soft-drink beverages, a spokesman said. No other parties will be allowed to use the logo, he added, unless they are given permission by the company.

Prince Harry Made It Close

Fowl Supper was third, eight lengths behind Prince Harry.

Mr. Prime Minister, which covered the 6 1-2 furlongs in 1:19 4-5 under Chris Loseth, now has won seven of nine lifetime starts.

Ray Telford Honored

Ray Telford, playing-coach of Nanaimo United, is the 1979 winner of the Wilf Sadler Memorial Trophy, one of the Vancouver Island Soccer League's most coveted awards.

The trophy, presented at the league's annual awards night and banquet, goes to the player who best combines sportsmanship, ability and leadership.

Jim Spencer, chairman of the Vancouver Island district, was honored as executive-of-the-year while other major awards went to Dean St. Pierre of Comsmopolitan Royals (rookie-of-the-year) and Oak Bay's Steve Akam (best goaltender).

Victoria Athletic teammates Mark Robb and Dan Hood shared the scoring championship trophy, each with 14 goals during the regular campaign.

Comos of the second division were named winners of the Referees' Trophy as the most sportsmanship team.

Most-valuable-player awards went to Mike Hardy of Gorge (I), Salvatori Scandale of DaVinci (II), Scott McLean of Campbell River (III), John Hughes of Gorge (IV) and Joe Moniz of Croatia (V).

While the ceremonies marked the official end of the Island soccer season, both Athletics and Victoria West will remain active as the Island representatives in Province Cup play.

Athletics will face Vancouver Columbus at Royal Athletic Park next Saturday (at 2:15) while Wests travel to Vancouver to play Eldorado Gems in cup quarter-finals.

As well, an Island select squad will face Bristol City of the English first division in an international exhibition at Royal Athletic Park on May 28. Tickets for the event are available through the Memorial Arena box office.

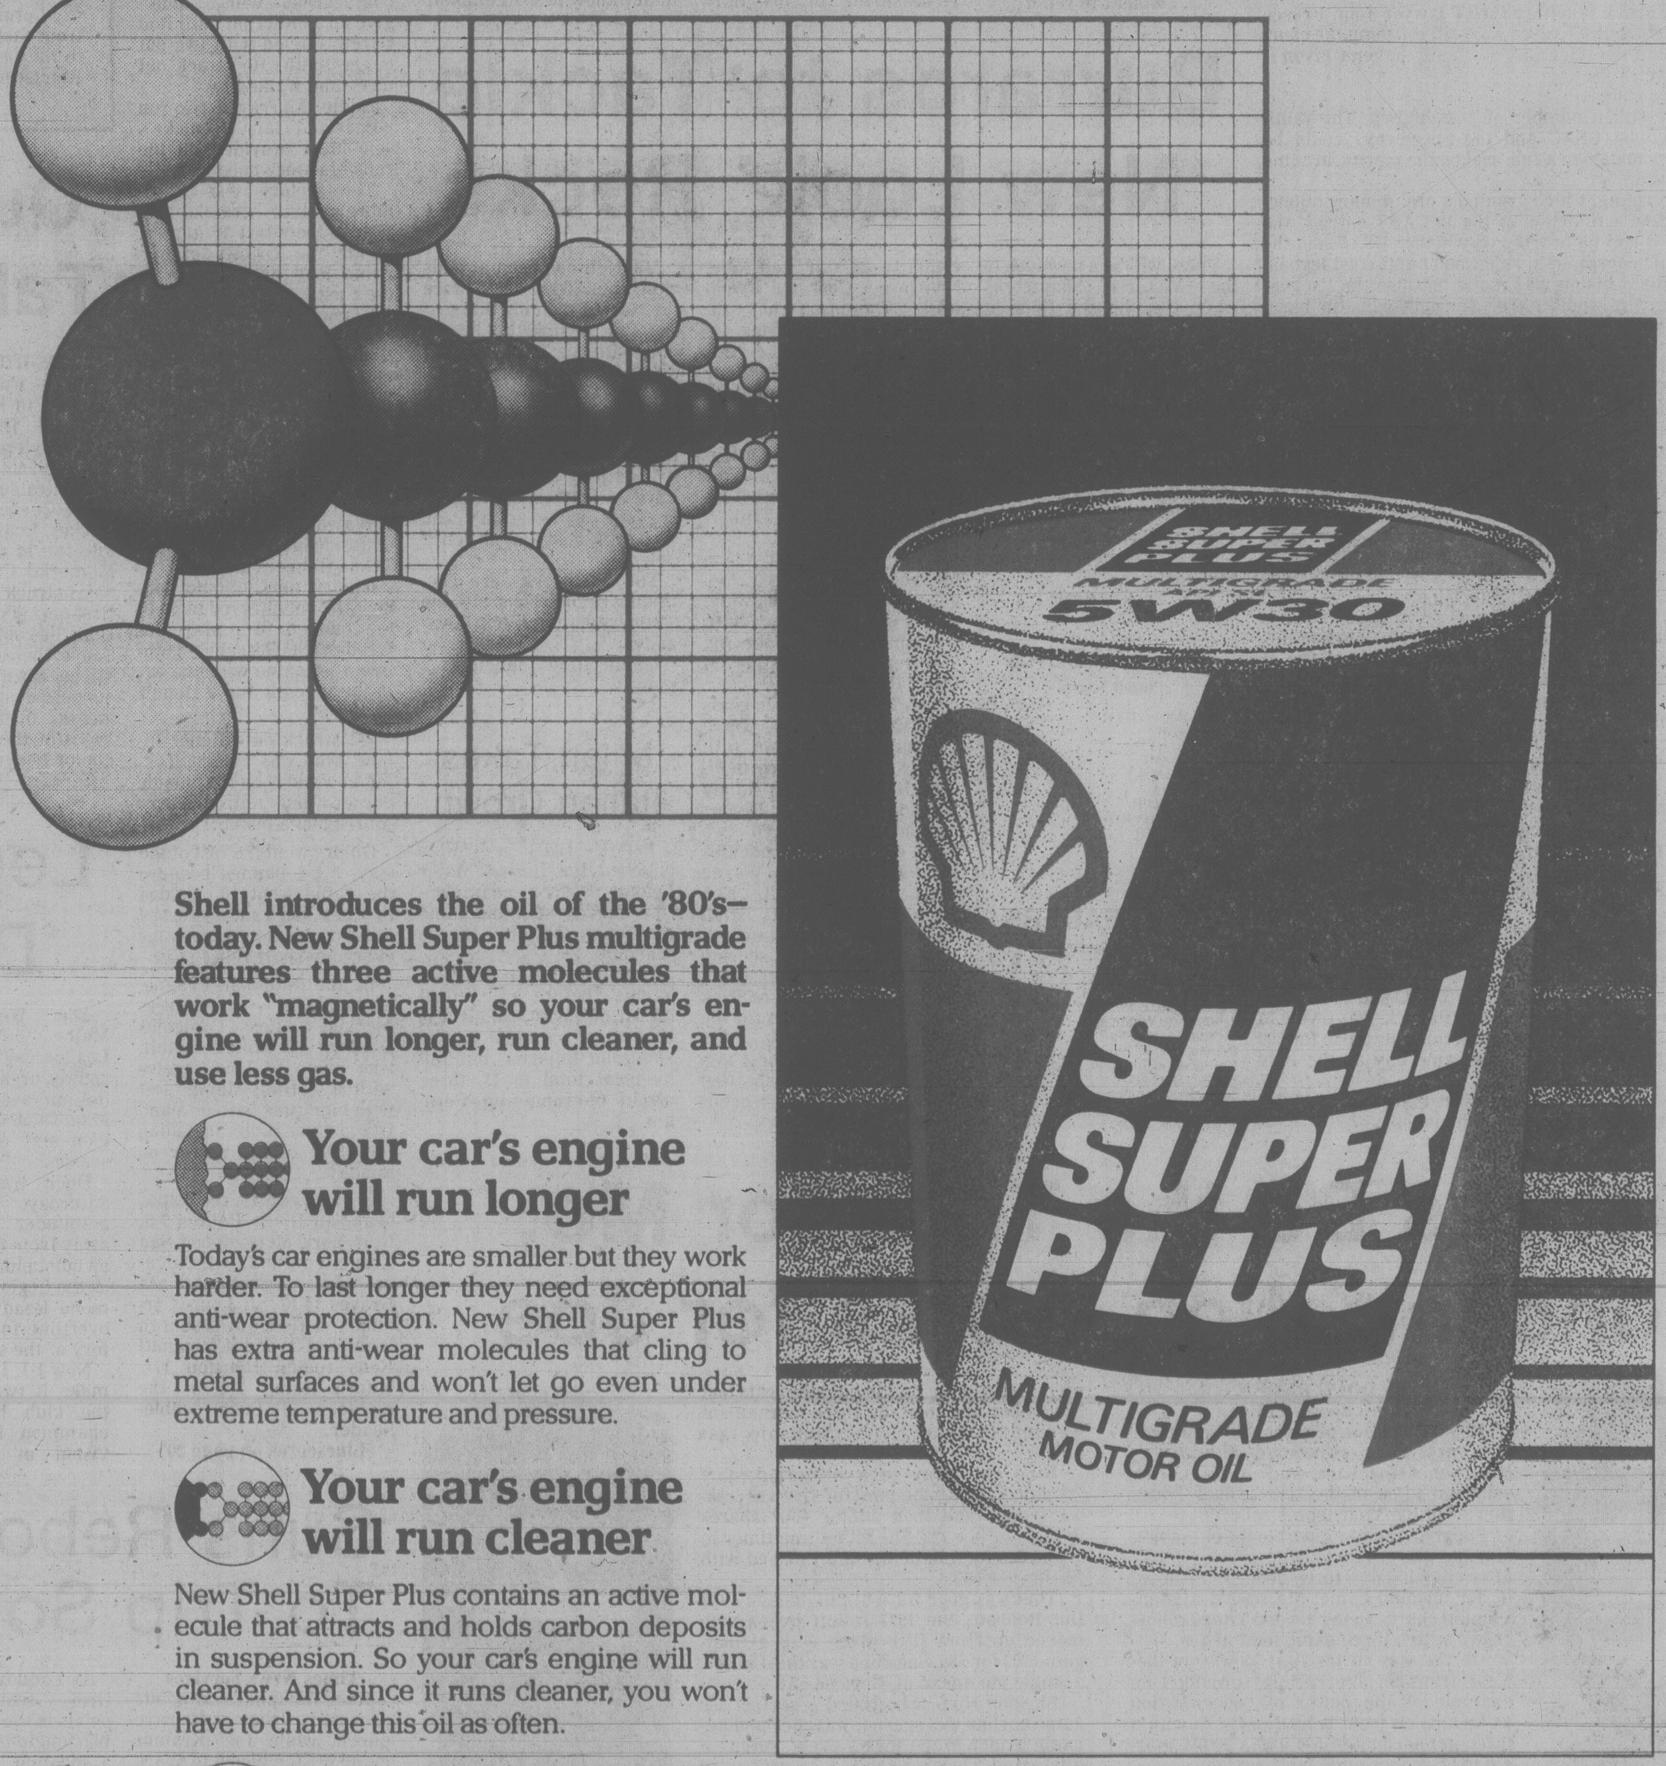
How "Three Magnetic Molecules" deliver the best engine protection ever offered by Shell



Shell introduces the oil of the '80's–today. New Shell Super Plus multigrade features three active molecules that work "magnetically" so your car's engine will run longer, run cleaner, and use less gas.

Your car's engine will run longer

Today's car engines are smaller but they work harder. To last longer they need exceptional anti-wear protection. New Shell Super Plus has extra anti-wear molecules that cling to metal surfaces and won't let go even under extreme temperature and pressure.

Your car's engine will run cleaner

New Shell Super Plus contains an active molecule that attracts and holds carbon deposits in suspension. So your car's engine will run cleaner. And since it runs cleaner, you won't have to change this oil as often.

Your car's engine will use less gas

New Shell Super Plus contains a unique friction modifier developed by Shell. This long-chain molecule bonds itself to moving parts and provides a super slick running surface. No break-in period is required. You start saving gasoline right away.

This is, quite simply, the best automotive motor oil Shell has ever produced. It's designed to perform up to 24,000 km. But it's not just an "extra mileage" or an "extra long service" motor oil. It provides a superb balance of protection for your car's engine.

It's so good we think you should ask for Shell Super Plus by name. See your local Shell dealer.

Shutt Makes Habs Go

MONTREAL (CP) — Left winger Steve Shutt made a welcome return to Montreal's lineup in a 5-1 victory Saturday night over Boston Bruins, but the Canadiens ended up even in manpower when they lost the services of centre Doug Risebrough for about 10 days.

Risebrough suffered a broken nose in a third-period fight with Boston's Terry O'Reilly and, if the Canadiens turn their 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven National Hockey League semi-final series into a berth in the final, will miss at least the start of the Stanley Cup showdown.

The sixth game against the Bruins will be played Tuesday night at Boston.

"Steve was rushing their defencemen all the time and they had to throw the puck around the boards," said right winger Guy Lafleur, who was reunited with Shutt, coming off a layoff with a charley horse, and centre Jacques Lemaire.

The linemates attacked with familiar verve, firing a total of 12 shots on goal, and Lafleur scored Montreal's first two goals 25 seconds apart, the first with an assist from Shutt.

"We had more chances with Steve tonight, and he had some great shots on the net, too," said Lafleur. "It's nice to see him back."

Larry Robinson followed Lafleur with the Canadiens' third goal of the first period, and Serge Savard and Mario Tremblay added third-period scores against Bruins goaltender Gilles Gilbert. Wayne Cashman got the Boston goal against Ken Dryden on a power play.

"I think he has a little bit more confidence," said Shutt in assessing the effect of his return on Lafleur. "He knows he's going to get the puck so he starts skating through holes. Once he starts skating, everybody starts skating.

"Our line tried to really forecheck their defence, and I think it worked, because we stole the puck on them in there a lot more than we did in any of the other games.

Bruins coach Don Cherry, meanwhile, claimed to have been abandoned even by his most faithful friend and adviser, his pet bull terrier, Blue.

"Now I'm really on my own — Blue doesn't even talk to me," Cherry said of the dog he credits with convincing him to start Gilbert in the games in Boston, thereby sparking the Bruins.

Cherry said he'd expected Canadiens to be fired up.

"They played brutal in the first two games here and lucked out, and now they've come and played a real super game. Now we've got to go back (to Boston) and we'll be ready.

The Rangers Are Laughing And Joking

UNIONDALE N.Y. (CP) — As he sipped a beer, Chubby Cheeks shouted at Clark Kent, who was rubbing ointment on a skin rash that came out of the blue.

"Clark Kent alias Super Moves," said Don Murdoch to Phil Esposito in the rangers' dressing room after Saturday's 4-3 victory over the Islanders in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

"He's mad at me because I call him Chubby Cheeks," Esposito said, laughing.

The Rangers were dog-tired after the frantic fifth game ended with Anders Hedberg's backhand goal with 2:13 remaining. Yet, it was a fun atmosphere for them even if Esposito had the rash.

The two New York teams move their best-of-seven National Hockey League semi-final series to Madison Square Garden for the sixth game Tuesday night. The Rangers hold the upper hand, 3-2.

The Islanders are shocked and depressed and coach Al Arbour openly critical of the way his best line — Bryan Trottier, Clark Gillies and Mike Bossy — has been handcuffed around the net mainly because of the Rangers' forechecking.

In the five games, the line has just two points — a goal by Trottier and an assist by Gillies. The vaunted Islander power play has failed 19 straight times.

To Esposito, it's obvious — almost unbelievable — what Ranger coach Fred Shero is doing to stop Trottier and defenceman Denis Potvin in particular.

"Shero is doing the same thing he did to stop Boston," Esposito said, recalling the 1974 series when Shero coached Philadelphia Flyers to their second Stanley Cup.

The Flyers defeated Boston in six games in the final, concentrating on Esposito, who was still a Bruin, and stopping Bobby Orr, whose knees were going. They are doing the same to Potvin now.

Lorne Henning, Mike Kaszycki and Bobby Nystrom each scored as the Islanders rallied three times to tie the score. Don Maloney, Lucien DeBlois and Ron Greschner got the other Rangers goals.

Drivers' Victory In Court Won't End the Battle

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Championship Auto Racing Teams have scored an important victory in federal court but the battle with the United States Auto Club is far from over.

The ruling by Judge James Noland of district court late Saturday night put 19 entries by six CART teams back in the Indianapolis 500 auto race May 27. But its impact could extend well beyond the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

CART president Pat Patrick, one of the six car owners whose entries were rejected by USAC two weeks ago, might be a bit hesitant to voice his options, but even he admits Noland's ruling left the breakaway racing organization in a good position for the future.

For now, Patrick is letting CART lawyer John Frasco talk about specifics. But Frasco was still relishing the court victory and said the CART forces "really haven't given it much thought yet."

Still, Frasco said:

"There are still a number of possibilities. The (anti-trust) suit (against USAC and the Speedway) could be dropped, or we could go to a full trial on the merits, at some time in the future."

In Noland's ruling, which granted a preliminary injunction against USAC's rejection of the 19 CART entries, the judge stressed it had no bearing on whether USAC and the Speedway in fact conspired in violation of anti-trust legislation. He said the decision was made because the "severe hardship the drivers would suffer, far outweighs the harm to the defendants by allowing them to race."

The eight drivers who might have been kept from competing in the 500 were defending champ Al Unser, his brother Bobby Unser, Gordon Johncock and Johnny Rutherford, all former Indy winners, and veterans Wally Dallenbach, Mike Mosley and Steve Krisiloff and Rick Mears, last year's co-rookie of the year.

USAC had maintained all along that its action was not directed at the drivers, whom they said could get rides with other racing teams.

But it was the testimony by three of the drivers, Al Unser, Rutherford and Dallenbach — all of whom said they could not and would not switch allegiance — that might have meant the difference in Noland's decision.

"The other side saying we can go drive another car is completely ridiculous," Rutherford said. "I've been in this business 22 years, 17 of them in championship cars. I'm at the point in my career where I want to be, with Team McLaren, and I don't feel someone should be able to take that away from me."

Both Dallenbach and Unser said there was a special relationship between a driver and his team.

"It's hard to explain," said Dallenbach, who has been the drivers' representative with CART.

In the end, it was the consideration more for the drivers and their fans than for the car owners that swayed Noland's view.

"If only the CART owners and the defendants were involved, the court might let the situation stand as it is," Noland said. "But there is no way the drivers can sit out the Indianapolis 500 without suffering harm. The drivers are the keystone of a team effort."

In closing testimony, lawyers for USAC and the Speedway tried to show that CART, through Patrick, was trying to gain leverage by threatening a competing race, also for 500 miles, and a $1 million purse, the same day as the Indy 500.

Patrick testified in court, however, that it was CART's intention all along to compete at Indianapolis.

Martinez Keeps Orioles in First

By The Associated Press

It began on anything but an auspicious note. Dennis Martinez's first six pitches were balls, and Baltimore manager Earl Weaver sent pitching coach Ray Miller to the mound.

"I told Dennis to start throwing the ball and stop aiming it," Miller said.

Martinez, a 23-year-old right-hander in his third season with the Orioles, apparently took the advice to heart. He pitched no-hit ball until California's Don Baylor singled on a 1-2 pitch to lead off the seventh and wound up with a two-hit, 6-0 shutout over the Angels in an American League baseball game Sunday.

"Baylor hit a pretty good pitch," Martinez said, he didn't know he had a no-hitter going until the previous inning. "It was a slider, low and away."

Martinez said he thought a hard grounder by Dan Ford right at second baseman Kiko Garcia might have been ruled a hit in the fourth. Instead, Garcia was given an error, but Martinez hadn't noticed.

Martinez, 3-2 after three consecutive wins, didn't give up another hit until Rod Carew singled with two out in the ninth. He struck out three and walked two.

Eddie Murray's two-run homer and Gary Roenicke's solo blast provided all the runs Martinez needed.

The victory was Baltimore's sixth straight and 15th in their last 16 games, giving the Orioles a one-game lead over Boston in the East.

Elsewhere, Ron Guidry, in his new relief role, pitched New York Yankees to a 6-5 victory over Oakland A's, Seattle Mariners beat Boston Red Sox 3-2, Milwaukee Brewers blanked Toronto Blue Jays 4-0, Cleveland Indians nipped Kansas City Royals 5-4, Minnesota Twins defeated Detroit Tigers 9-6 and Chicago White Sox beat Texas Rangers 3-0.

Guidry, the Cy Young winner who volunteered to go to the bullpen to replace injured Rich Gossage, came into a 5-5 game with one out in the seventh and a runner on third.

He struck out Miguel Dilone, who was caught looking at a slider on the outside corner, and retired Larry Murray on a popup.

Guidry went the rest of the way, 3 2-3 innings because the game went 10, yielded two hits and ran his record to 3-2 on 69 pitches, not your everyday short relief stint.

In the National League, Philadelphia Phillies blanked Los Angeles Dodgers 4-0. Mike Schmidt, who came to Los Angeles with a batting slump, left with nine runs batted in and five home runs, including the 199th of his career on Sunday.

In other games, the Expos beat San Diego Padres 7-5, New York Mets nipped San Francisco Giants 5-4, Chicago Cubs topped Atlanta Braves 14-13, St. Louis Cardinals defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2 and Cincinnati Reds routed Houston 17-5 before losing 8-2 in the nightcap of their doubleheader.

Burrards to Tackle 'New Look' Rocks

There will be a new look to the Victoria Shamrocks when they hit the floor at Memorial Arena tonight for a Western Lacrosse Association game against arch-rival Vancouver Burrards.

Gone are two of the team's stars from previous seasons — Ron MacNeil and Ivan Thompson — while in their place will be two former Victoria junior stars, Bob Cool and Jim Lynch, who played for Nanaimo Timbermen last year.

The Rocks turned over rights to all-star Ron MacNeil to get Cool and Lynch while Thompson has informed the club of his retirement.

Cool and Lynch played for Shamrocks in Coquitlam Saturday and each contributed a goal in the Rocks' 11-10 victory over the Adanacs. In another game, New Westminster Salmonbellies defeated Nanaimo Timbermen 9-5 at Nanaimo.

Chris Hall and Joe McCrea each scored two goals for the Irish while others were scored by Charn Dhillon, Dennis Somner, Art Webster, Dave Thomson and Craig Robinson.

Tim Kelly had three goals for the Adanacs. Dave Durante scored two with singles going to Jim Aitchison, Rhys Parsons, Randy Delmonico and Gord Dean.

Ivan Tuura scored two goals for the Salmonbellies while Eric Cowieson, Wayne Goss, Bill Mosdell, Ken Brown, Bob Tasker, Brian Tasker and Len Cimmenelli had singles. WLA scoring champion Brian Evans, Ken King, Randy Noble and Rick and Ron Sage scored for the Timbermen.

Victory was the first this year for the Irish who tied Nanaimo 6-6 in their debut here last week.

MacNeil has been at odds with the Shamrocks since the start of training this season. It is possible that he will play with the Timbermen if an offer is good enough. Earlier this year MacNeil said he might retire since he was undecided about his future in the game.

Thompson said he doesn't have the interest in the sport he feels is necessary and thought it best that he retire now.

The Shamrocks are continuing negotiations with the Timbermen for Kevin Alexander.

Milan Takes Italian Crown

ROME (AP) — Milan clinched the Italian Major League soccer championship Sunday with one game remaining on the league schedule.

In Sunday's 29th round of games before a sellout crowd of 75,000, Milan was held to a scoreless tie by underdog Bologna, but ran its point total to 43, three ahead of runner-up Perugia.

Quebec Club Takes Opener

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — For a team that claimed to have taken two periods to find skating legs, Trois-Rivieres Draveurs managed to bide their time in admirable fashion.

The Quebec Major Junior Hockey League champions, idle for 10 days before the Memorial Cup opener Sunday, struck for two early first-period goals by Gaston Douville and Jean-Francois Sauve, then added a score by Michel Normand in the middle period on the way to a 4-3 victory over Peterborough Petes of the Ontario Major Junior League.

Bernard Gallant had a third-period goal as the Draveurs broke to a 1-0 start in the three-team, double-round-robin tournament.

Brandon Wheat Kings of the Western Hockey League meet the Draveurs here tonight in the second game, with the top two teams after the double round-robin meeting in the championship game.

Gallant's goal in the third period proved to be the winner after Keith Crowder scored at 18:12 for the Petes to narrow the gap to one. Terry Bovair had both earlier scores for Peterborough.

Legion Enjoys 'Duch' Treat

The Western Canada Major Junior Lacrosse League spotlight has a habit, rightly or wrongly, of shining on scoring feats, but Mike Duch of Esquimalt Legion may change that this season.

Duch was the sparkler Saturday. The Esquimalt netminder took the play away from the shooters with an outstanding performance as the Legion defeated Richmond Roadrunners 16-15 in overtime for their first victory of the season.

Now 1-1, Legion will try to make it two straight when the club hosts defending champion Burnaby Cablevision at the Esquimalt Sports Centre Tuesday night, starting at 8.

The Legion didn't lack an offensive hero at Richmond Saturday. Bruce Alexander scored his second goal of the night at 8:20 in overtime to provide the winner.

But it was Duch's night for heroics. He made 52 stops to backstop Legion in the rough, penalty-filled encounter. Rival Dave Lemire made 38 saves.

Legion led 7-5 after the first period, trailed 11-9 after the second and teams were tied 13-13 at the end of regulation time.

Wayne Reeve topped Legion scorers with three goals and Tery Jay scored twice before suffering a hip injury that may keep him out of action Tuesday.

In the weekend's only other game, Cablevision defeated New Westminster Salmonbellies 16-10 Sunday at Burnaby as Lloyd Symons, Gordie Roberts, Lyle Robertson, Dan McLenaghen, Bruce Turris and Paulo Brunoro each scored two goals for the defending champs.

Rod Sepka, with three goals, and Les Dobray and Dan MacIsach, with two apiece, led New Westminster.

Deuces Do the Trick for Mo; Concentration Works for Joe

By DOUG PEDEN
Times Sports Editor

Reputations for being toughies in tournaments were enhanced Sunday as Maureen (Mo) King and Joe Frohlich collected titles in the 16th annual Times Bowler-of-the-Year tenpin rolloffs.

Supplying solid support to the old saying of poker players that "deuces never loses" after chalking up a three-deuce score of 222 in her opening game, Mo staged a front-running charge to her second Times rolloff crown with a three-game total of 589.

On the way to his first Bowler-of-the-Year triumph, Joe perhaps provided an example of the power of concentration as he hustled from behind to finish with a three-game count of 590 and a 20-pin margin over runner-up Brian Grexton.

Each of the winners received a Times Trophy, but both missed out on the bonus prize that goes to any rolloff champion who is a daily subscriber to the Victoria Times.

Fivepin champions were decided the previous weekend at Town and Country Lanes with Dorothy Krimmer posting a record fourth rolloff victory and Dan McDougall grabbing his first title.

Contestants qualified for berths in the rolloffs by winning weekly awards in each of four divisions — men's and women's sections in both fivepins and tenpins — during the annual, 26-week Times Bowler-of-the-Week competition.

King and Frohlich each struggled with lower-than-usual averages while bowling in two leagues during the past season, but both went into Sunday's tenpin chase with proven ability to hit big scores under tournament pressure. Mo won the provincial all-events crown in 1969 and is a two-time winner of the city all-events title while Joe was second in the provincial all-events last November and took the three-tournament Vancouver Island championship last month.

King got away to a blistering start Sunday, rattling the pins for five successive strikes and then adding four spares to register her 222. She hit a three-timer in her second game of 186 and finished with 181 for her 589.

That was good for a 31-pin margin over Dot Bennett, the 1977 rolloff queen who moved up from fifth place with a final-game 203 for 558. Sue Jubb was third at 547, a single pin ahead of Merleen Hill.

Sheldon Nipp, who rolled a perfect 300 game earlier this season, was the opening-game leader in the men's event, rolling a blistering 230 as Frohlich opened with 219.

Nipp slipped back in the second game and Frohlich appeared likely to follow suit after three open frames left with the skimpy count of 80 after six frames.

It was then that Joe gave himself a brief pep talk. "I told myself that I had been bowling well and I decided to concentrate more," he said later.

Whether it was concentration or just a return to bowling form will never be known, but the result was four strikes and a spare in the closing frames that gave gave Frohlich a 175 and a two-game tally of 394. Just two pins behind were Len Hayley, with a second-game 232, and Grexton, who fired a 214.

Steady bowling (four strikes and seven spares) did the trick for Frohlich down the stretch. He finished with 196 for his 590 with Grexton at 570, Jerry Hansen at 568 and former rolloff champion Rod Caddell, closing with the day's top single-game score of 241, tied with Nipp at 541.

Suns Rebound To Trip Sonics

Times News Services

Paul Westphal's 25 points provided the offensive punch, while Joel Kramer came off the bench to spark a strong defensive effort as Phoenix Suns beat Seattle SuperSonics 113-103 Sunday to move back into contention in their National Basketball Association semi-final playoff.

The triumph, which came before a sellout Phoenix crowd of 12,660, narrowed Seattle's lead in the best-of-seven Western Conference title series to 2-1. The fourth game will be played Tuesday in Phoenix.

Seattle had a 61-60 half-time lead. Gus Williams, who led all scorers with 35 points, had 24 opening-half points, including seven straight points in the closing seconds, to put the SuperSonics out front at the intermission.

At Landover, Md., Kevin Grevey scored 12 of his 18 points in the third quarter as Washington Bullets snapped a shooting slump and beat San Antonio Spurs 115-95 Sunday to even their Eastern Conference series at one game apiece.

NEXT STOP IN TRIPLE CROWN IN OWN BACKYARD

Pressure Off Now — Franklin

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Ron Franklin, the kid who didn't get Spectacular Bid beat after all, says the pressure now is off him because he's a Kentucky Derby winner, and the next stop in the Triple Crown quest is right in his own backyard.

Looking ahead to the May 19 Preakness Stakes at Pimlico, not far from his Baltimore neighborhood, Franklin said Sunday: "I won 119 races in 108 days at Pimlico last year. I think I know the track pretty well."

Bud Delp, the trainer of Spectacular Bid, also knows Pimlico well, having been one of the leading trainers on the Maryland circuit for many years.

Back in March, there was some doubt whether Franklin would have the Derby mount on Spectacular Bid. Delp said "Willie Shoemaker is just a phone call away" and blasted Franklin as an "idiot" for his roundabout — though victorious — ride aboard the grey son of Bold Bidder after the March 6 Florida Derby at Hialeah.

Although Delp gave Franklin his first job after the youngster dropped out of high school at age 16 and the jockey lives with Delp and his two teen-age sons, the sometimes caustic trainer threw the decision of whether to stick with Franklin to Harry Meyerhoff and his family, owners of the colt.

Because they believed Franklin had a feel for the horse, the Meyerhoffs stayed with the youngster.

On Saturday, before a crowd of 128,488 at Churchill Downs, Franklin guided favored Spectacular Bid from back of the pack to a 2¾-length victory over Bertram Firestone's General Assembly. The first leg of thoroughbred racing's Triple Crown marked the 11th straight triumph, all stakes, for Kentucky-bred Spectacular Bid, and his 13th triumph in 15 career starts.

Franklin said: "When I first saw the track earlier this week I said, 'Wow. Where's the finish line?' But the pressure is off now."

There are seven likely candidates to challenge Spectacular Bid in the 1 3-16-mile Preakness. In addition to the second and third Derby finishers, General Assembly and Golden Act, ridden by Sandy Hawley of Misssauga, Ont., Flying Paster, the 2-1 choice who ran fifth, and Screen King, who was sixth, are possible Preakness starters.

Other Preakness probables are Instrument Landing, the Wood Memorial winner; Czaravich, third in the Wood after three straight wins; and Smarten, winner of Saturday's Woodlawn at Pimlico.

Spectacular Bid was clocked in a comparatively slow 2:02 2-5 for the 1¼-mile Derby distance on a track listed as fast, but regarded as less than fast because of two days' previous rain.

Spectacular Bid paid $3.20, $3 and $2.80 as the 3-5 favorite. General Assembly, a son of Secretariat, returned $5.80 and $3.40. Golden Act paid $4.20.

King Celebrity, a 112-1 longshot, ran fourth. After Flying Paster and Screen King came Sir Ivor Again, Shamgo, Lot o'Gold and Great Redeemer, the first maiden starter since 1971, ran 47½ lengths behind the winner.

Spectacular Bid added $228,650 to his earnings, raising his career earnings to $958,287.

City Players Shine In National Tourney

WINNIPEG — Victoria's strong junior program was evident at the Canadian junior squash championships Sunday, with two players from the Vancouver Island city capturing titles while a third just missed.

Andrie Levey of Victoria captured the girls under-19 title, defeating Sue Rose of Seattle, Wash., 9-2, 9-4, 5-9, 6-9, 9-3. Cathy Coverton of Vancouver was sidelined by Levey in a semi-final, 9-4, 9-7, 10-8.

Jamie Bentley of Toronto won the boys under-16 final, beating Richard Jackson of Victoria 9-5, 9-2, 1-9, 8-10, 9-4 in a brilliantly-played finale. Jackson won his semi-final match 2-9, 9-1, 9-0, 9-3 over Alex Doucas of Montreal, who was seeded fourth, while Bentley defeated Mark Heaney of Vancouver, 10-8, 9-4, 9-3.

Victorians also made a strong showing in the national rankings determined at the championships.

Levey was ranked first in the under-16 category and Proctor tops the boys' under-14 list with John Dickie of Victoria ranked fifth.

In the boys' under-16 class, Jackson is ranked second, Mike Montgomery fourth, Dale Willard fifth, Mark Heaney sixth and Tim Proctor tenth.

Labatts, Strandlund in Split; As Hall, Kilgour Get Wins

Labatts and Strandlund Bros. split a doubleheader in Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League play Sunday at Central Park.

Labatts crammed four runs into the sixth inning to win the opener 5-2 but Strandlund came back to take a 4-3 decision in the second encounter.

In the only other game, Juan de Fuca Builders nipped K&R Sooke, 3-2.

Barry Underwood led off the four-run rally for Labatts with a one-out single, advanced to second on a sacrifice by Frank Cooper, gained third on the error that allowed Cooper to reach first and scored on a wild pitch.

Ross Barnett finished off the rally by bashing a two-out triple to drive in Kerry Brewster, who had singled home Cooper, and Don Marshall, who had gained first on a single.

Larry Hall picked up the victory by pitching a two-hitter.

In the second game, Bob Caldwell doubled in Randy Strandlund for the winning run in the seventh inning. Standlund finished the game with two hits, including a third-inning triple, in three trips to the plate. John Kilgour held Labatts to five hits for the win.

Builders scored their winning run in the seventh inning when Mike Penner led off with a triple and came home on a one-out single by Scott Hastings. Len Carolan struck out seven batters, allowed only one walk and scattered six hits for the win.

In a Saturday doubleheader in Port Angeles, Telecable topped visiting Seaboard Construction 3-2 in the opener but lost the second game, 9-1.

In Heywood Men's League play Sunday, Mears Realty swept a doubleheader from Brentwood 11-1 and 5-2 while Capital edged Athletics 5-4 at Heywood Avenue Park.

Rands Goes Out of Way To Uphold Uplands Honor

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

Bruce Rands' entry into this year's CFAX Vancouver Island Open golf tournament was a last-minute decision, and only because the Uplands assistant professional felt "someone had to represent the pro shop."

The honor of the shop fell into good hands.

Turning into something of a giant-killer on his home grounds, the 28-year-old Rands eliminated a pair of fellow professionals Sunday to advance to the match-play final against another 28-year-old, defending champion Dave Mick.

The 36-hole finale between the pro and the amateur will be played next Sunday at Victoria Club.

At the same time, Lawrie Kerr, the 1956 Island Open champion from Colwood, and Gorge Vale's Bill Frith of Gorge Vale will play off for the handicap crown as both survived Sunday's two-round showdown at Uplands.

But it was Rands who made the biggest noise. The oldest of five golf-playing brothers, Bruce first knocked off medallist Bob Beauchemin, the touring pro who returned to Victoria just in time to enter the Island Open. Playing one-over-par golf, Rands upset Beauchemin 2 and 1 in the morning quarter-finals.

He then came back to beat Colwood pro Bob Hogarth, two up, in the afternoon semi-finals.

Mick, in the meantime, also picked on a professional. Blowing a four-hole advantage he enjoyed at the turn, Mick bounced back to defeat John Morgan on the 19th. He then sealed his second straight appearance in the final by defeating 17-year-old Ian Harper of Nanaimo, one up.

Ian defeated his 18-year-old brother Bruce 2 and 1 while in the other quarter-final, Hogarth eliminated Glen Meadows pro Bill Penny 3 and 2.

Rands has qualified for match-play only four times in the past but never survived the second round.

It was different this year as Rands opened with a victory over Uplands amateur Jim Taylor, defeated Gorge Vale's Urban Allen and then followed it up with Sunday's two triumphs.

Bruce didn't intend to play. Because of work, head pro Don Billsborough dropped playing honors into the laps of his two assistants — Rands and/or Bruce Glencross. The latter intended to enter but was forced to change his plans because of a switch in vacation plans.

That's when Rands decided to enter.

He credits Sunday's victories to a busy week of lesson-giving.

"I was giving putting and chipping lessons all week," he said. "They helped my game."

He consistently conceded distance off the tees to both Beauchemin and Hogarth. While his irons "weren't bad," the deciding factor in both matches was his strong chipping and putting.

Sunday's results:

Lopez Claims Another

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Nancy Lopez, who trailed for three rounds, fired a four-under-par 68 Sunday to win the $80,000 Women's International golf tournament by three strokes.

Her 72-hole total of 282, six-under-par, earned the unflappable 22-year-old $12,000 and lifted her to the top of the 1979 Ladies Professional Golf Association money list with $88,475.

It was her third victory this year for and her 12th since joining the tour last year, when she was leading money-winner with $213,000.

In second place with an even-par-72 Sunday and a three-under total of 285 was Donna Horton White, the third-round leader. She took home $8,000.

Cathy Sherk of Port Colborne, Ont., had a final-round 70 for 294. She earned $1,250.

Amateur Marlene Stewart Streit of Stouffville, Ont., closed with a 70 Sunday to finish at 298.

Levi Can Relax

HOUSTON (AP) — Wayne Levi, suddenly in possession of the first individual title of his brief golfing career, has a plan for the rest of the Professional Golfers' Association tour season.

"I'm gonna relax and take it easy for the rest of the year," the physically-and emotionally-exhausted Levi said Sunday after scoring a two-stroke victory in the 36-hole conclusion of the Houston Open.

"Oh, I'm going to play, but I'm not going to worry about it," said Levi, a 26-year-old who is finishing his second full year of tour activity.

The victory, built on a course-record eight-under-par 63 for the first 18 holes of the two-round windup, gained for him: his first invitation to the Masters, in 1980; a spot in the Tournament of Champions; the sure knowledge he'll be exempt from qualifying for the 1980 season; and, with $54,000 from the total purse of $300,000, gave him a very respectable $117,034 in earnings for the season.

Levi, a native of upstate New York now living in Tampa, Fla., made his first bid for prominence when he combined with Bob Mann for a victory in the national team championship last year.

He's threatened several times on the tour this season, including a tie for second in the San Diego Open. But this was his first individual victory, and he won it with authority.

Both Dan Halldorson of Brandon and Dave Barr of Kelowna missed the cut of 141. Halldorson missed the final two rounds despite a second-round 69 that gave him a 143 total. Barr shot a 70 for a 144 total.

Barnes Wins Italian Title

COMO, Italy (Reuter) — Britain's Brian Barnes won the Italian Open golf championship with a birdie on the fourth hole of a sudden-death playoff Sunday against defending champion Dale Hayes of South Africa.

Barnes, twice runner-up in the event, shot 67 and Hayes a 68 to tie on 281, seven-under par for 72 holes.

Third at 284 were Britain's Sam Torrance and Argentinian Vicente Fernandez while Gar Hamilton of Toronto fired a closing round 71 for a 72-hole score of 289.

Evans Takes Island Crown

Perry Evans, competing for the new Lakehill Boxing Club of Victoria, captured the middle-lightweight title in the Vancouver Island golden gloves championships at Nanaimo.

Evans earned his crown in Saturday's finals by scoring a decision over Nanaimo's Lee Campbell, a former provincial silver gloves champion.

Creery Helps Canadians Capture Team Title

VANCOUVER (CP) — Australian Bill Scott surged away from Toronto's Mike Dyon at the 15-mile mark and went on to win the Vancouver international marathon race Sunday in a personal best time of two hours, 15 minutes and 56 seconds.

Scott was the only runner in sight at the finish, crossing the line more than a minute ahead of New Zealand's Tony Good, who finished second in 2:17:08 over the 26-mile, 385-yard course.

Tom Howard of Surrey, still recovering from his 40th-place performance in the Boston marathon three weeks ago, was third in 2:18:32, while Dyon fell back to fourth with a time of 2:19:13.

However, the three designated Canadian runners all finished in the top 10 to win the team title over teams from New Zealand, Australia and the United States.

Scott, a 27-year-old from Melbourne who usually concentrates on the 10,000 metres and was running only his third marathon, said he was pleased with his time, especially after a slow early pace.

"I didn't feel good until I went out front to really work it," he said. "It usually pays if you feel flat to go out and push it."

Scott, Good, Howard and Dyon traded the lead in the early going as the course wound through Stanley Park and along English Bay, but the Australian's surge as the runners turned for home after a long run into the city' east end put him in front for good.

The first woman across the line was Gail MacKean, 21, of Comox, who outduelled two American women to finish in 2:44:52, one second ahead of 18-year-old Gail Volk of Seattle and three seconds ahead of Cynthia Haney, 21, of Honolulu.

The time was a personal best for MacKean, a physiotherapy student at the University of Manitoba who said she kept losing ground on the downhills because her legs were tight.

Finishing as the first Canadian, Howard, 31, automatically wins one of the two Canadian spots in the Pan American Games marathon in Puerto Rico in July. He said he wasn't certain whether he would go.

"I don't relish the idea of running three marathons in three months because I usually only run two in a year," he said.

Howard was not an official member of the Canadian team, but Dyon's finish combined with a seventh by Mike Creery of Victoria and a ninth by John Hill of Vancouver gave Canada the team title.

Among the 12 designated international runners, the Canadians finished third, fifth and seventh, giving them 15 place points and a tie with the New Zealanders. But the Canadians won because their third runner finished higher than the third Kiwi.

Rick Langford, 26, of Fresno, Calif., was the first American across the line, finishing 10th in 2:22:36.

The race was run under almost perfect marathoning conditions — cloudy skies, temperatures near 11 degrees and light winds. But Mayor Jack Volrich, the official starter, didn't realize that. His prediction that the sun would shine before the race ended drew hoots and jeers from the more than 900 runners who started.

By time the four-hour limit, agreed to by the sponsors as a condition for using city streets, was up, 776 had finished. The youngest was 12-year-old Neil McIver from West Vancouver in 3:10:38.

U.S. Retains Cup

MADRID (AP) — The United States won its fourth consecutive Federation Cup as Chris Evert-Lloyd squeezed by Australia's Dianne Fromholtz, 2-6, 6-3, 8-6, in one of the longest, closest matches of her career Sunday.

The win gave the American's an unbeatable 2-0 lead in the best-of-three final.

After two hours and 25 minutes on the court, interrupted for an hour by rain early in the third set, the 24-year-old Evert-Lloyd clinched the world team championship of women's tennis for the United States with a winning cross-court backhand.

It was her 122nd consecutive singles victory on clay and Australia's fifth consecutive defeat in the final of the $110,000, 32-country competition. Evert-Lloyd had suffered a rare loss to Fromholtz in March in the U. S. women's winter tour championship.

The 22-year-old Fromholtz, considered by many to be the best Australian lefthander ever, was in top form Sunday. Twice she came within four points of winning the match — at 5-4 and again at 6-5 in the third, 80-minute set. But Evert Lloyd, playing her first tournament since her marriage April 17, held her service on both occasions and went on to break serve as the aggressive little Australian mishit.

Earlier, 16-year-old Tracy Austin had an easy win over Australian Kerry Reid, 6-3, 6-0, to give the U.S. team its first singles victory.

The U.S. made it a sweep as captain Billie Jean King and Rosie Casals beat Reid and Wendy Turnbull 3-6, 6-3, 8-6.

It was the eighth Federation Cup victory for the Americans. Australia has won seven times.

McEnroe Winner In Duel With Borg

DALLAS (AP) — John McEnroe beat favored Bjorn Borg, 7-5, 4-6, 6-2, 7-6 Sunday to capture the $100,000 first prize in the World Championship of Tennis finals.

The 20-year-old American clinched the match with a whistling ace in the fourth-set tie-breaker and celebrated by bounding around the court with his fists clenched in victory.

McEnroe, whose previous biggest victory was the Grand Prix Masters, took the fourth-set tie-breaker 7-5 against Borg, who struggled all day with his serve.

The Swedish ace led McEnroe 5-3 in the fourth set and seemingly was on his way to tying the match. However, McEnroe broke service with a radar-controlled backhand winner.

Borg, who collected $40,000 had won 17 consecutive matches before Sunday's loss.

The pouty McEnroe, who at various times shouted at the crowd to "sit down" and brusquely ordered a radio broadcaster "shut up," richly deserved the victory with his acrobatic net play.

Victory by the New Yorker gave him a 3-2 all-time edge over the 22-year-old Borg, ranked by computer as No. 1 in the world.

McEnroe let his temper get the best of him at times, slinging the racquet around and slamming it to the floor like it was a basketball.

Stockers Split With North Van

VANCOUVER — Stockers North Americans of Victoria split a Vancouver Senior "A" Women's Softball League doubleheader against North Vancouver here Sunday.

North Vancouver edged Stockers 4-3 in eight innings during the first game but the Victoria club bounced back to take the second encounter, 12-2.

Stockers enjoyed a 3-0 lead going into the top of the seventh inning in the opener but North Vancouver took advantage of two errors and collected two hits to tie it up. North Vancouver then scored the winning run in the eighth on two singles and a sacrifice.

In the second game, Stockers unleashed 15 hits and Debbie Derkson picked up the pitching victory with a four-hitter.

Derkson helped her own cause by smashing a key double in the 10-run seventh inng.

Gale Prince was the overall batting hero in the second game with four hits in five trips to the plate and Sandy Ferguson was two-for-four.

A scheduled doubleheader Saturday between Stockers and Vancouver Merchants was rained out.

Hudspeth Signed

WINNIPEG (CP) — Import defensive back Max Hudspeth, a free agent, has signed with Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League for the 1979 season.

Canada Continues Drive Toward Title

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — If they hadn't already done so, members of Canada's team at the eighth women's world basketball championships established their club as the team to beat Sunday while the pre-tourney favorites from the United States continued to struggle.

The favored Americans barely edged Italy 66-64 and the unbeaten Canadians scored their third straight victory in final-round action by downing France 72-59.

Montrealers Debbie Huband and Silvia Sweeney were one-two in the Canadian offence Sunday with 16 and 15 points respectively. The French started strongly and led by as many as four points before the Canadians recovered to carry a 39-34 lead into the last half.

The Americans, the silver-medal team at the 1976 Montreal Olympic Games, needed the victory to stay in contention for the title after losing to host South Korea in their opening game Friday.

The Canadian girls, who easily handled Italy 64-55 on Saturday, now rest for two days before meeting Japan in a crucial game. The Japanese, like the U.S. squad, have a 1-1 record and remain hard-pressed to stay in medal contention.

The Canadians, considered the strongest team, now have an impressive 3-0 won-lost record, remaining the front-runner for the championship, and have yet to be defeated in six tournament games.

Chris Critelli of St. Catharines, Ont., had 14 points for the Canadians in Sunday's game. Candy Clarkson of Ancaster, Ont., contributed 11 while Luanne Hebb of Victoria and Holly Jackson of Kelowna, B.C., each had six and Bev Smith of Salmon Arm scored four.

Smith and Huband each scored 16 points in Saturday's win over Italy with Sweeney collecting 14. Hebb and Critelli had six apiece, Clarkson four and Sharon Douglas of Regina, two.

Both France and Italy suffered their third setbacks against no victories in the seven-country championship round.

The U.S.-Italian game was so close that the Italian coach thought it ended in a tie and protested to the official scorer when the final whistle blew.

Unbeaten Australia (2-0) takes on South Korea (2-1) and the United States plays Japan in today's championship games.

Spriggs Tops Trial

Martin Spriggs of the host club edged Mark Grey of Sechelt to take expert laurels Sunday at the Victoria Motorcycle Club's annual Millstream Trial at Spectacle Lake on the Malahat.

Spriggs, riding a Yamaha, accumulated 45 points under the reverse-scoring system while Grey, aboard a Bultaco, had 46.

The event, attracting 38 riders, was the third in a series of six leading to the club championship.

Results:

Experts: 1. Martin Spriggs, Yamaha, 45; 2. Mark Grey of Sechelt, Bultaco, 46; 3. Roger Boothroyd, Yamaha, 58; 4. Peter Wille, Montessa, 68.

Seniors: 1. Doug Moore, Montessa, 40; 2. Russ Blow, Yamaha, 45; 3. Dave MacDonald, Montessa, 47; 4. Dave Horner, Bultaco, 50; 5. George Lohrmann, Yamaha, 52.

Novices: 1. Steve Fracy, Yamaha, 4; 2. Kelly Hunter, Montessa, 5; 3. Dave Lamont, Bultaco, 5; 4. Daryl Dzuba of Courtenay, Yamaha, 6; 5. Barb Lohrmann, Yamaha, 7.

Olsen Retains Crown

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Phil Olsen of Nanaimo successfully defended his javelin title with a toss of 272 feet, three inches and Finland's Markku Tuokko broke the discus record in the West Coast relays Saturday.

Tuokko had a throw of 223-6 for the best discus toss in the world this year.

Olsen's winning effort was second best in the United States this year, and came after he injured his right foot as he landed wrong on an earlier toss.

He won on his fifth throw and tried on his last attempt to break his meet record of 280-8, but he fouled.

"I'm really disappointed with my last throw," he said. "I was really psyched for it."

Tuokko's throws were smooth and seemingly effortless as he twice broke the meet record of 216-9 and exceeded 214 feet five times. He used a borrowed discus because his was found to be slightly too light.

RECORD SIXTH FOR JAMES BAY

VANCOUVER — James Bay Athletic Association captured a record sixth consecutive British Columbia rugby championship Saturday, bouncing Surrey Beavers 27-3 in the Rounsfell Cup final at the University of British Columbia.

Chuck Shergold sparked James Bay, which led 14-3 at the half, with two tries. Murray Allen scored a try and kicked a penalty goal while Barry Robbins booted a penalty goal and a convert, Gary Johnston came up with a push-over try and Mike Blades contributed a drop goal.

Rick Price scored a penalty goal for Beavers.

In the second-division final, UBC Thunderbirds blanked James Bay, 27-0.

Smith Just Misses In Bid for Titles

TORONTO (CP) — Keith Priestman of Kitchener, Ont., defeated brother Ken 15-11, 15-11 Sunday to win the men's singles title at the Canadian intermediate badminton championships.

Claire Backhouse of Vancouver beat Sandra Skillings of Vancouver 10-12, 11-8, 11-4 in the women's final.

Backhouse then teamed with Jessie Melchiorre of Toronto to defeat Debbie Smith of Victoria and Skillings 18-16, 18-15 in the women's doubles final.

David Debelle of Oakville, Ont., and Paul Johnson of Montreal beat Bob McDougall of Calgary and Ken Priestman 7-15, 15-2, 15-5 for the men's doubles title while Backhouse and Johnson beat McDougall and Skillings 15-6, 15-9 in the mixed final.

Smith's hopes of advancing to the women's final were chilled by her doubles partner when Skillings recorded a hard-fought 11-6, 12-10 semi-final victory Saturday.

Northampton Blanks B.C.'s Over-40 Side

Northampton of England blanked British Columbia 14-0 in an over-40s exhibition rugby match Saturday at the University of Victoria.

Pat Scutt led the visiting side with a try and a conversion while Colin Richardson and John Sheridan each added a try.

It was the third straight victory for the side on a tour of Vancouver Island. Northampton tripped the Ebb Tide by 6-4 and 4-0 counts last week in Duncan.

The match Saturday was marred by an accident which sent a Northampton player to hospital with heart problems. Two forwards collided and the Northampton player was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital and later transferred to Vancouver for further tests.

Barbarians Third

BURNABY — Oak Bay Barbarians picked off third place but Magee of Vancouver won the big prize in Saturday's showdown games at the annual British Columbia high school rugby championships.

Magee edged West Vancouver Hillside 8-4 in the championship finale.

Barbarians claimed third place at the conclusion of the 16-team tournament by tripping Victoria High Titans 17-6.

North Vancouver Island champion Port Alberni trounced a decimated Vancouver Point Grey squad 56-0 to finish 13th while Claremont Spartans edged Cranbrook 3-0 in a playoff for 15th place.

Trojans Surprise

Saanich Hornets, with a little help from Nanaimo Trojans, took over sole possession of first place in the Vancouver Island Junior Bantam Football League on Sunday at Cedar Hill Park.

Hornets trampled Saanich Vampires 46-2, Trojans tripped runner-up Juan de Fuca Tigers 26-22 and Oak Bay Bays crushed Cowichan Patriots, 71-6.

BAYS (71) — George McGregor, six touchdowns; Gerry Parden, two touchdowns and one one-point conversion; Ian Klitsie, five two-point conversions; Kegan Doyle, touchdown; Mark Chu, touchdown. PATRIOTS (6) — Dale Carnochan, touchdown.

Robinson, Davis Provide Power

Rich Robinson scored three goals to power Juan de Fuca Dragons to a 5-1 victory over Oak Bay Lions and Chris Davis matched the performance as Esquimalt Eagles blanked Saanich Panthers 4-0 in Victoria Boys' Field Hockey League action Saturday.

In another Little League division game, Peter Cheung's two goals sparked Gordon Head Lions to a 4-0 victory over Cedar Hill Hawks.

Juan de Fuca and Esquimalt played to a 1-1 draw in Junior Division play.

Grid Leaders Keep In Step

Saanich overpowered Victoria 44-6 and Juan de Fuca edged Gordon Head 12-6 Saturday to remain tied for the lead in the Lower Vancouver Island Peewee Football League.

The co-leaders both have 4-1, won-lost records.

Wayne Roach, with two touchdowns, and Dan Michaels, with a major and three converts, sparked Saanich's offense.

Paul Jack and Bob Dorval scored Juan de Fuca's touchdowns while Rob Heppel accounted for Gordon Head's points.

ALDRIDGE, STONE ALSO CLICK AT SPEEDWAY OPENING

Forsyth Enjoys Smooth Getaway

By JIM CRERAR
Times Staff

A crowd of 3,943 that showed up Saturday night to inspect Western Speedway's new 4,200-seat grandstand was treated to an added attraction by driver Terry Forsyth.

It was stock car racing's 26th season opener at the Langford locale and it went off without a hitch, especially for Forsyth.

The 31-year-old Victoria driver, who has campaigned in local and open competition for 13 years, ran away from nine opponents in the 20-lap superstock feature, finishing a half-lap ahead of second-place Larry Pollard.

Piloting a 1965 Chevelle for the third year, Forsyth finished first in one heat, third in another and had no trouble in the main event. He grabbed an early lead and lapped four foes on his way to the checkered flag.

Helping the former NASCAR Canadian runner-up and 1973 Western superstock champion was a new 307-cubic inch displacement engine (in place of last year's 283-CID mill) and front-end suspension work by Bill Vader of Port Alberni.

Forsyth, teaming with chief mechanic Ken Emerson for the seventh year, plans to stick to local driving this year. He was fifth in the points parade at Western last summer.

Gordie Stone, who won the stock car class and almost every feature race he entered last year, picked up where he left off by taking Saturday's 30-lap main event that drew 25 cars. Remarkably, there were only two yellow caution flags in the race and only four flags in 122 laps on the 11-event card. One of them was a red race-stopper unfurled when Ziggy Sawatski spun out on the first lap of the superstock feature.

First main event winner of the season was Bruce Aldridge who guided a '55 Chev to first place in the resurrected jalopy class.

All was not well for a couple of top superstock drivers. Jim Caudwell, runner-up last season in points to Orton Ker, missed the main event because of steering problems in his '72 Nova. Ker, meanwhile, was forced out of both heats and the main after the throttle linkage let go in his '74 Camaro, cutting off his fuel supply.

Earlier, Caudwell broke his own superstock track record in the time trials with a clocking of 17.93 seconds on the four-tenths mile oval.

Forty-four cars took part in Saturday's show, including 11 superstocks, 26 stocks and seven jalopies.

The new grandstand was dedicated to speedway director Andy Cottyn, who built the steel structure this spring to repleace the wooden stands he built in 1954.

LOWER PROVINCIAL INCOME TAX.

B.C. will enjoy the second-lowest provincial income tax in Canada.

The lowering of the provincial personal income tax by 2% effective July 1st, will allow British Columbians to keep more of their earned income. This will give B.C. the second lowest personal income tax rate of any province in Canada. Another new move is the assurance that no British Columbian will pay more provincial than federal income tax…lowering or removing provincial income tax for 65,000 B.C. residents. This is in addition to 110,000 British Columbians removed from provincial income tax rolls in 1977. These are direct benefits of the sound financial management practiced by your Social Credit government.

Untrue NDP Ads Steal Debate Time: Bennett

MAPLE RIDGE (CP) — Premier Bill Bennett categorically ruled out Saturday a television debate with New Democratic Party leader Dave Barrett during a tour of the Vancouver area that gave his lacklustre campaign a shot of adenalin.

Bennett said his schedule is full until the May 10 general election and he wants to spend the rest of the campaign outlining his Social Credit government's policies rather than listen to what he called the NDP's negative criticism.

While campaigning, the premier participated in two parades, a pancake breakfast and an indoor-outdoor picnic.

Bennett, driving an unlicensed vintage steam tractor, led an early morning parade down New Westminster's main street under police escort, gleefully blowing the piercing steam whistle as he went.

Later, Bennett told a news conference he will spend the rest of the campaign attempting to correct "untrue, misleading and distorted" NDP advertisements.

Asked to specify which advertisements he opposed, Bennett said: "All of them."

Bennett and Barrett regularly have challenged each other to a televised debate since the election was called but Bennett has insisted Barrett appear with Jim Kinnaird, president of the B.C. Federation of Labor, and former cabinet minister Bob Williams.

Barrett has accused Bennett of running away from a one-on-one debate.

The premier, who has spent most of the campaign attacking the NDP, said the voters are more interested in positive programs than negative criticism.

"I want to talk about our record. The voters are not interested in the negative personal attacks by the NDP."

Bennett also said he will try to offset effects of a letter written to B.C. members of the Painters and Allied Workers by their United States-based president.

The letter, released last week by Municipal Affairs Minister Bill Vander Zalm, called on union members to vote against Social Credit in the election on the grounds that a Bill of Rights proposed in the throne speech will include a right-to-work provision.

Bennett said the letter provides "misinformation to its members clearly following the NDP line" and denied the bill includes right-to-work legislation, saying the NDP is using the union as a front.

He said it is a sad commentary on the NDP that it has "to set up dummy organizations to convince anybody of anything."

Bennett said the NDP itself has a "secret, long-term plan in which there is no place for collective bargaining."

At a rally in New Westminster, Bennett effusively greeted his mother Mrs. May Bennett who had just returned from a vacation in Arizona.

Mrs. Bennett, said she had never enjoyed campaigning during the 30 years her husband, W. A. C. Bennett, was in politics.

During a short speech, the premier invited one heckler on stage "because Social Credit believes in free speech." The heckler, however, was booed off the stage.

"That is the best explanation of NDP policy I have heard to date," Bennett said after someone commented that the heckler had not made any sense.

On Sunday, Bennett returned to his low-key campaign style — handing out awards at the international marathon race in Vancouver, mainstreeting in Vancouver's Chinatown district and attending a picnic in Burnaby.

Bennett, whose visit to Chinatown was timed to coincide with large lunchtime crowds that traditionally go to the district on Sunday, campaigned with Finance Minister Evan Wolfe and four local Social Credit candidates.

Dr. Wah Leung, president of the Chinese Cultural Centre project, pressed Bennett and Wolfe for financial support for the $2.5 million building project. The premier later repeated an old promise that his government would give $400,000 towards the centre's first phase.

Former B.C. lieutenant-governor Jack Nicholson urged a crowd gathered to see the premier to vote Social Credit.

"I couldn't say that five years ago, but I am saying it now," Nicholson said, referring to the fact that the lieutenant-governor as the Queen's representative has to be non-political.

Bruce Eriksen, president of the Downtown Eastside Residents' Association, asked Bennett why his government was not closing down the beer parlors in the area which he said spawned criminal activities, drunkenness and other social problems.

Bennett did not reply to Eriksen who proceeded to wish the premier well in his retirement.

Eriksen said the Chinatown rally was illegal because the Vancouver charter and the city engineering department do not permit political rallies on Vancouver streets.

In Burnaby, the premier shook hands with a crowd gathered for an outdoor picnic and was entertained by a barbershop quartet and a group of Ukrainian singers.

Barrett Chalks Up Cue, Puts Three in the Pocket

VANCOUVER (CP) — New Democrat leader Dave Barrett showed a trace of his Vancouver East youth Saturday while mainstreeting along Commercial Drive in the city's Portuguese district.

When he dropped into a cafe that had a pool table, one of the two men at the table offered Barrett the cue to take a turn.

Barrett accepted, and under the glare of television lights, and watched by several dozen people from the cafe and street, smilingly tried a shot, but did not sink it.

The other pool player took his turn, sinking two, then missing his third.

Barrett was invited to try again.

He did and sank three straight shots to win the game for his partner.

"He didn't grow up in the East, End for nothing," mused one of the spectators.

Barrett began his morning of mainstreeting with a 30-minute walk through Vancouver's Chinatown, accompanied by Emery Barnes and Gary Lauk, both seeking re-election in Vancouver Centre, and Margaret Mitchell, running federally for the NDP in Vancouver East.

In one of the several markets he visited, Barrett indicated the barbequed pork and duck and said that an NDP government "will end the nonsense" over city health regulations governing storage of such food.

Regulations require storage at temperatures which merchants say ruins the flavor of the meat.

At the beginning of the walk, the politicians had only reporters for company, but as they walked, they gathered a parade of about 20 supporters.

When Barrett met a young couple with a baby, someone suggested it would be natural for a politician to kiss the baby.

When he leaned forward, the child broke into a huge smile and reached toward him, but the crowd's reaction frightened the child, who appeared ready to cry.

Barrett smiled and drew back, leaving the mother to comfort her puzzled infant.

The NDP leader then went to a fund-raising lunch

Secondary processing is a big part of B.C. mining.

Many people believe that mining in B.C. consists mainly of extracting ores from the ground and producing mineral concentrate for export to foreign markets. But there's also a good deal of secondary processing within our province—in fact, many thousands of people are now employed in this "other side" of B.C.'s mining industry.

A major centre for secondary mineral processing is located in the City of Trail. Here, at the giant Cominco operation, mineral concentrate from many sources is converted into lead, zinc and other finished metals…while a by-product of metal production is used to produce chemical fertilizers. An important source of concentrate for Trail is the Sullivan Mine at Kimberley…but concentrate is also received from over 20 other B.C. mines, from Pine Point in the Northwest Territories and from other world sources. This Canadian-owned operation provides direct employment for nearly 4,000 people, and indirectly supports many thousands of others.

B.C. is also an important producer of aluminum. The Alcan smelter at Kitimat has a capacity of 300,000 tons of finished aluminum yearly, for sale both within Canada and abroad. More than 2,500 people are employed at this operation…and, as with the Trail plant, thousands more depend on activity at Alcan for their livelihood.

The plants of Cominco at Trail and Alcan at Kitimat are major centres for secondary mineral processing—but there are also other such operations within British Columbia. At Afton near Kamloops, for example, B.C.'s first modern copper smelter began operating during 1977.

The export of mineral concentrate to foreign nations will continue to be an important part of B.C.'s mining activity. But secondary processing will play an increasingly prominent role in years to come. It's all part of the process of development which makes mining a vital economic force in British Columbia.

'Look Dick,' Said Jane, 'See Elwood Smiling'

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

BURNABY — Ken Chamberlain is a long-time Socred but he could live with an NDP government in B.C.

"I wouldn't be happy about it, but I'm not afraid of it. I would just keep working to throw them out again."

Chamberlain rejects the warnings from former provincial Tory leader Scott Wallace, the Isaiah of Oak Bay, who said the collapse of the multi-party system means an NDP victory is certain, possibly as early as 1984.

The forecast is right but the warning is misplaced, says Chamberlain.

"There should be an NDP victory, sooner or later to make the system work. I can accept that. I can live with it."

Chamberlain, 42, is an advertising agency executive who fled Manitoba when the NDP came to power there. He arrived in B.C. in 1971 just before the NDP formed a government here — but he stopped running.

He discovered that life went on under socialism (or the Barrett government's much-watered version of it) and it wasn't so terrible.

"I could see the two-party system emerging here and it is coming closer all the time."

What should happen now, he said, is for both major parties to change, to reduce the tensions and lower the level of confrontation.

"I would like to see a few socialists join Social Credit and the NDP could use more free enterprisers."

This adjustment should be made before the first provincial election in the 1980s, which, he said, likely will consist of a two-party fight in most ridings.

The future has already arrived in his riding of Burnaby-Willingdon and Chamberlain likes what he sees.

Socred Elwood Veitch is turning back a challenge from NDP candidate Jim Lorimer, who held the riding from 1972 to 1975.

Surveys by both parties show Socred support ranging from 40 per cent to 70 per cent across the riding and averaging at 55 per cent.

"We only need 51 per cent to win," Chamberlain says. "That's the arithmetic in a two-party fight."

(The same arithmetic in a straight two-party fight across the province can result in one party getting 49 per cent of the vote and not winning a single seat.)

Chamberlain concedes there could be landslide wins in the future because of the disappearance of the Liberals and Tories on the provincial scene but it could go either way. Landslides for the NDP are just as likely down the road, he said.

Meanwhile, NDP campaign workers are not all that keen on the new look, at least for the immediate future.

They hoped for a third party candidate — and the Socreds allege their hopes went beyond merely sitting back and wishing.

In any case, there is the very strange saga of Dan Donnelly, which brought the 1980s look to the Burnaby-Willingdon riding.

Donnelly is a 25-year-old refrigerator technician who worked with his parents for Social Credit candidate Don Seigo in New Westmister in the 1975 provincial election.

Young Donnelly became disenchanted with the Bennett government in 1976 and specifically suggested where ICBC czar Pat McGeer could stick his new, higher rates for young drivers.

Although his parents remained avid Socreds, young Donnelly decided to file as a Conservative candidate in Burnaby-Willingdon.

But when he started making the rounds to get the required 50 signatures, most of the Conservative party supporters urged him not to run. After several days of trying, he got only 14 names — and some of them said they planned to vote Social Credit.

So he packed it in. Or at least he was about to. But at 10:30 p.m. on Wednesday, April 25, one day before nomination deadline, he got a mysterious phone call.

The caller identified himself as a Tory supporter and offered to help get the required names.

"He came to my house about 11 p.m. and took the papers. I thought it was a little strange."

Even more strangely, the man returned at 1:15 a.m. with 50 signatures on the form.

"I asked him where he could get signatures that late at night and he replied: in the beer parlor. I couldn't understand it, considering how difficult it had been for me to get support. I didn't sleep very well."

When he left for work the next morning, with only four hours to go before nomination deadline, he considered filing his papers and entering the race.

But he was still troubled about the mysterious stranger and so he decided to check out some of the new names on the list.

"I only had time to check a few but of the first 10 addresses I checked out, seven had NDP signs on their lawns. I realized I was being had and I didn't run."

At NDP headquarters they deny any official involvement in the Donnelly saga but readily concede they wanted him in the race.

In a straight two-party fight the NDP battle is decidedly uphill.

Burnaby-Willingdon is the southwestern third of Burnaby, adjacent to Vancouver East, an NDP stronghold, and Vancouver South, a free enterprise riding.

As such, Burnaby-Willingdon is a swing area, a good indication of which way the election is going, at least in the Lower Mainland.

By this test, the NDP is in a difficult fight in this area and the chances of NDP candidates Rosemary Brown winning Burnaby-Edmonds and Eileen Dailly holding Burnaby North appear to depend upon the ability of Tory candidates in their ridings to split the free enterprise vote.

Some NDP party workers have drifted away from the Burnaby-Willingdon campaign to help both embattled NDP MLAs.

The only purely local issue is Oakalla prison.

Lorimer is using his past as municipal affairs minister and knowledge of transit to push for better bus service and the introduction of light rail commuter service.

Veitch is campaigning mainly on provincial issues and the need to keep the NDP out.

The 1975 result:

Elwood Veitch, Socred, 10,229

Jim Lorimer, NDP, 8,832

Jim Clark, Liberal, 1,677

Job Security Tops List BCGEU Takes to Talks

BURNABY (CP) — The British Columbia Government Employees Union will be after greater job security and more say in ministerial reorganization when contract negotiations with the provincial government begin next month, according to general secretary John Fryer.

"The question of the current government practice of contracting out our members' jobs is causing the union great concern," he said following a two-day bargaining conference.

"Our people can see their jobs disappearing to private industry, often to non-union firms. We want stronger contract language to overcome this problem."

Fryer said public service employees in B.C. are being shuffled about by government whim rather than by plan, and the union wants provisions for full union involvement in ministerial reorganizations.

No final figure was set on a wage increase, but Fryer indicated the union, which represents about 38,000 government employees, will seek a settlement that will allow it to maintain pace with inflation. That could mean a demand of nearly 13 per cent, he said.

Fryer said that if a cost-of-living clause is included in the settlement, the union would be prepared to go for a pact longer than one year.

The union is also seeking weekend premium pay as well as extended dental care and health and life insurance for retired members.

B.C. Schools Need Broom: Trustee Head

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ruby Mae Parrott, of Saanich Peninsula School District 63, has been elected president of the British Columbia School Trustees Association.

Parrott told delegates attending the association's annual convention on the weekend that there has been little co-operation from the provincial education ministry and little concern has been shown for the education of children in B.C.

She said the only way to solve existing problems is for teachers and trustees to form a united stand to pressure the ministry for change.

Outgoing president Dave Kandal, said that trustees must put a halt to the drift towards centralized power in education by the provincial government.

Strong efforts must be made to ensure that education policies are formulated at the local level, he added.

He said any government that tends to centralize power losses sight of the local issues and the unique needs of the individual communities.

Barkerville Road Open Again

QUESNEL (CP) — The highway between here and the Central Interior towns of Barkerville and Wells was reopened Sunday to normal traffic.

Traffic on Highway 26 was interrupted a week earlier when the bridge over the Cottonwood River was torn cut when a flatbed truck went into the river.

A logging road was upgraded to give land access to the two communities and Saturday a bailey bridge was installed on the Cottonwood River.

Meanwhile, Highways Minister Alex Fraser said it will take 12 to 18 months to erect a permanent bridge at an estimated cost of $3 million.

Threat Check For Detectors

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ionization-type smoke detectors will not be distributed to rest homes in British Columbia if they are found to pose a threat to public health, according to Human Resources Minister Grace McCarthy.

She said her ministry will examine the health aspects of the detectors and, if a danger is found, they will be replaced by photoelectric detectors.

Last week, a group of environmentalists charged that about 9,000 smoke detectors to be distributed to rest homes emit low-level radioactivity which has been linked to cancer and birth defects.

The distribution of smoke detectors to intermediate and personal-care facilities was initiated by Attorney-General Garde Gardom with $200,000 in provincial lottery funds.

The environmentalists sent a brief to Gardom stating that radioactive amerecium, nuclear byproduct fusion in the spent fuel of atomic reactors, is found in small amounts in the detectors.

However, Mal Smith, radiation protection officer for the ministry of health, said the form in which the amerecium appears in the detectors is practically benign.

The amerecium in the detectors might be dangerous if ingested, he said.

Mair Halts 2,4-D Lots

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — Environment Minister Rafe Mair has ordered ministry officials to withhold applications of the controversial herbicide 2,4-D in two Okanagan Lakes.

The Water Investigations Branch had planned on making the applications in the next few weeks after the pesticide appeal board Thursday denied an appeal by several Okanagan environmental groups to have the program stopped.

However, Mair said he wants to first examine further material given him by the environmentalists.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably by giving complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8:00 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

CITY WATCHDOG RICHARDS Report #107, Congratulations to the girls at the James Bay Branch and their New Lonas Manager Heather Weller of Westcoast Savings Credit Union who were awarded the CFAX Citation Rose. Many thanks go to the lady named Blanche who phoned to complain about a ten speed bicycle rider who almost knocked her down on the sidewalk. If is Your City Watchdog's opinion that to prevent this common occurance of cyclists riding on the downtown sidewalks, one or two policemen should patrol the downtown area on ten speed bicycles. This would make it safer for pedestrians and also keep constables physically fit. If you wish information regarding city matters, please continue phoning, 383-6259 Your City's Watchdog C. Joe Richards or write PO Box 154. Seen In Passing: Victoria City Police Constable #233 having to spend approximately a half hour of his time because someone did not secure the premises of the James Bay Westcoast Savings Credit Union. This proves the need for Neighbourhood police foot patrols in James Bay. Also many thanks go to George Fales and Trent Parsons who phoned police when they observed someone in the offices and possibly prevented any serious damage to the offices. Postscript: Your City's Watchdog asks all readers of this column to Vote as you please, but please Vote on May 10th. PPS: Your City's Watchdog nearly always votes for the candidate rather than the political party. Therefore I will be voting for Charles Barber and Mike Young because I feel they are the best candidates for Victoria.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably by giving complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8:00 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead - jack of hearts.

Here is a fine hand played by Meyer Schleifer, prominent Los Angeles expert. West led the jack of hearts against four spades, ducked by both North and East. Schleifer ruffed the jack and led the king of trumps, taken by West with the ace. West returned the ten of hearts, again ruffed by declarer as dummy and East followed low.

It's difficult at this point to see how Schleifer was able to make four spades, even though East and West defended perfectly. He seemingly had to lose two clubs and a diamond and go down one. But Schleifer managed to escape one of the club losers and made the contract.

After cashing the queen of spades, Schleifer played a diamond to the nine, which held. He then ruffed the five of hearts and returned the queen of diamonds. West correctly ducked and South won the diamond in dummy with the king. This was now the position:

Schleifer then led the king of hearts and, and when East covered with the ace, he discarded the six of diamonds! This unusual play, which merely exchanged a sure diamond loser for a heart loser, had a traumatic effect upon East. He had to return a club and, whether he returned the ace of clubs or a low club, declarer was now certain to make two club tricks and the contract.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. H. HUNTER

"You know the one hundred thirty-eight cheap belts we bought at seventy-five cents," said Mark, pointing to a sheet of paper on his desk. "I just checked, and that's all we've sold of them."

Sarah nodded. "About what I expected," she replied. "We priced them at $1.49. Let's cut the price by a dime. That may get them moving, and we'll make the same profit on what are left now as we made on what we've sold already."

How many had been sold?

(Answer tomorrow)

Friday's answer: Birthdays February 9th and 13th in a Leap Year.

PUSH-UP A DAY keeps the doctor away, claims 100-year-old Alice Webb of Toronto, who says she still believes in regular exercise. Mrs. Webb also expresses a novel view of women's liberation, saying: "If my husband couldn't afford to keep me, I would have stayed single.

Gloria Swanson Summed it Up

Leslie Holbrook

Here is a letter (Miss L. V., Summerside, P.E.I.) with a punch-line in the final three words:

"Some time ago, reading the paper, I came across your column for the first time. I was really impressed and have read it regularly ever since. It's interesting and informative and relects a wonderful attitude about growing old. I hope it will continue for many years.

"I can't quite put my finger on it but it's somewhat like what Gloria Swanson said: 'I'm eighty and I don't mind admitting it; I resent people treating age like some sort of disease.' That's really terrific.

"Anyway, I just wanted to tell you how highly I think of your columns. They really impart a sense of self-sufficiency and well-being. I hope people other than senior citizens read them because they really help you to understand what it's like to be growing older.

"I know that because they already have increased my understanding and I'm only seventeen."

People "other than senior citizens" do indeed read these pieces, L.V. This is the 118th weekly offering, without a miss; from the earliest columns, I have received a heavy mail — a surprising percentage of it from readers well below the current official retirement age.

There was the couple in their late 30s full of enthusiasm and ideas for early "retirement" from the jobs they had to do (to pay the bills during family-raising years) to the handicrafting both really wanted to do.

Many other younger people write not on their own behalf but to put questions or offer solutions (to earlier writers' problems) involving parents or grandparents.

I continue to be surprised — and encouraged — by letters of this sort. It indicates a healthy concern for those slipping past the prime of life — something all of us do all too soon.

So, whatever your age, stay with me. There is lots more to come.

From Canada's other coast comes word (J. D., Victoria) of something different in seniors' projects. A new organization called Options for Life Development (or OLD) has been established in the B.C. capital.

Funded by a New Horizons grant (there is still money available if you have worthwhile ideas), the aim of OLD is to attack widespread myths about old age and to encourage positive attitudes toward growing older.

"Most of today's retirees are physically vigorous and mentally alert and are not ready to be shunted off into old-age ghettos to play meaningless games while awaiting the end," J. D. writes.

OLD's first project is production of a slide-tape show titled Agism of Canada. It stresses that discrimination on account of age is similar to sexism or racism. It demonstrates the extent of agism, its dangerous negative effects, the factors that produce it and recommends remedies.

The group plans to provide a library and resource centre, perhaps a speakers' bureau, to present the senior segment of life as a time of fulfilment rather than years to be feared.

To learn more write: Options for Life Development, Suite 414, 620 View Street, Victoria, B.C.

Canada's Record

MOOSE JAW (CP) — Canada has more old people in institutions than any other country in North America or Europe, Dr. John Brocklehurst, a British professor and doctor said.

Speaking to a meeting of the Moose Jaw and District Committee on the Aging, Brocklehurst said eight per cent of Canada's elderly live in institutions compared with a four-per-cent average elsewhere.

Brocklehurst is on a year's leave of absence from Manchester University to establish a department of geriatric medicine at the University of Saskatchewan.

He is establishing both a medical wing and research program at the university.

People — Tragedy

PORT HURON, Mich. (CP) — The inhumanity of modern society has made tragedies out of most people, says anthropologist Ashley Montagu.

Montagu told an audience of 800 persons that day-care centres are no substitute for a mother and parents must strive to develop a sense of love, tolerance and humor in themselves and their children.

A Princeton University professor who has published more than 50 books, Montagu was the keynote speaker at the 28th annual conference of the Ontario Association for Early Childhood Education.

"The kind of women who arrange these meetings and conventions are the unacknowledged legislators of the world because they have it in their power to change the world from what it is to what it ought to be — a world in which people learn how to live, as if to live and love were one," he said.

The meeting was held at the Michigan community across the St. Clair River from Sarnia because adequate seating facilities were not available in Sarnia. The conference ends today.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: I am a young clergyman, new in the community and eager to do the best job possible.

I am told that a few years back you had an excellent answer for someone who wrote in complaining that every time he turned around the church hit him for money.

The writer asked you what the church did with all the money.

If you can find that letter, I would be most grateful if you ran it again.

PREACHER

DEAR PREACHER: I found it. And here it is:

DEAR ABBY: We are not overly religious people, but we do like to go to church once in a while. It seems to me that every time we turn around in church we are hit for money. I thought religion was free. I realize that churches have to have some money, but I think it is getting to be a racket. Just what do churches do with their money?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: Even priests, ministers and rabbis must eat. Since they work full time at their tasks, the churches must support them. Staff, professional choir members and musicians must also be paid. Buildings must be maintained, heated, lighted and beautified. (And, of course, first they must be built!) Custodial staff must eat and feed their families. Most churches engage in philanthropic work (aid to needy, missions and education); hence, they have their financial obligations. Even orchids, contrary to folklore, do not live on air. Churches can't live on air, either. Religion, like water, may be free, but when they pipe it to you, you've got to help pay for the piping. And the piper!

DEAR ABBY: I've read your column for years and respect your advice.

I just learned that our 19-year-old daughter, a junior in college, bought birth control pills. I am distressed and shocked and wouldn't have believed it if I didn't have the facts.

She will be home in a few weeks. Please tell me how to handle this.

I can't give you my address because my husband opens the mail first. I haven't told him. He'd be heartbroken.

I hope to read the answer in your column.

HEARTSICK

DEAR HEARTSICK: I can understand your disappointment, but there is nothing to handle now. Apparently your daughter is either considering having sex or she's already into it. However, she's over 18 and it's her decision. In any case, be grateful that your daughter is protecting herself against accidental pregnancy.

As for your husband's reaction, would he be less heartbroken to learn that his college daughter was pregnant instead of on the pill?

NATIONAL DEFENCE

Promises, promises

Liberal mishandling of National Defence forced the Chief of the Defence Staff to conclude:

". . . it's going to take, in my estimation, about ten years before we are back where we were ten years ago in terms of quality."

They promised:

In 1973, a five-year modernization program.
IT LASTED LESS THAN ONE YEAR.
In 1975, the capital budget would grow 12% for five years.
IT LASTED ONE YEAR.

DON MUNRO AND THE PROGRESSIVE-CONSERVATIVES WILL ★ proceed with an immediate manpower increase.

★ provide more modern equipment for the training, proficiency and morale of the reserves.
★ restore the formula to increase the capital budget by 12% per year for five years.

Colors Not Key to Decor

By PAULINE GRAVES

According to a popular misconception, light colors signify femininity and dark colors masculinity. But practical application proves that this is not so.

Actually, the style and weight of furniture mean more in defining a room's character than do colors. And in most households shared by man and woman, room decor tends to be neither agressively feminine nor masculine, the emphasis instead on attractiveness and livability.

In the bedroom shown here, by decorator Beverly Hornbeck, light colors predominate, but it is not particularly a feminine room because of the spread's bold print and because of the thick, four-inch wide columns on each side of the king-size bed. There is a light feeling to the room, however, due in part to the ⅜-inch thick glass shelves and also to the bed frame, constructed as a platform, but standing four inches from the floor on eight-inch wide legs. White sateen covers the frame.

The columns are 14 inches deep, and the shelves, held by clips, are 28 inches wide, spaced 12 inches apart except for the centre shelves, which are arranged 24 inches apart so that bedside lamps can be positioned there without crowding.

A textured, self-tone wallpaper covers the walls, providing a muted but interesting background. And instead of a headboard, a large painting was chosen to fill the space above the bed.

NO BABYING

HAMILTON (CP) — Despite being five months pregnant, Gerry Richards, 26, recently won the 100-metre butterfly and placed second in the 100-metre individual swim medley at the two-day Hamilton Otters Masters Swim Meet.

Stress Causes Pains

MOOSE JAW (CP) — Many illnesses people suffer are psychosomatic or those caused by stress, Dr. Paul Antrobus, assistant professor with the University of Regina's psychology department, said.

Antrobus told the Saskatchewan Dietetic Association's spring convention that stress develops from the way in which the world is perceived and said stress affects different people differently.

He said the way in which people perceive the world leads to development of stress. The greatest problem in treating stress is to take the time to help a patient understand how he perceives stressful situations or problems.

Antrobus said changes in the body's outward appearance occur when a person is affected by stress. He said pains also develop in certain parts of the body when stress occurs.

The psychology professor suggested the use of fantasy and free association and physical techniques to deal with stress. He said exercises cope with the symptoms rather than with the problem causing the stress.

wheels
By MICHAEL LAMM

By MICHAEL LAMM

DEAR MIKE: Could you give a nice, simple rundown on RON ratings? How's a person supposed to know what octane today's gasolines really are?—MIFFED.

DEAR MIFFED: Today's AKI (anti-knock index) numbers that appear on some gas pumps is an average of the old RON (research octane number) and the newer MON (motor octane number). On the average, the AKI runs about four points lower than the RON, thus AKI 87 equals RON 91.

DEAR MIKE: What could be wrong with the clutch in our 1971 Toyota? When I want to shift, the pedal goes clear to the floor, but the clutch doesn't release. I have to pump it several times to build up the vacuum compression. We've had the clutch examined and adjusted several times.—WORRIED.

DEAR WORRIED: Your clutch works hydraulically, not by vacuum. I suspect your reservoir is low on fluid. When you refill it, check for leaks in the system.

DEAR MIKE: I've installed electronic ignition kits in both our family cars. Do I need different plugs or a wider gap? I hear that new cars with factory electronic ignitions use a gap of 0.050 inch, but mine are still the old type set at 0.032.—PLUGGING.

DEAR PLUG: No, you're fine sticking with the recommended spark plugs and gap for your cars.

DEAR MIKE: Regarding the fellow who wrote in asking why some of his car's electrical items — wipers, radio, turn signals, etc. — mysteriously stopped working for no apparent reason and then started up again, I'd like to pass along my experience. Our 1969 Ford wagon used to do the same thing. I discovered that the ignition key actually makes two contacts when it's on. One actuates the car's ignition and the other puts juice to the accessories. Sometimes just the accessory stud goes bad or works loose. That way the car runs fine but the accessories keep going on and off, depending on how the car jiggles. Tell "Frustrated" that next time his radio quits, to play with the key and see if it doesn't come back on.—ONE WHO'S BEEN THERE.

DEAR ONE: Many thanks for sharing your experience.

DEAR MIKE: How many 1979 Tenth Anniversary Firebirds are going to be made, and which engines will they use?—FREAKED.

DEAR FREAKED: Pontiac plans to build 7,500 Tenth Anniversary Trans Ams, all with the 220-bhp 400 V-8.

Highlights Concert to Be Bright

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Staff

If anyone thinks it's easy task to sort through dozens of excellent performances out of 2,600 festival entries and come up with a final program that meets all requirements, they should try it sometime.

That's the opinion of an exhausted Victoria Music Festival committee which has just completed days of chewing pencils, making dozens of phone calls and spending the late evening hours juggling the various factors.

The challenge was to provide a "highlights" program that would be not more, and not a great deal less than two hours in length; that would offer variety, be interesting and enjoyable for a general audience and at the same time fairly representative of the festival's top-level performance.

The committee, of course, knew it couldn't satisfy everyone.

However, the Highlights Concert program tonight at 8 at McPherson Playhouse looks attractive, has been as carefully timed as possible and contains bright samplings of most aspects of the festival. Here it is in detail and in the order of performance:

Monterey Elementary School 90-voice choir directed by Laurie Walker; six-year-old violinist Sara Tyrrel accompanied by Alice Tyrrel; Norfolk House School Grade 7 speech choir conducted by Judy Bradshaw; Jodi Sing, tap soloist; Robert Tweten, pianist (provincial finals representative); Noni Urquhart, French horn and Janet Underhill, bassoon (both go to provincial finals);

Arthur LaVertu, pianist (medallion winner, provincial finals representative); ballet, Encore Madeline, choreographed by Maureen Eastick; Cowichan Chorale conducted by James Johnson and Sheila Sartini; Vanessa Li, folk singer; ballet, Pas Classique, Pacific Dance Centre; Mark Neumann and David Lowe, violin duo (provincial finals representatives);

Richard Margison, tenor, (provincial finals representiye) accompanied by Kristine Beny; Robert Holliston, pianist (open performance award winner); presentation of the McPherson Playhouse Foundation Award to the most distinguished performer; Veselka Ukrainian-Canadian Folk Ensemble, 20 dancers, nine musicians.

Instruments of the orchestra dominated the last two days of festival competition.

Thomas Rolston, an encouraging but penetrating adjudicator, chose the Madeline Wheeler ensemble, a piano, violin and horn trio, to go to the provincial finals.

Mark Neumann, winner of the Dorothy Francis Bland Open Performance award, will be the senior strings representative and David Lowe, the junior. The junior category at provincial means 16 years and under.

Calling Stephen Calder "an amazingly gifted performer on the violin," Rolston awarded him the Victoria Symphony Foundation scholarship.

Brilliant six-year-old Sara Tyrrel, who drew a 90 among other top marks from the conservative adjudicator, received the Hoibakke Memorial Elementary Award.

The Hoibakke Junior Award was won by Kathy French.

Cellist Gillian Donald was also the recipient of a junior award.

The B.C. Registered Music Teachers intermediate award was won by Susan Sayle and David Lowe.

Students Get Set For Film Festival

Student film-makers are preparing their final cuts and titles in preparation for the B.C. 11th Annual Student Film Festival in Vancouver next month.

Last year, more than 60 young movie makers in elementary, secondary and post-secondary schools entered the festival and 15 finalists competed for trophies and awards in elementary, secondary and post-secondary categories.

This year the Provincial Education Media Centre-sponsored festival is expected to attract 75 entries from across the province.

The festival will be held at Langara College June 6-8 and deadline for submissions is May 18.

The public is invited to two preliminary evening judgings and the final judging. Only entrants will be eligible for the special film workshop specializing in animation techniques June 9.

Application forms may be obtained from PEMC, 7351 Elmbridge Way, Richmond, V6X 1B8.

$10,000 To Airport

DUNCAN — A $10,000 provincial grant toward the $20,040 needed for an airport feasibility study has been received by the Cowichan Valley region's economic development commission.

The commission plans to examine sites and obtain design and cost estimates for a 3,000- to 4,000-foot runway, taxiway, apron, terminal building and lighting.

Economic development officer Austin Fraser said the remaining money needed for the study has been guaranteed by the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce as the local portion of a cost-sharing program.

Grit Hopeful Sights Job Loss

Effects on military and civilian jobs will be dramatic in terms of cost and manpower if Conservative spending policies are adopted, federal Liberal candidate David Anderson told a Langford meeting Saturday.

The candidate for Cowichan-Malahat-the Islands attacked Esquimalt-Saanich Tory candidate Donald Munro's proposal for attrition in the public service in this area.

"As far as I'm concerned, a job lost through Mr. Munro's attrition is just as much a job lost to our area as by any other means. And Conservative policies mean that we will lose about 1,000 jobs in our area."

Anderson said 400-500 jobs would be directly related to national defence.

Payroll loss in the community would be $10-$20 million, and there would be further loss of nearly another 1,000 jobs in service and support industries, Anderson claimed.

Anderson also criticized comments made by provincial election candidates Sam Bawlf (SC) and Charles Barber (NDP) who have suggested the use of DND property at Work Point for an industrial park or other civilian use.

"I have been informed by Mr. Danson's office (DND) that there is no intention whatsoever to part with these properties."

The bidding:

Opening lead - jack of hearts.

Here is a fine hand played by Meyer Schleifer, prominent Los Angeles expert. West led the jack of hearts against four spades, ducked by both North and East. Schleifer ruffed the jack and led the king of trumps, taken by West with the ace. West returned the ten of hearts, again ruffed by declarer as dummy and East followed low.

It's difficult at this point to see how Schleifer was able to make four spades, even though East and West defended perfectly. He seemingly had to lose two clubs and a diamond and go down one. But Schleifer managed to escape one of the club losers and made the contract.

After cashing the queen of spades, Schleifer played a diamond to the nine, which held. He then ruffed the five of hearts and returned the queen of diamonds. West correctly ducked and South won the diamond in dummy with the king. This was now the position:

Schleifer then led the king of hearts and, and when East covered with the ace, he discarded the six of diamonds! This unusual play, which merely exchanged a sure diamond loser for a heart loser, had a traumatic effect upon East. He had to return a club and, whether he returned the ace of clubs or a low club, declarer was now certain to make two club tricks and the contract.

FUN WITH FIGURES

By J. A. H. HUNTER

"You know the one hundred thirty-eight cheap belts we bought at seventy-five cents," said Mark, pointing to a sheet of paper on his desk. "I just checked, and that's all we've sold of them."

Sarah nodded. "About what I expected," she replied. "We priced them at $1.49. Let's cut the price by a dime. That may get them moving, and we'll make the same profit on what are left now as we made on what we've sold already."

How many had been sold?

(Answer tomorrow)

Friday's answer: Birthdays February 9th and 13th in a Leap Year.

39 PERSONALS

CITY WATCHDOG RICHARDS Report #107, Congratulations to the girls at the James Bay Branch and their New Lonas Manager Heather Weller of Westcoast Savings Credit Union who were awarded the CFAX Citation Rose. Many thanks go to the lady named Blanche who phoned to complain about a ten speed bicycle rider who almost knocked her down on the sidewalk. It is Your City Watchdog's opinion that to prevent this common occurance of cyclists riding on the downtown sidewalks, one or two policemen should patrol the downtown area on ten speed bicycles. This would make it safer for pedestrians and also keep constables physically fit. If you wish information regarding city matters, please continue phoning, 383-6259 Your City's Watchdog C. Joe Richards or write PO Box 154. Seen In Passing: Victoria City Police Constable #233 having to spend approximately a half hour of his time because someone did not secure the premises of the James Bay Westcoast Savings Credit Union. This proves the need for Neighbourhood police foot patrols in James Bay. Also many thanks go to George Fales and Trent Parsons who phoned police when they observed someone in the offices and possibly prevented any serious damage to the offices. Postscript: Your City's Watchdog asks all readers of this column to Vote as you please, but please Vote on May 10th. PPS: Your City's Watchdog nearly always votes for the candidate rather than the political party. Therefore I will be voting for Charles Barber and Mike Young because I feel they are the best candidates for Victoria.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably by giving complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8:00 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

LOOKING FOR A STATION WAGON COME LOOK AT ME

I was born in Detroit 3 yrs. ago. They named me Caprice Estate. I can carry 9 people and was equipped to tow other living quarters. I am cool in the summer and warm in the winter. My windows and door locks work by themselves. I have cruise control for those long trips and I'm immaculate and really fit. I've turned over 59,000 miles but all well cared for. Come down and drive me. I'm a real delight.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably by giving complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8:00 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

JOHNSTON

Harvey Austin Johnston, of 2241 Benko Road, Mill Bay, B.C., will be greatly missed.

Harvey was born in Elgin, Manitoba in 1910, and spent the early years of his life in Benito. He began work at the age of 17 with the Bank of Toronto, and continued with the Toronto-Dominion Bank through 'til his retirement in 1970.

Jean Ashby and Harvey were married in Regina in 1941, and they together shared life in Regina, Stehen, Glenavon, Winnipeg and Edmonton, before coming to Mill Bay to retire in the log home, which was Harvey's dream.

Harvey was in every sense a community person. He was actively involved with the Malahat Lions Club and the Mill Bay Volunteer Fire Department; he was a Mason; he wove a web of involvement by means of personal projects with many people in and around Mill Bay.

Harvey was a warm and generous person, much loved by everyone. He made a beautiful home for Jean and himself, his family, and his many friends. He died very quickly and without pain in this home with Jean on May 4.

Harvey is survived by his loving wife Jean, by his only sister Vi McMillan of Winnipeg, by his daughter and son-in-law, Lynn and Stu Calder of Victoria, by his son and daughter-in-law Ray and Wendy Johnston of Sherwood Park, Alberta and by his three grandchildren Stephanie, Aaron and Amanda Johnston.

Funeral arrangements are for a Memorial Service in Victoria at McCall's Funeral Chapel on Wednesday, May 9 at 3 p.m. The Rev. Bruce Molloy, of Harvey and Jean's church, St. Andrew's Presbyterian, will conduct the service.

Love gives us strength.

The Lord's Prayer
Our Father Who art in heaven hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give

TELL-TALE fingers protrude from trunk of car in Birmingham, Ala. (above). They belonged to stabbing-kidnap victim Gary Collier, whose life may have been saved when reporter and photographer followed up reports of protruding hand. Collier climbs from trunk (left) after 14-hour ordeal.

Hand From Trunk A Life-Saver

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Several motorists who reported seeing a hand wiggling from beneath a car trunk sparked a chase by a newspaper reporter and photographer that ended with the rescue of a stabbed kidnap victim.

When police pulled the car over and opened the trunk Saturday, a haggard Gary Collier, 35, emerged with a tale of being robbed, stabbed and held captive for 14 hours in the trunk while his kidnappers discussed how to kill him and get rid of his body.

Three persons were held in the city jail without bond Sunday on charges of kidnapping and robbery. They were identified as Joseph Fendley, 27, of Morris, Ala., Wilburn Fendley, 49, of Bessemer, Ala., and Robin Green, 24, of Birmingham.

Collier said he owed his life to reporter Mark Winne and photographer Jerry Ayres, the two men who heard reports of the car on a police radio, started chasing the vehicle and alerted police to its whereabouts.

"If it hadn't been for them, I don't know what would have happened," said Collier. "I couldn't have lasted much longer in that trunk, maybe an hour or so. I'd been done for, intentionally or not."

Collier told police he met Miss Green and Joseph Fendley Friday night at a Bessemer bar and left with them. When he tried to leave the two, Collier said he was robbed of $350, beaten, stabbed with a screwdriver and forced into the trunk of the car.

Police said Miss Green and Fendley apparently stopped and picked up Wilburn Fendley later in the night.

The car was driven much of the night, and several motorists Saturday reported a hand waving from the trunk.

Collier said he heard the woman and the younger Fendley plotting his death. "I'd done made my peace," said Collier, "or was trying to."

Collier said he fainted several times from carbon monoxide fumes in the trunk, but squeezed his hand through an open space in the trunk lid to signal for help when he could.

"I figured that if I could get my fingers out someone would notice it and call the police," said Collier. "That's what I was hoping for anyway. I guess I was lucky, real lucky."

Winne and Ayres heard the report about the hand over the police radio in the newsroom of the Birmingham News. The two drove around the city searching for the car and had headed back to the newspaper when the city editor radioed with a report that the car had been spotted again.

The two chased the car while keeping in contact with the city editor, who was on the telephone relaying their information to the police.

A favorite annual show for plant growers with limited window space is that delightfully arranged display by the Victoria African Violet Club. Here it is once more, on Saturday of this week, May 12, in St. John Ambulance Hall, 941 Pandora Avenue and the show is open from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Much of the attraction lies in the soft blending of colors not only among the African Violets themselves but in the related members of the same family, the Gesneriads. Many of these related plants appear in the classes assigned for competition, and add a fine touch of contrast to the over-all display.

The relationship between Achimene (Cupid's Bower to you, perhaps), Espiscia, Columnea, Sinningia (you may know this as Gloxinia) and Streptocarpus can more readily be seen when they are displayed before you as growing plants. They are all Gesneriads, as are the African Violets, and all are grown under similar conditions indoors.

One member of the family comes to mind that grows outdoors here. This is Ramonda myconi, which is suited to a shaded crevice in an alpine garden. Silky dark green leaves and lavender flowers certainly remind one of the African Violet, but this one does not tolerate heat.

Some classes in this show are designed to display Gesneriads growing together for artistic effect, as there are trailing kinds while others are dwarf and stocky.

I can imagine an indoor apartment gardener planning a complete window garden with these plants and probably never tiring of it. Variety is found among flower colors of single and double forms, plain green or variegated foliage, as well as silver lined leaves among the Episcias which are amazingly variable with their semi-trailing habit and range of colors.

If an idea occurs to you along this line you will get help in selection for your needs from members present at the show, and at the plant sale table at the entrance.

Information on amount of daylight required, maximum and minimum temperatures, humidity and other essential details can be gained by asking questions and listening.

You will learn too, if you are interested, about growing under artificial lights where natural lighting is poor. This may become an absorbing interest, leading to the raising of seedlings for other plants without the added attention of supplying humidity and overhead light on a windowsill.

Terrariums will be shown. These are really the ultimate in having living plants without the fuss of daily attention.

In existence is a lovely miniature (Gloxinia to most of us) rated by terrarium fanciers as the perfect occupant. So tiny, though perfect in proportion of flowers to foliage, this still-rather-rare plant is more admired when displayed in a circular glass terrarium than when seen "on the flat".

The glass globe has a slightly magnifying effect yet there is no distortion, rather it is a clarification. I for one will be looking for this miniature at the African Violet Show on Saturday of this week, May 12.

Afternoon tea is included in the $1 admission price, makingthe visit especially worthwhile as an outing for apartment dwellers and visiting hotel guests.

Ruling Groups In Iran Purged

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Iran's Islamic authorities have embarked on nationwide purge of the freewheeling committees or "komitehs" composed of mullahs and gunmen ruling the cities, a top religious official said today.

Ayatollah Syed Javad Gharavi, deputy chief of the central revolutionary organization set up by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, said komiteh members found guilty of counterrevolutionary acts would be tried in provincial Islamic courts.

"Some committees guilty of improper acts or violations have been dealt with strongly," Gharavi said in the Ayendegan newspaper.

The number of committees throughout Iran was not known. But in Tehran alone there are 14 major committees and 1,500 secondary ones. Until recently, a committee could arrest anyone on suspicion, raid any house or seize property and be answerable only to a secret revolutionary council.

Public protest and the intervention by the prosecutor-general undercut the committees, sharply curtailing their activities.

The purge was ordered by Khomeini to answer the criticism and avoid possible sabotage of the revolutionary network by "counter-revolutionaries."

About 170 men, including former Prime Minister Amir Abbas Hoveyda and the shah's top generals, have been executed since the committees began operating after the February revolution.

The revolutionary courts, the "judicial" wing of the committees, have been the target of criticism for meting out arbitrary justice.

Khomeini ordered the committees be "cleansed of corrupt elements" and not abolished to continue as the main bulwark of support to his revolution.

Austrians Return Kreisky Gov't

VIENNA (AP) — Austrian voters, apparently pleased with nine years of prosperity under Chancellor Bruno Kreisky, Sunday gave his Socialist government a mandate for four more years.

Based on preliminary final returns in the national election, the Socialists increased their majority in the 183-seat parliament by three seats, to 96, officials announced.

The opposition Austrian People's party, led by former banker Dr. Josef Taus, dropped four seats for a new total of 76 and the right-of-centre Freedom Party, under the leadership of Graz Mayor Alexander Goetz, gained one for a new total of 11 seats, the returns showed.

The Communist party, which has not held a parliamentary seat in 20 years, again was denied a role in the legislature.

Predictions before the vote by 5.2 million Austrians were for a closer race, with the Socialists possibly losing their majority. If that happened, Kreisky had vowed, he would not join any coalition.

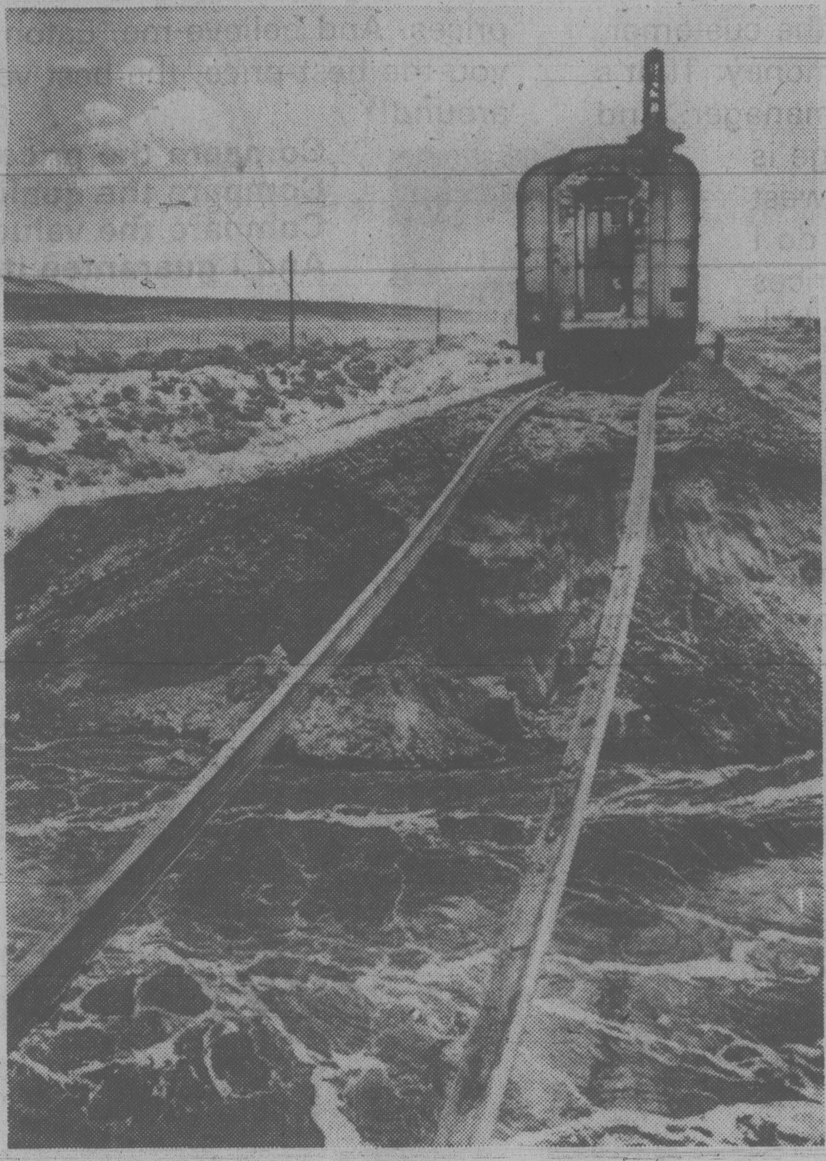
The 68-year-old, highly popular Kreisky, whose slogan was "Kreisky — Austria Needs Him," campaigned on his record. The national unemployment rate is low, inflation is only 3.8 per cent and there has been virtually no labor unrest in the neutral country of 7.5 million people.

But Austria has paid for its average annual economic growth of four per cent with increasing budget deficits and a sharp jump in the national debt.

Taus, who has promised co-operation with the Socialist majority, had hoped to capitalize on those debts. The former chief of the country's second-largest bank, Gironzentrale, he promised a gradual reduction in the $3.57-billion budget deficit, lower national indebtedness, greater investment incentives and a ban on tax increases.

Victory wave by Chancellor Kreisky

AmTrak Derailed, 38 People Injured



Amtrak train tracks hang over washed out roadbed

KENNEWICK, Wash. (UPI) — Police checked a washed-out rural road Sunday, but they neglected to look at nearby railroad tracks. An hour later, Amtrak's Empire Builder passenger train derailed when it hit a 30-foot gap in the roadbed.

Thirty-eight people were injured and nine were hospitalized when 10 cars of the Empire Builder flew off the tracks six miles west of Kennewick.

Railroad officials said the hospitalized victims were in good or fair condition.

The 13-car train carrying 90 passengers and a crew of 15 was bound for Seattle from Chicago.

A leaking 250-gallon tank carrying propane gas for the train's heating system was plugged by firefighters.

At 3:20 a.m. Sunday — about an hour before the accident — police were about 100 yards away, investigating a road washout caused by water flowing through a burst irrigation dike.

But Capt. Terry Perkins of the Benton County Sheriff's office said no one thought to check the condition of the tracks south of the road, although everyone knew the tracks were there.

Officials said a dike holding the main canal of the Kennewick Irrigation District burst sometime during the night, sending torrents of water across the Badger Canyon Road and washing away the rail roadbed on the other side of the road.

Passenger Glenn Bush of Havre, Mont., said the fact the track held together during the accident probably saved many lives.

"One car was right straddling the washout, and the rails were bowed under and they were still there, still together," Bush said.

Majorie Bruesch of Freeport, Ill., said passengers knew something was going to happen.

"About the third or fourth jerk you kept waiting for the big crash," she said. "You felt sure it was coming. Fortunately it didn't. It just stopped and we looked around and everyone was fine in our car."

Amtrak spokesmen said trains would be routed around the accident site until the wreck was cleared and the track and roadbed repaired.

Meanwhile, the 550 residents of Sunset Bay, N. Y., returned to their homes Sunday after work crews loaded two railway tanker cars full of potentially explosive vinyl chloride onto flatbed cars without incident.

The people were evacuated Friday as a precautionary measure after a derailment involving the tanker cars, although the tankers were not leaking the toxic chemical.

The cars derailed Thursday night on a bridge over Dead Creek and fell through an opening between the two tracks. They came to rest with one end of each car nosing into creek mud below while the other ends reared in the air, resting against part of the bridge.

Twenty-one cars of the 139-car freight jumped the tracks.

Palestinian Camp Hit

Times News Services

BEIRUT — Israeli planes bombed and rocketed a Palestinian camp deep inside Lebanon on Sunday and Palestinian guerrilla spokesmen said at least four civilians were killed and 25 others wounded.

The spokesmen said four jets struck a refugee camp at Nahr El-Bared, near the Mediterranean port of Tripoli and 160 kilometres north of the Israeli-Lebanese border.

The Lebanese state radio said the planes also bombed the neighboring Lebanese village of Al-Mohmara.

But an Israeli military spokesman in Tel Aviv said the targets were bases used for training guerrillas for raids inside Israel. All aircraft returned safely, an Israeli communique said.

In other developments in the Middle East:

—Right-wing Christian militiamen and Palestinian guerrillas clashed in a six-hour battle near the southern Lebanese town of Marjayoun, eight kilometres north of Israeli border. The Christian Phalange party's radio said the militiamen, whose leader is Maj. Saad Haddad, "beat back an attack by Palestinian guerrillas."

—The Israeli cabinet reiterated the government's determination never to give up control of predominantly Arab East Jerusalem. Egypt has called for Moslem states to focus on re-establishing Arab sovereignty in the Israeli-occupied sector of the city at a meeting in Morocco this week.

After the air raid, guerrilla sources at Nahr El-Bared, about 64 kilometres north of Beirut, said Palestinian refugees and Lebanese firemen were trying to dig out victims buried under debris.

The camp is considered a stronghold of Dr. George Habash's Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, which leads the hardline "Rejection Front" within Yasser Arafat's PLO. The Front is opposed to a negotiated peace with Israel.

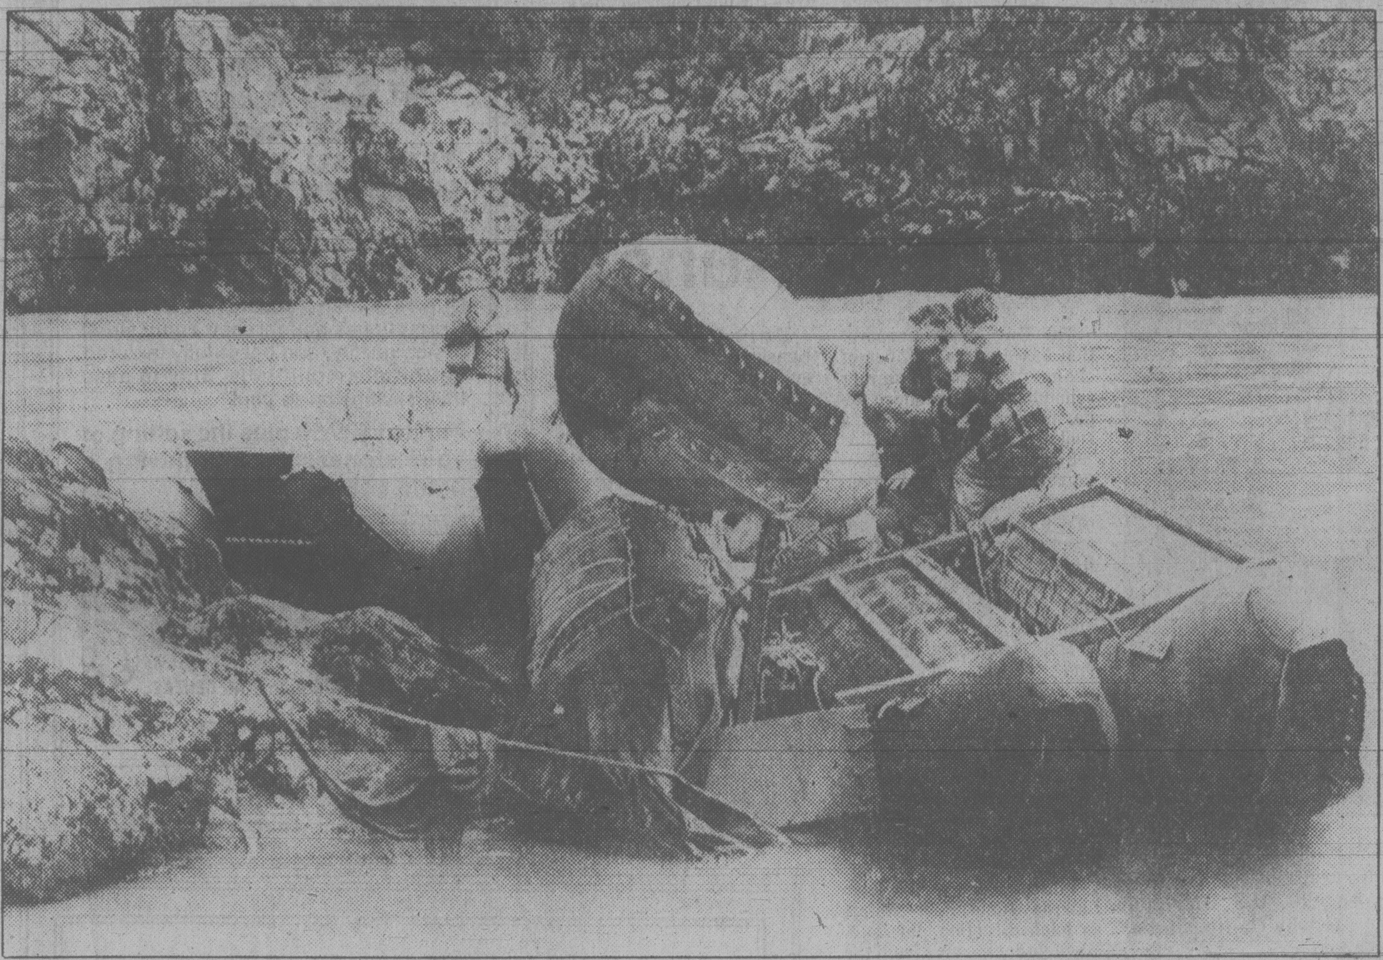
Troops Out or War Says IRA



THREE MEN DIED when this raft carrying 10 men and one woman overturned in a turbulent section of the Fraser River near Boston Bar Sunday. The raft, operated by Cascade River Holidays Ltd. of Yale, was on the last leg of a three-day tour which started on the Thompson River and was to have wound up at Yale. The three bodies were recovered downstream. Two passengers were injured and had to be helped, above, from the wreckage. Both were reported in stable condition in Hope hospital.

Assassination Plot Foiled by Police

Times News Services

LONDON — The Irish Republican Army has threatened to wage war on the fledging government of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher unless all British soldiers leave Northern Ireland.

And informed police sources also said Sunday Scotland Yard agents foiled a pre-election plot by Irish Republican Army extremists to assassinate Roy Mason, the outgoing British secretary for Northern Ireland.

The IRA statement followed the shooting deaths of two security officers outside a Catholic church in the village of Lisnaskea in County Fermanagh at noon Sunday.

Claiming responsibility for the killing of Sgt. Robert Maughan, 30, and detective Norman Prue, 29, the IRA warned Mrs. Thatcher's government to "take this opportunity to initiate a withdrawal and let the Irish people exercise their democratic right of determining their own future. Bloodshed can be avoided and peace can be reached.

"Should you decide against peace and for a military victory then we promise that our just war will be relentlessly pursued. . . We are used to suffering. You people are not," the statement said.

The soldier and policeman, both plainclothes intelligence officers, were killed as they were sitting in their unmarked car outside a Roman Catholic church in the border village of Lisnaskea.

The killings raised the known death toll in Northern Ireland's decade of sectarian conflict to 1,908. At least 18 persons, most of them members of the security forces, have been slain in the last month in the bloodiest spasm of violence in more than a year.

The police sources said the attack on Mason was planned for last month while the 55-year-old cabinet minister was campaigning in his electoral district of Barnsley, northern England.

Mason apparently was a target because of his tough stance against the IRA and his refusal to give convicted IRA guerrillas the status of political prisoners.

Military intelligence agents in Northern Ireland received word of the plan by the IRA's Provisional wing and alerted authorities in London, the police sources said.

Scotland Yard doubled Mason's bodyguard and set up an emergency security plan, the sources said, and the Provisionals called off the operation when they realized their scheme had been discovered.

Details of the alleged plan were not given.

PRAIRIES HIT BY SNOW

A broad band of the Prairies is recovering today from the effects of a snowstorm which dumped from seven to 20 centimetres of snow on the area Sunday.

Calgary received seven centimetres of wet snow and it was still coming down intermittently late Sunday night.

About 19 centimetres fell on Lethbridge, and heavy snowfall was reported at Banff, Pincher Creek, Medicine hat and Regina.

By comparison, northern centres such as Edmonton were dry with temperatures reaching 7° C. Calgary's high was 1°.

Flooding or its muddy aftermath remained a major problem for thousands of Canadians on Sunday.

In Manitoba's Red River Valley, Premier Sterling Lyon flew into the southern community of Morris to confer with Emergency Measures Organization personnel. The discussions centred on the return of the 7,000 residents evacuated in the area extending from the United States border to Winnipeg.

"I think now there can be a very orderly re-entry process with primary responsibility resting with the municipalities," Lyon said Sunday after his return to Winnipeg, 60 kilometres north.

But, he warned, "The water is going to hang around, according to the best estimates, for some time."

Gasoline Shortage Hits Vegas 'Strip'

Times News Services

The weekend gasoline shortage hit Nevada with a staggering 40 per cent drop in room occupancy at some gambling resorts.

And in California, hundreds of motorists left gasless automobiles parked in lines at gas pumps through the weekend, awaiting the opening of service stations today, probably the final day before the "odd-even" fuel rationing plan is imposed.

Hotel-casinos in downtown Las Vegas's "Glitter Gulch" were particularly hit by the gas crunch while "Strip" resorts said occupancy was only "down somewhat."

Las Vegas hotels and motels normally boast of capacity occupancy on weekends during the busy summer months.

A night manager at the Tropicana Hotel on the "Strip" said business Saturday was down to 85 per cent capacity.

Few gas stations were open during the weekend and those that were had long lines of cars waiting to fill up.

In Burbank, Calif., a woman in a bathrobe pulled into a service station at dawn Sunday, locked up her car alongside the pumps, unhitched a bicycle from a bumper rack and pedalled off.

By dusk Sunday, hundreds of owners had locked up their cars in lines to return at sunrise today for station openings in what may well be the final day of free-for-all fuel purchases.

Line crashers are greeted by honking horns, irate screams and, sometimes — violence.

Diton Williams, 28, was arrested at a Hollywood Union Oil station where he allegedly cut in front of about 50 motorists waiting in line. When approached by angry drivers, he reportedly pulled a pistol and warded them off while he pumped his gas. Police said he was

Hostages Kept

SAN SALVADOR (AP) — Leftists holding nine hostages in two embassies have rejected a Salvadorean government offer of safe conduct to Costa Rica and demanded freedom for five of their leaders and assurances of safety.

"We want to stay in El Salvador," a spokesman for the raiders' Popular Revolutionary Bloc said by telephone Sunday from the French Embassy, where 16 leftists have been holding six hostages, including Ambassador Michel Georges Paul Dondenne, since Friday afternoon.

Three other bloc members are holding three hostages in the Costa Rican Embassy.

He said the El Salvador government has not met the bloc's demand to free five of its leaders.

65,000 Join In N-Protest

Times News Services

WASHINGTON — They were at least 65,000 strong, with one purpose — opposition to nuclear power — and two major targets, President Carter and Energy Secretary James Schlesinger.

Chanting "No more nukes — No more Harrisburgs," the largest anti-nuclear power crowd in U.S. history gave nuclear power critics hope the issues raised would play a key roll in deciding whether President Carter is re-elected.

The all-day rally and march on the Capitol Sunday was sponsored by the May 6 Coalition, organized after the March 28 nuclear accident at the Three Mile Island reactor near Harrisburg, Penn. It was biggest protest in Washington since the end of the Vietnam War, and the thrust was mostly aimed at Carter.

Despite the accident at Three Mile Island, the president has called for continued development of atomic power, although ordering a review of safety procedures.

"Has Jimmy Carter deceived you?" shouted consumer activist Ralph Nader.

The crowd roared back: "Yes."

"What you're seeing now is the beginning of a massive outpouring of citizen protest," Nader said later. "We'll be back again and again until the country moves to more energy efficiency and solar energy."

Benjamin Spock, pediatrician and former anti-war activist, said: "Today the anti-nuclear power movement has gone national."

Said actress Jane Fonda, one of the organizers and a star in the anti-nuclear movie China Syndrome: "If the president does not replace James Schlesinger, then he himself will be replaced in 1980 and that is a fact."

California Gov. Edmund Brown made no effort to discourage speculation he might challenge Carter for the Democratic presidential nomination and said he expects the issue to be fully debated in the 1980 race.

"It already is an issue," Brown told reporters. "It was an issue in my campaign for governor. I don't think it's going to go away." He called on Carter to "give up his idea of streamlining the licensing process of nuclear reactors."

The president is proposing legislation to shorten the time to get approval to build and and licence a nuclear plant.

Turnout for Barrett here Sunday night was the biggest of the campaign so far

Arena Bulging at Seams As Barrett Attracts 8,000

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

NDP leader Dave Barrett drew the biggest crowd of the provincial election campaign here Sunday night and delivered his shortest speech.

Some of the 8,000 at Memorial Arena were disappointed with the 15-minute abbreviated version of his now-standard campaign address, but for the most part the wildly cheering crowd of partisan supporters were delighted.

At the Social Credit rally in the arena Tuesday, Premier Bill Bennett spoke for about 70 minutes to a crowd of about 3,100.

Organizers said the Dave Barrett and Friends event was intended as an entertainment evening, not a standard political rally as the May 10 election day draws nearer.

But those who waited through the second set of musical performers to hear what they thought would be the second half of Barrett's speech, were disappointed again.

Barrett's second appearance at 10 p.m. was simply a brief visit on stage to join in a chorus of the Canadianized version of the Woody Guthrie classic: This Land Is Your Land.

By 7 p.m. is was evident to rally organizers they had badly misjudged the number who would attend. A half hour before the event was scheduled to begin, every available seat in the stands and on the floor with a view of the stage was full.

The curtain backdrop behind the stage was quickly removed, putting politicians and performers in a theatre-in-the-round situation, but allowing those behind to see, if not hear.

The sound system was aimed in one direction and the rally was nearly over before additional speakers were mounted to the rear.

Those in the back also complained about the intensity of the television lights.

But as one organizer shouted cheerfully: "How

Gas Crunch Puts Vegas Into Spin

still pumping gas when the officers got there.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. was expected to sign an executive order today giving the state's 58 counties authority to insitute the odd-even sale days for gasoline.

Under the plan, motorists with license plates ending in odd numbers could buy gas only on odd-numbered dates. Likewise for even-numbered dates.

Los Angeles, Orange and Santa Clara counties already have indicated they will adopt the plan immediately.

President Carter's weekend visit to California coincided with the state's most serious gas shortage so far, and after seeing the long lines at the gas pumps the president asked Energy Secretary James Schlesinger to report by the end of next week on why the California shortages are so acute.

The fuel crisis has also hit buses of the Rapid Transit District, whose drivers complain they are unable to meet schedules because long lines are blocking bus stops.

Topping off seems to be the main strategy in the gas lines. Keeping the fuel gauge on full has become an obsession with motorists often waiting in line for hours for just a few gallons.

Gas containers of every imaginable variety — including milk cartons and trash cans — are hauled to the pumps.

Among those waiting for gasoline Sunday was a woman who spent 6½ hours in her car. She said she got in line at 9:30 a.m. waiting for the station to open at 4 p.m.

Line crashers are greeted by honking horns, irate screams and, sometimes — violence.

AS GAS supplies grow shorter and gas lines grow longer, people line up to fill a variety of containers in a residential section of Los Angeles. U.S. President Carter has order an inquiry into why California has been so hard-hit by the gas shortage.

The remainder of the battalion will be airborne, leaving Pat Bay June 13 in Hercules aircraft from the 435 Squadron, CFB Edmonton.

The exercise will involve all the major military units in Western Canada and include many facets of training, including live firing on ranges. Taking part will be between 3,000 and 4,000 personnel.

Among those taking part will be officers and men from the PPCLI's other two battalions, stationed at Calgary and Winnipeg.

Units will start leaving Wainwright June 14 on conclusion of the exercise and Third Battalion members should all be back in Esquimalt by June 18.

Jail Urged For Parrot

OTTAWA (CP) — Crown prosecutor Douglas Rutherford called today for a substantial jail term for postal union leader Jean-Claude Parrot, found guilty of defying Parliament's back-to-work order.

Rutherford said nothing short of a jail term would deter Parrot and others from defying the laws of Parliament.

He said "if jailing Mr. Parrot for this offence makes a martyr of him, then so be it."

Showdown for Amin?

MASINDI, Uganda (UPI) — Tanzanian-led government forces have thrust into the northwestern corner of Uganda to flush out the last remnants of Idi Amin's army — possibly being led by the deposed dictator himself.

Sweeping in through the northeast, where they overran Soroti, Masindi and adjacent Port Masindi on the Nile river, government soldiers found further evidence of atrocities committed by the retreating Amin troops.

On the outskirts of Masindi a man was found impaled to a tree, a nail driven through his head.

Government and church sources said they feared reprisals against the civilian population by soldiers loyal to Amin. Unofficial estimates said thousands of people may have been slaughtered.

In addition to large numbers of people missing in rural areas, about 500 Western missionaries and nuns are still unaccounted for in the northwest.

Masindi itself was deserted, most shops looted. Local officials said Amin's troops robbed the local bank of a half million dollars before pulling out.

The local artillery barracks appeared to have been hastily abandoned. Artillery pieces, rifles, ammunition and warehouses full of uniforms and boots were left behind. The Tanzanian soldiers helped themselves to new boots after walking most of the 150 miles from the capital of Kampala.

Government forces now control three-fifths of Uganda and the latest advances set the stage for a showdown battle for control of Amin's hometown district.

Ferries Start Extra Runs

The B.C. Ferry Corporation has made a number of changes in its summer schedules to allow more departures on several routes, a spokesman said today.

Corporate communications manager Bill Bouchard said in a news release that in anticipation of a another record season for traffic the ferry authority has pressed all available ships into service to meet peak demands.

The scheduling changes and return of newly-stretched smaller vessels to their routes before summer will enable the corporation to provide "greater lift-off capacity than ever before" in its 19-year history, he said.

Here's the general picture:

Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay: Starting June 15, 20 sailings in each direction plus supplementary service from the Queen of Tsawwassen, which will also call at two Gulf Island ports. This ship will be used to relieve pressure during peak traffic periods. The midnight sailing has been cancelled because it was poorly used last year.

Horseshoe Bay-Departure Bay: Effective May 18, 13 sailings daily in each direction, eight of which will be made by jumbo vessels with capacity for 360 vehicles and 1,500 passengers.

Horseshoe Bay-Langdale: Twelve departures in each direction starting May 18. In addition, an extra round trip will be made Fridays, Sundays and holiday Mondays to carry more traffic during the heavy weekend period. The last scheduled nightly sailing to the Sunshine Coast will be at 11:30 p.m.

Earl's Cove-Saltery Bay, Sunshine Coast: Summer schedule takes effect June 15. With the return of the stretched Powell River Queen and supplementary service supplied by the Pender Queen (which carries no buses), the number of sailings in each direction will be increased to 12. Last sailing to Saltery Bay will be at 10.30 p.m.

The Dog-Cat Boom Proves Tough on the Pets

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

If you ask Wally Stonehouse he'll tell you frankly that society is going to the dogs.

To the cats, too, for that matter.

Stonehouse, a Toronto veterinarian, says we're in the throes of a pet-owning boom.

And while that's great for humans in need of a trusting companion who never talks back, it's posing something of a crisis in the pet world.

The reason is so many pet owners haven't the foggiest notion how to take care of them.

It's become a national concern, so worrisome in fact that 400 pet experts and fanciers from across Canada and the U.S. will gather in Vancouver the end of the month to discuss the problems at the Second Canadian Symposium on Pets and Society.

For three days they'll mull over the central issue: Proper pets for proper people.

Stonehouse, in Victoria to promote the event which is open to the public, says the meeting is really a continuation of the first symposium held in Toronto three years ago. Then the focus was on the responsibilities of pet owners.

This symposium promises to be more analytical, probing deeper into areas touched upon in earlier sessions.

Among the speakers will be Alan Beck, one of the drafters of New York City's controversial Canine Clean-Up Law, and Erika Freidmann of Philadelphia who will talk about her research into how pets help victims of heart attacks. She claims victims who have pets have a higher survival rate.

The major intent of the exercise is to generate greater public awareness of the rights and wrongs in keeping pets.

It's aimed not only at pet owners but also civic officials faced with the task of trying to control a seemingly uncontrollable problem.

Stonehouse says the increase in pet owning is symptomatic of the times and a reflection of changes within society.

For example, there are more single persons than families acquiring pets these days. That's not surprising considering the breakdown in families, high divorce rate, and tendency of young people to move out of home at an earlier age to be on their own.

Smaller dogs and cats are also increasing in popularity largely because of social pressures.

Although the doberman and German shepherd still rank one-two in the U.S., the mini-schnauzer is fast closing the gap. Stonehouse expects the schnauzer, along with breeds such as cocker spaniels, scotties and toy terriers will become the favored canines of the 1980s.

Part of the reason for this change, he says, is economic. Smaller animals cost less to feed. But another factor is the move by more people out of the suburbs and into apartments where large dogs are seldom welcome.

More women, too, are keeping pets and this is reflected in a dramatic surge in interest in cats, particularly purebred varieties such as Burmese, Himalayan, and even exotic species like the rex, manx, and Abyssinian.

But perhaps the most dramatic change is the pet's role in the household.

While years ago the pet served largely a functional purpose — cats as rodent-catchers and dogs for hunting and protection — pets today are often kept for no other reason than as a companion.

Stonehouse says this close relationship is not without perils. Animals have a knack of attuning themselves to the household environment. The way a pet behaves often reveals characteristics of its owner.

If the master is neurotic, so will be his pet.

If a dog bites, don't blame the animal. Look to its owner. You'll probably find an aggressive person with an inferiority complex.

Stonehouse says the most common failing of pet owners is lacking an appreciation of the world as perceived by the pet.

"As much as people care for animals they willingly subject them to the horrors of a hostile environment outside the house," he says.

"The world outdoors to a cat or dog is no picnic. They get hit by cars. They get into accidents. They get chewed up by other dogs.

"If the owners were ever subjected to the same treatment, they'd never survive."

STORMY CHAPTER in recent Saanich history was closed today when a backhoe and bulldozer started tearing up the infamous concrete drainage basin alongside the Colquitz Creek at Interurban Road. Structure was the focus of what became known as the Panama Flats affair. Last November a council row erupted when Saanich learned that the drainage facilities had been built illegally on municipal land by potato farmers Ian and Michael Vantreight, sons of Ald. Geoff Vantreight. At the time Vantreight was chairman of council's bylaw enforcement committee. Amid calls for an official inquiry, Vantreight senior refused to resign his council seat. But the Vantreights were given until June 30 to remove the drainage basin and today's work assured that the deadline will be met. The cost? "Ask me when it's finished," said Ian Vantreight. Shriners Spend $1½ Million Here

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Victoria's economy continues to improve, bolstered by $1.5 million in spending by the Shriners' convention last week, local Canada Employment Centre manager Wally Pickering said today.

He said the 3,000 delegates spent about $500 each during their four-day visit. Most of them were accompanied by their wives, making a total of 5,000 visitors for the city.

Most of the money was spent in local hotels, restaurants and stores.

Pickering said it was disappointing the city did not do more to make them welcome by putting up banners and signs.

"We tend to take too much for granted in Victoria," he said. "We think the visitors will just keep coming back without any effort on our part."

More must be done if Victoria wants to become a major convention city, he added.

Victoria's tourist season began in April, one month earlier than usual, with revenues 10 per cent higher than the same month one year ago.

Hotels and restaurants were busy, especially in the downtown area. The surge created openings for 30 chefs and cooks plus 50 waiters or waitresses during the month.

The surge continued through the first week of May.

Pickering said a survey by CEC information officer Dan Bowes showed the economy improved on a number of fronts:

— Real estate sales are strong with 306 properties sold under Multiple Listing Service during April, up from 262 in the same month one year ago. Sales were worth $19.5 million, up from $17.2 million. There were 661 properties listed during the month and 306 sold for a sales-to-listing ratio of 46 per cent.

— Stores in the Victoria area reported revenues up five per cent with heavy demand for furniture and large appliances.

— Burrard Yarrows Corp. shipyard increased its work force to 775. This total may dip to 600 by month's end but will rise again in June when work begins on a new ferry. The work force will continue to increase, probably peaking in September.

— About 1,500 are employed in local sawmilling plants and, barring a labor dispute, this total is expected to be maintained for at least six months.

— Some improvement is noted in construction although this area still lags. There is increasing optimism because of recent announcements about hospital construction and the promised convention centre.

With the real estate surge, some carpenters may soon find employment building new houses. The stock of new homes has almost disappeared because of heavy demand.

The CEC farm labor office reported a heavy demand for tree planters and greenhouse workers in April. There is a continuing demand for farm mechanics, dairy herdsmen and licensed pesticide applicators.

The local fish cannery is awaiting the coho season which begins in June.

There has been no increase in government hiring and competition is keen for the few openings that become available.

Apology Sought By Ruff

B.C. Human Rights Branch director Kathleen Ruff has asked a Human Rights Commission member to apologize for saying a branch officer should be fired.

Ruff said today that remarks made recently by commission member Jock Smith were unjustified and uncalled for.

At a public meeting April 3, Smith said branch officer Ajit Mehat should be dismissed for his handling of a sex-discrimination case. The case is in the hands of a provincial board of inquiry.

Ruff said Smith was wrong in saying Mehat had mishandled the case.

"The officer was competent and impartial in handling that case," said Ruff, "and there is nothing to suggest otherwise."

"I think it's a serious matter when a commission member makes threats about an officer who's just doing his job."

Gasoline No Worry For Pre-1971 Cars

Worried because gasoline for your pre-1971 car is getting scarce?

Don't be. In most cases you can use the new unleaded fuel mixed with regular gas without harming your engine.

A bulletin from B.C. Automobile Association shows that Husky and Chevron are about the last to supply premium grade leaded gasoline, specified for most high-compression engines before the advent of pollution control.

The tetraethyl lead contained in premium gas is necessary for proper combustion and to prevent ping and dieseling.

But service station operator Fred Greening said dieseling — when the engine continues to fire irregularly after the ignition switch is cut — is not harmful though it is disturbing.

People using regular gas or unleaded fuel can experience both, depending upon their individual engine requirements, timing and carburetor settings.

Most oil companies are supplying super unleaded gasoline which is supposed to accommodate pre-1971 cars. But they recommend putting one-half to one-quarter of a tank of regular gas in it every fourth or fifth tankful to maintain a level of lead.

Greening said many customers successfully mix regular and unleaded 50-50.

Language Centre for UVic

The University of Victoria is using $200,000 worth of federal grants to develop a language centre.

The centre, on the lower floor of the Clearihue Building's new fourth wing, consists of three classroom laboratories and one study laboratory.

J.G. Seidel, the centre's new technical director, is supervising the move of equipment from the old language and listening laboratories in the MacLaurin Building.

The new centre is slightly larger than the MacLaurin labs and contains sophisticated equipment purchased with the federal money.

New equipment includes a speech analysis machine and a simulataneous translation machine as well as video-recording equipment and research materials.

Barge Hung Up

A barge that tipped over in Saanich Inlet last Thursday was still leaning against the side of the freighter Chavez today while lawyers tried to sort out legal details.

The Chavez, on charter to Ocean Cement Ltd., was unloading gypsum onto the unmanned barge.

A Vancouver spokesman for the company said today he could give no details of how the barge and freighter will be freed because lawyers for Ocean Cement and the shipping company which owns Chavez are still trying to decide what is to be done.

Meanwhile, the 24,000-ton freighter Chi Trust was loading lumber at Crofton today ater receiving minor damage to her bottom plates when she hit the beach Saturday morning.

A spokesman for Canadian Transport Co., which is chartering the Hong Kong-registered ship, said the ship was freed at high tide about noon Saturday and is expected to leave for Tokyo on Tuesday.

Saanich's Braintrust Is Alive But Not Well

The brainstorming committee created by Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier to ponder long-range planning is still alive but unwell.

The mayor confirmed the diagnosis today.

There has been no meeting of the committee for several weeks and he said there won't be until he can bring forward written suggestions for it to play a more effective role.

Couvelier set up the so-called policy and management committee of three aldermen and senior officials under his chairmanship five months ago. At the time he said the committee's value would be assessed after a six-month trial period.

But the mayor denied today he is thinking of scrapping the whole idea.

"It's just that I haven't been too happy with the kinds of items we have been considering," he added.

"In retrospect I think it's as much my fault as anyone's because I didn't do a good enough job of laying out the terms of reference."

Couvelier said he is now in the process of drafting a report which will attempt to define more clearly the kinds of items and issues he wanted the committee to tackle.

"It all relates to financial planning," he added. "The thing that has traditionally worried me is our inability to come to grips with long-range financial planning."

Initially the committee met in-camera but after criticism from several quarters, including community groups, its meetings were opened to the press and public.

Serving on the committee are Aldermen John Mika, David Paterson and Howard Sturrock, together with municipal administrator William Tremayne, controller-treasurer Roy Broughton and engineer Clifford Warren.

The Quick Brown Fox Wouldn't Jump

CHIEF AMONG THE tools of my trade is my typewriter, and when that fails me, I'm crippled. I was two-fingering my way through a job of work a while ago when a glance at the paper rolled into my machine revealed that all was not well. The lines had a gap-toothed look. Where a letter 'H' was called for, a bland space met the eye.

A type-bar, crystallized into metal fatigue by millions of words pounded out, had snapped.

Something of the sort put me out of commission last year, but the Fort Street genius who doctors ailing typewriters was able to come up with a spare part from his box of oddments. This new breakdown was more serious. My ancient Olivetti was one of only 200 made in its model: a replacement type-bar would have to come from Montreal, and it was doubtful if they'd have one even there.

Also, the typewriter man pointed out, this sort of thing was going to keep on happening. Other type-bars would fall victim to age and weariness. Much better if I accepted the inevitable and bought a new one.

So my wife and I went looking for new machines.

At once, it became apparent that in this matter, I had been living a Rip Van Winkle existence. Back when I bought the Olivetti, electric typewriters were still in the nature of novelties, reserved for office use. But time had wrought changes. Now, I discovered, non-electrics were reduced to a few little foreign-made portables.

Win seated herself in front of a large, impressive-looking electric. She turned it on. It set up a subdued humming. She rippled her fingers across the keyboard, effortlessly producing a "Quick brown fox jumped over the lazy dog's back."

"Try it," Win said. "It's nice."

I sidled in behind the gentley-purring monster and poised my fingers over the keys. The humming continued; the thing seemed to be waiting impatiently for me to produce words.

The effect was demoralizing. I couldn't even come up with a "Quick brown fox."

"It's no use," I said, backing away from the electric. "I couldn't work on that."

"You could always turn it off between thoughts," Win said. But she spoke without conviction.

We resumed our search for a non-electric typewriter. The prospects were daunting. Nobody seemed to be making the things any more.

Finally, disconsolate over our complete lack of success, we wandered into the Times building. The editor I called on was sympathetic.

"Here's how we do it now," he said, and took me into a news-room much changed from the noisy, cluttered cavern I once frequented.

Deadline was near. The reporters were ginding out their stories. Each was his own printer, operating a little computer that suckled from a big computer a floor or two removed. It was an awesome, and to me, a distressing sight.

"But I think we've still got a couple of the old machines kicking around," the editor said.

In the back of a storeroom to which it had been exiled, he turned up a non-electric, manually-operated typewriter.

We hoisted it off its shelf and carried it out to the light.

It was a large, foursquare Underwood, built solid as the Rock of Ages. Successive generations of reporters had labored out their storeis on it. It carried no date, but it was so old that the letters on its key-tabs bad been worn away.

I rolled a couple of sheets of copy paper into it. At once, we established an entente. It had precisely the hard-mouthed, ornery feel that I like in a typewriter.

It is mine now on loan, and though my Olivetti has come back repaired, I like to keep that solid old Underwood handy.

Its presence reminds me of an obscure proverb: "Everything changes, but everything remains the same." I'm not sure I understand it, but somehow it's reassuring.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market fell sharply in active mid-afternoon trading Monday.

Trading in shares of Dome Mines Ltd. resumed at noon following a halt at the opening to permit an offer by Dome Petroleum Ltd. Dome Petroleum bought 547,183 shares of Dome Mines at $120 a share. Dome Mines rose 4⅞ to $119 by 2 p.m.

Trading halts continued in shares of Abacus Cities Ltd. and Imperial General Properties Ltd. pending an announcement. Abacus Cities last traded at $1.40 and Imperial General at $16.

Trading in Brascan Ltd. A, which last traded at $24¼, was to resume at 2:30 p.m. with permission of the Ontario Securities Commission.

The Toronto Stock Exchange said new common shares of Sherritt Gordon Mines Ltd. will be posted for trading at the opening Tuesday with a par value of $1.00 each. They will replace the currently listed class A and B shares. Shareholders ratified the re-designation of shares on April 20.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly for the second straight session, depressed by expectations of higher interest rates.

Recent expansion of the money supply has led the Federal Reserve Board to tighten credit, and brokers said more moves in that direction are likely.

In particular, there was talk that they might soon raise its discount rate — the rate it charges on loans to its member commercial banks.

Rising interest rates are considered a negative influence on stock prices because they increase the attractiveness of interest-bearing securities, such as shares of money-market funds, which compete with stocks for investors' money.

Ruling Groups In Iran Purged

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Iran's Islamic authorities have embarked on nationwide purge of the free-wheeling committees or "komitehs" composed of mullahs and gunmen ruling the cities, a top religious official said today.

Ayatollah Syed Javad Gharavi, deputy chief of the central revolutionary organization set up by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, said komiteh members found guilty of counterrevolutionary acts would be tried in provincial Islamic courts.

"Some committees guilty of improper acts or violations have been dealt with strongly," Gharavi said in the Ayendegan newspaper.

The number of committees throughout Iran was not known. But in Tehran alone there are 14 major committees and 1,500 secondary ones. Until recently, a committee could arrest anyone on suspicion, raid any house or seize property and be answerable only to a secret revolutionary council.

Public protest and the intervention by the prosecutor-general undercut the committees, sharply curtailing their activities.

The purge was ordered by Khomeini to answer the criticism and avoid possible sabotage of the revolutionary network by "counter-revolutionaries."

About 170 men, including former Prime Minister Amir Abbas Hoveyda and the shah's top generals, have been executed since the committees began operating after the February revolution.

The revolutionary courts, the "judicial" wing of the committees, have been the target of criticism for meting out arbitrary justice.

Khomeini ordered the committees be "cleansed of corrupt elements" and not abolished to continue as the main bulwark of support to his revolution.

Austrians Return Kreisky Gov't

VIENNA (AP) — Austrian voters, apparently pleased with nine years of prosperity under Chancellor Bruno Kreisky, Sunday gave his Socialist government a mandate for four more years.

Based on preliminary final returns in the national election, the Socialists increased their majority in the 183-seat parliament by three seats, to 96, officials announced.

The opposition Austrian People's party, led by former banker Dr. Josef Taus, dropped four seats for a new total of 76 and the right-of-centre Freedom Party, under the leadership of Graz Mayor Alexander Goetz, gained one for a new total of 11 seats, the returns showed.

The Communist party, which has not held a parliamentary seat in 20 years, again was denied a role in the legislature.

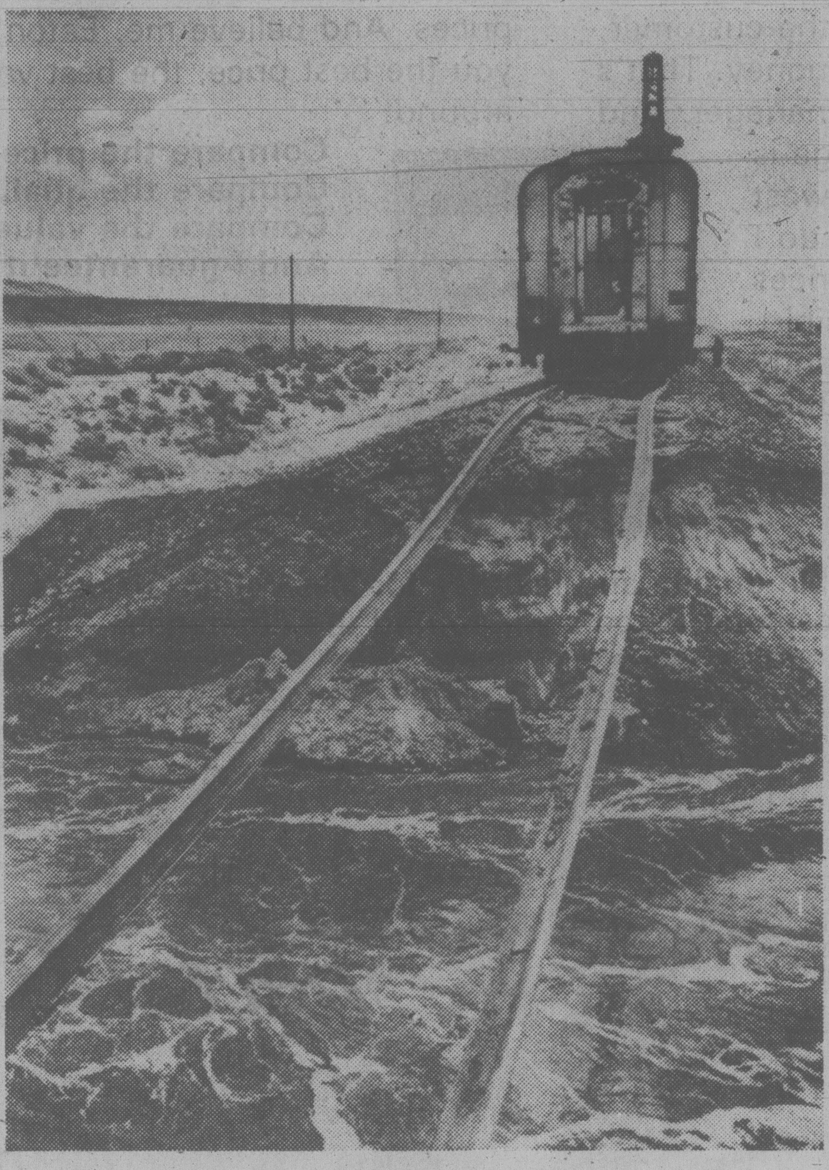
Predictions before the vote by 5.2 million Austrians were for a closer race, with the Socialists possibly losing their majority. If that happened, Kreisky had vowed, he would not join any coalition.

The 68-year-old, highly popular Kreisky, whose slogan was "Kreisky — Austria Needs Him," campaigned on his record. The national unemployment rate is low, inflation is only 3.8 per cent and there has been virtually no labor unrest in the neutral country of 7.5 million people.

But Austria has paid for its average annual economic growth of four per cent with increasing budget deficits and a sharp jump in the national debt.

Taus, who has promised co-operation with the Socialist majority, had hoped to capitalize on those debts. The former chief of the country's second-largest bank, Gironzentrale, he promised a gradual reduction in the $3.57-billion budget deficit, lower national indebtedness, greater investment incentives and a ban on tax increases.

Victory wave by Chancellor Kreisky



Amtrak train tracks hang over washed out roadbed

Amtrak Derailed, 38 People Injured

KENNEWICK, Wash. (UPI) — Police checked a washed-out rural road Sunday, but they neglected to look at nearby railroad tracks. An hour later, Amtrak's Empire Builder passenger train derailed when it hit a 30-foot gap in the roadbed.

Thirty-eight people were injured and nine were hospitalized when 10 cars of the Empire Builder flew off the tracks six miles west of Kennewick.

Railroad officials said the hospitalized victims were in good or fair condition.

The 13-car train carrying 90 passengers and a crew of 15 was bound for Seattle from Chicago.

A leaking 250-gallon tank carrying propane gas for the train's heating system was plugged by firefighters.

At 3:20 a.m. Sunday — about an hour before the accident — police were about 100 yards away, investigating a road washout caused by water flowing through a burst irrigation dike.

But Capt. Terry Perkins of the Benton County Sheriff's office said no one thought to check the condition of the tracks south of the road, although everyone knew the tracks were there.

Officials said a dike holding the main canal of the Kennewick Irrigation District burst sometime during the night, sending torrents of water across the Badger Canyon Road and washing away the rail roadbed on the other side of the road.

Passenger Glenn Bush of Havre, Mont., said the fact the track held together during the accident probably saved many lives.

"One car was right straddling the washout, and the rails were bowed under and they were still there, still together," Bush said.

Majorie Bruesch of Freeport, Ill., said passengers knew something was going to happen.

"About the third or fourth jerk you kept waiting for the big crash," she said. "You felt sure it was coming. Fortunately it didn't. It just stopped and we looked around and everyone was fine in our car."

Amtrak spokesmen said trains would be routed around the accident site until the wreck was cleared and the track and roadbed repaired.

Meanwhile, the 550 residents of Sunset Bay, N. Y., returned to their homes Sunday after work crews loaded two railway tanker cars full of potentially explosive vinyl chloride onto flatbed cars without incident.

The people were evacuated Friday as a precautionary measure after a derailment involving the tanker cars, although the tankers were not leaking the toxic chemical.

The cars derailed Thursday night on a bridge over Dead Creek and fell through an opening between the two tracks. They came to rest with one end of each car nosing into creek mud below while the other ends reared in the air, resting against part of the bridge.

Twenty-one cars of the 139-car freight jumped the tracks.
